Green Berets Shot By Viet Friendlies

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese Rangers today assaulted a U.S. Special Forces building at Hon Quan, 70 miles north of Saigon, and two Americans were wounded, reliable sources said.

Tempers flared, informants said, after trouble had been building up during the week.

These sources said the Rangers used two armored personnel carriers to knock down part of the wall at the recreation club used by the members of the Green Beret Special Forces team stationed at Hon Quan, then fired into the building with automatic weapons.

There have been reports of friction between some South Vietnamese Rangers and American troops in the region of the last few weeks, and the incident today was believed to be the climax of bitterness on both sides. One account said an American soldier had been killed in a club there recently, and that a South Vietnamese soldier had been beaten up in retaliation.

AFTER DIEF LASHING

Day-Night Sessions Off

OTTAWA — The government has abandoned its plan to have the Commons begin 24-hour sittings Monday, Government House Leader McIlraith said today.

BENSON

"... Unless Dief comes up with something new," the House will proceed with normal sitting hours, he said.

Formal notice of motion that Commons sittings would continue without a break until passage of an interim supply bill was given Thursday — before Revenue Minister Benson announced the necessary funds to meet government bills had been found.

Mr. McIlraith said the original move was "a very good one in the circumstances."

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker had denounced the proposed round-the-clock sittings as a Liberal move to embarrass him at the national Conservative convention, which starts here Monday.

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters that the government is hoping he will be removed as Conservative leader at the convention here.

The government proposed to "operate by exhaustion." The move was an attempt to force the armed forces unification bill — the issue blocking passage of the supply bill — down the throats of parliamentarians.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government had led the public all week to believe civil servants would not be paid unless the supply bill was approved. Then Thursday Revenue Minister Benson, who "must have forgotten his sock until last night," announced that the necessary funds had been found.

"If I were looking for an issue on which the Canadian people would express themselves strongly, I couldn't think of a better one than the government's treatment of Parliament," the Tory leader said.

Having failed to "shove unification down our throats," the government is now trying to undermine Parliament using

Spanish Civil War All Over

MADRID (AP) — The Spanish government today decreed amnesty on all political charges dating from the civil war of 27 years ago.

A decree published in the official gazette over the signatures of Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state, and his justice minister provided the amnesty and ordered a special commission responsible for liquidation of the old political charges to implement it.

Officials would not say exactly how many Spaniards were affected by the decree. Few, if any, were believed still in prison. Most had been convicted of political crimes connected with the civil war, which cost Spain 1,000,000 lives, then given provisional liberty or parole. The war ended in April, 1939.

Sun Eclipse Photographed During Final Gemini Flight

Hatch Opened For Clear Look

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Edwin E. (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. poked his head outside the Gemini 12 spacecraft for more than two hours and 15 minutes today and snapped pictures of the stars and earth.

At one point, as Aldrin remarked about the "beautiful view," command pilot James A. Lovell Jr. quipped:

The final Gemini excursion, during which the heart and respiration rates of the two pilots remained remarkably normal, was a highlight of a day in which Lovell and Aldrin turned space-age astronomers, photographing celestial bodies.

Their trip will be followed by the Appollo series aimed at putting an American on the moon.

They started by photographing the moon as it moved across the sun in a spectacular solar eclipse, the first time this has been done in space.

Aldrin opened the spacecraft hatch at 11:15 a.m. EST and stayed outside for more than 1½ revolutions of the globe, about 41,000 miles at an altitude of about 175 miles.

SPACE WALK SUNDAY

During two night-time passes he was businesslike with the delicate job of photographing selected star fields.

He had some leisure time during a 55-minute daylight pass and carried on a running, often-humorous, commentary with Lovell and with ground stations.

"Tell everybody to smile down there," Aldrin told Mission Control Centre in Houston, Tex., as he prepared to take a picture of Texas.

Over Florida he said: "There's the Cape (Kennedy). I'd like to go skin-diving down there. . . . Looks like a few clouds over the Cape."

Aldrin reported at the outset that he had a slight tendency to float up when the hatch was first opened, probably because of the escape of residual air and gases in the cabin.

The moon, sun and stars occupied Aldrin and Lovell during their second day in orbit. They were busy shutterbugs as they

Air Walkout Nearer As Talks Break Down

MONTREAL (CP)—Talks to avert a scheduled strike that would close down Air Canada Monday for the first time in 29 years were suspended early today but a mediator said he will meet separately with both sides to submit proposals.

Richard Geddes of Toronto, mediator in the dispute involving about 5,200 machinists, said there was "nothing further to discuss so the talks broke off."

Negotiations between airline representatives and the International Association of Machinists were held Friday night and early today at a downtown hotel but Mr. Geddes said the sessions were unproductive.

"We had been meeting for days and could not reach an agreement."

No details of the proposals to be submitted today were given and airline and union spokesmen declined to comment on the latest moves.

The machinists have been demanding a wage increase of 20 per cent over one year. Their top pay rate now is $3.17 an hour.

The airline has offered 40 cents an hour—about 12 per cent—in wage increases over three years and an additional 3½ per cent in fringe benefits in the first year.

The strike deadline Monday is 4 p.m. local standard times across the country.

All Air Canada freight was embargoed at midnight Friday. Under the arrangement, shipments destined for outside Canada and those coming into the country will not be accepted by the airline.

However, at least six smaller companies had applied to the Air Transport Board for permission to handle additional pas-

AT BEAUTY SCHOOL

Youth Slays 5

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — An 18-year-old high school senior forced seven women and girls to lie face down on the floor of a beauty school today and shot them in the heads, killing five.

Police Sgt. Ray Gomez said Robert Smith of Mesa admitted the shooting and told him he first got the idea after reading of mass killings elsewhere.

Killed were Mrs. Joyce Sellers, 27, and her 3½-year-old daughter, Debra; Mary Margaret Olsen and Glenda Carter, all of Mesa, and Carol Farmer, Williams Air Force Base.

Mrs. Sellers' three-month-old daughter, Tammy Lynn, was critically wounded. An employee of the school, Bonita Sue Harris, was wounded less seriously.

★ ★ ★

The gunman forced the women to lie in a circle, as spokes of a wheel, and calmly walked around the outside shooting each in the back of the head.

Smith was arrested at the scene and taken, laughing to the police station.

Gomez said that after being apprised of his constitutional rights, Smith told him this story:

He first thought of returning to his home town, Houston, Mo., for a mass killing, but gave up the idea. Then he thought of invading a school and killing the teachers, but discarded that one, too.

★ ★ ★

He finally decided on the Rose-Mar College of Beauty because there would be many people there.

He bought 200 feet of nylon cord, some large plastic sandwich bags and two hunting knives. He planned to tie up the people and suffocate his victims, but found the bags were too small.

He arose at 6:30 a.m. today and walked 1½ miles to the school, but he discovered he was too early.

Dief Using House to Save Leadership?

By PETER NEWMAN

OTTAWA—The mini-men who sit in the House of Commons and pretend they're running the nation's business, turned this past week from futile bickering to extravagant political farce.

Newman

There was John Diefenbaker, the prairie prophet who had come to power pledging he would restore "the rights of Parliament," trying to manipulate the delaying devices embedded in the parliamentary system, to save his party leadership.

There was Lester Pearson, the supreme fixer, who had come to office promising he would re-establish "the administrative efficiency of government," somehow scraping together $7 million to stave off a crisis that should never have happened.

The debate on Paul Hellyer's armed forces unification bill, which has now gone on for nine days, was marked by bewilderment on both sides of the Commons about how rational decisions can be reached and translated into political action.

Hellyer and his supporters viewed the whole row with disbelief, confident in their conviction that unification is in the interest of efficiency and is therefore unassailable by rational men.

OLD ARROGANCE

The defence minister's stubborness of manner in propounding this view crystalized in the minds of the members of the opposition the feeling that this was the old arrogance of the St. Laurent-Howe days come to life once more.

It's perfectly true, as Mr. Hellyer keeps repeating, that there has been plenty of opportunity for debate on his unification plans.

But it's equally true that a minority government, which by definition does not enjoy the full confidence of the people, must go more than half way to meet demands for full disclosure, so that its actions never appear tyrannical.

The fact that both sides have dug themselves into very nearly inextricable positions, demonstrated again the very different views the two major parties seem to hold of the parliamentary process.

The Conservative leader and his closest cohorts behave as if the House of Commons were an ante-room of power, a place from which the people can be maintained in a state of political excitement until the next election campaign.

The Liberals, particularly the senior members of the cabinet, act as if Parliament were a time-consuming stockholders' meeting, obstructing their administrative dream of running the country without the prying interference of opposition critics.

STUDENT'S CLAP

The week's sanest moment occurred on Tuesday afternoon when Heward Grafftey, the young Quebec Tory, complained "this place is becoming absolutely meaningless," and was applauded by students in the public galleries.

It was one of those rare occasions when the MPs, looking up at the taunting

RUSSIANS WALK OUT OF CHINESE RALLY

PEKING (Reuters)—Diplomats of the Soviet Union and its East European allies today walked out of a mass rally marking the centenary of the birth of Sun Yat-sen, the Chinese revolutionary leader.

Speaking to 10,000 persons in the vast 'great hall of the people," Premier Chou En-lai had accused the present Soviet leaders of betraying Lenin and the Russian revolution.

Most of China's top leaders except Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his heir-apparent Lin Piao were at the rally, held to honor the memory of the man who overthrew the Manchu dynasty in 1911.

They must have realized that in the past decade of their discontent, power has mysteriously oozed away from Ottawa, and that even Parliament's best debates have now taken on an air of irrelevance and unreality. Like courtiers involved in ceremonial rituals whose meaning has been lost, the MPs then spent the rest of the week unleashing a torrent of words, in an unrelieved search for some purpose to their fury.

RESENTMENT

The debate could hardly have come at a more opportune time for the Diefenbaker partisans among the Tories. Paul Hellyer's habit of either lecturing to the House, or disdainflly dismissing opposition claims, has roused such resentment that even the most anti-Diefenbaker Conservatives feel strongly that the unification bill should go to a parliamentary committee before its second reading.

They point out that this is one of those unusual occasions when the opposition should not be forced to vote for or against the principles of a bill, until they've had a better chance to study exactly what these principles are.

At the same time, they're afraid of being put in a position of opposing their leader on the issue, because this would allow him to go before the party's annual meeting next week and claim that he had tried to push Hellyer's bill into a committee and the "Camp-followers" had betrayed him.

ONLY LIGHT

The outcome of the Conservative convention now depends on what kind of agenda Dalton Cam's supporters can get approved by the party's national executive, which is meeting in Ottawa on Sunday. Camp can still carry the day, if he can get the election of officers (which is by secret ballot) on the agenda for sometime Tuesday, before John Diefenbaker gets a standing vote of approval of his leadership. Only eight of the 21 members of the resolutions committee, which drafted the Diefenbaker-slanted confidence motions late this week, were known Camp supporters. But on the national executive, Camp is thought to have a slim majority.

This was already evident last year at a national executive meeting when only the abstention of the party's principal officers from voting on Leon Balcer's call for a leadership convention saved Diefenbaker's position.

If Dalton Camp is re-elected president of the PC Association, he'll declare that he has won his mandate for a reassessment of the party's leadership, and call a convention to pick John Diefenbaker's successor for November, 1967, two years from the date of the last general election.

On the eve of the Tory annual meeting, it still looks as though Camp will have his way, but political conventions have an alchemy all their own. And as this week in the House of Commons showed, in contemporary Canadian politics, anything can happen.

methods with political overtones, he said.

As far as dredging up the necessary $7 million to pay salaries and urgent accounts, that was nothing more than blackmail and gross deception. Mr. Diefenbaker said.

He found it difficult to credit that after days of so-called crisis the government had suddenly been able to discover the necessary money to carry on.

The government's economic practices at best must be either stupid or inefficient, said Mr. Diefenbaker.

"The government has made mistakes before but never has it been shown up for its hypocrisy as in the last few days."

The Conservatives have been pressing the government to send the forces unification bill to committee before the measure gets second reading—approval in principle. The government insists the bill get second reading first, then further debate can follow in committee.

Mr. Pearson said his government will stake its life on the bill.

BENNETT BASKING IN SUN

Premier Bennett has exchanged chilly and blustery B.C. weather for the more temperate climate of California.

He flew there Thursday with vacationing Earle Westwood, B.C. agent general in London. They were to meet in San Francisco with Newton Steacy, B.C. Trade Commissioner in California. Then Mr. Bennett was to relax for a few days at Palm Springs.

He returns Friday and will attend a special cabinet meetingg next Saturday at Fort Langley, part of mainland centennial celebrations.

He saw an employee enter the school and followed her inside.

He took a .22-calibre pistol from a paper bag, but no one paid any attention to him. He then fired one shot into a large plate glass mirror and ordered everyone to the back room.

He said one of the seven women turned her head and told him: "There's going to be 40 people here in a few minutes."

He said he told her he was sorry, but he hadn't brought enough ammunition to take care of them.

One of the women jumped around after he shot her, he said, so he stabbed her in the back with the hunting knife.

Mrs. Eveline Cummins, who operates the college, said she heard a man's voice "and a funny popping noise" as she walked in the front door. She looked in the back room, saw Smith with a gun, and ran next door to call police.

In addition, the CNR, CPR, bus companies and Canadian Pacific Airlines said they would be able to handle a larger number of passengers than normally. However, reservations for travel next week on some main inter-city runs were becoming difficult to obtain.

OFFICES STAY OPEN

Air Canada will keep its ticket offices open, even if the strike does take place, to help travellers find accommodations with other carriers.

Air Canada President Gordon McGregor told union negotiators Friday that he is not going to premit the company's profit position to change because of union demands. It had a net profit of $3,989,960 in 1965.

He said the company is most unwilling to accept demands which will amount to a $15,000,000 pay increase and put the airline in the red.

"I don't intend to see the company put in that position," Mr. McGregor said.

Air Canada spokesmen said air mail deliveries in Canada normally handled by the company probably would be taken over by other air lines in the event of a strike.

Airmail operations to and from overseas would be taken over by the national airlines of the countries concerned.

Any strike will halt all flights into and out of Victoria once it starts.

There are six flights to Vancouver and two to Seattle on Monday.

Quebec To Control Expo. Room Rates

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson announced Friday that during the next session of the legislature the government will present legislation to control lodging prices in Montreal during Expo 67.

The announcement, in the form of an official written statement from the premier's office, confirmed what Tourism Minister Gabriel Loubier and Mr. Johnson himself had said verbally on numerous occasions during the last several months.

Union Takes Exception To O'Neal Statements

A Canadian pulp workers' union said today an official of the rival International union "had no alternative" but to say he welcomed and would cooperate with a royal commission.

The statement by the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada followed comments from Pat O'Neal, regional organizer for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Premier Bennett ordered the royal commission after bugging devices were placed in hotel rooms occupied by the Canadian union for its convention in Vancouver.

Mr. O'Neal said he hired a private investigator to get evidence of efforts by the Canadian union to intimidate members of his union. He denied he knew bugging devices were to be used.

The Canadian union said in a statement:

"Our union would like to make it clearly understood that the only reason it is concerned with the bugging of our convention is that it doesn't appreciate the privacy of its meetings being violated.

"It did, however, take exception to the innuendoes that have been printed and heard on radio and television.

"We find it hard to believe that anyone can be so gullible as to believe any of Pat O'Neal's statements when, in fact, he denied any knowledge of any of the aspects of the bugging until such time as the investigator he hired decided to talk.

"He then had no alternative but to say he would co-operate and welcome a royal commission so as to try and better his own position.

"It is actions such as these plus many others that led us to form the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada."

The royal commission, under retired county court Judge R. A. Sargent, is expected to start hearings next week.

The Canadian union was formed in January, 1963, and has five locals with 2,000 members in B.C. The international represents about 6,000 pulp workers in the province.

An almost parallel breakaway occurred in the U.S. in 1964 when the Western Association of Pulp and Paper Workers took over bargaining rights for 21,000 workers from Pulp-Sulphite and the United Papermakers and Paperworkers.

Charges and denials from both sides have involved such alleged issues as union corruption, lack of internal democracy and communism.

The Canadian union tried to get bargaining rights at four B.C. mills this summer but was turned down by the Labour Relations Board because of technical irregularities.

A later application to decertify the international union at the Harmac mill near Nanaimo also was turned down because the board was not satisfied the international had ceased to represent the employees.

The five locals of the Canadian union are at Crofton, Castlegar, Prince Rupert, Woodfibre and Vancouver.

For 10 minutes they aimed three cameras as the new moon slipped steadily across the face of the sun, briefly blotting it out in a rare total eclipse that lasted seven or eight seconds.

First, and before standing up, Aldrin performed calesthenics for about 30 seconds, moving his hands back and forth from his lap to his helmet at the rate of about once a second. Heart, respiration and other readings were to be compared with those obtained from similar exercise on the ground.

A major goal of the Gemini 12 flight—and Aldrin's three excursions outside — is to learn how effectively man can work in space, a problem that has buffaloed scientists.

Aldrin then stood up and evaluated his ability to perform simple tasks while four tethers held him firmly in his cabin while more loosely tethered Sunday.

HOPE TO FIND ANSWERS

Before speeding out over the Atlantic, Lovell and Aldrin pitched the spacecraft nose down in an apparently unsuccessful effort to photograph the giant 52-mile-wide shadow of the moon as it slid across Peru, Bolivia, Brazil and Argentina.

"We hit the eclipse right on the money," Lovell reported. "But we were unsuccessful in picking up the shadow."

Because of the possibility of eye damage, they were cautioned not to look at the sun. To reduce the danger, they pulled a shade over one window and installed a filter on the other.

They mounted three cameras —two for 16-millimetre movies and one still camera that snapped three pictures of the total eclipse at three different exposures ranging up to four seconds.

For 10 minutes, at an altitude of about 170 miles, the movie cameras recorded a partial eclipse as the moon started to obscure the sun. The total eclipse followed.

The pictures were among more than 1,000,000 that were taken of the rare eclipse—first of its kind in 18 months and only the 39th this century. In all, it was to last three hours, starting in the Pacific west of the Galapagos Islands and ending in the Atlantic southeast of Brazil.

SCIENTISTS AT WORK

Scores of scientists from around the world roamed South American skies in more than two dozen planes, aiming cameras and other equipment at the phenomena. Sounding rockets were fired from bases in Brazil and Argentina and scores of balloons and shipboard cameras were brought into play.

This dramatic treat of nature occurs only when a new moon lines itself directly between the sun and the earth when the moon is at its closest distance to earth.

During the total eclipse, when the moon completely blots out the sun, the solar corona appears, revealing the normally invisible outer layer of the solar atmosphere. Study of the corona and its gases from above the atmosphere could disclose much about the composition of the sun and perhaps provide clues to the origin of the universe.

The rendezvous with the eclipse were inserted in the Gemini 12 flight plan after it once had been erased. A faulty fuel pump on the Agena target satellite forced cancellation of a plan to use the Agena to shoot to an altitude of 450 miles and resulted in a juggling of the plan.

Snow preceding this system in inland areas will decrease to a few flurries in its wake this afternoon. A ridge of high pressure building off short will give mainly sunny weather along the south coast on Sunday and sunny periods elsewhere in the province.

Nazi-Type Party Hunts New Triumphs

HANNOVER (AP) — Rightist leaders of West Germany's new National Democratic party wasted little time congratulating each other on their election success in the state of Hesse last Sunday.

They met at national headquarters here briefly and then hurried on to seek new success in Bavarian state elections Nov. 20.

The party, regarded by many as dangerously close to the Nazi pattern, won 7.9 per cent in the Hesse election and placed eight deputies in the legislature at Wiesbaden.

"We were bound earlier to be successful in Bavaria," declared Deputy Chairman Adolf von Thadden. "Now we can expect an even greater success."

Meanwhile, the rest of the country pondered the significance of the vote gained by the two-year-old party.

"No one should be surprised that there is still a remnant (of old Nazis and rightists) which has been kept down for a long time, or that it would pop up some time or other," commented the respected Frankfurt Allgemeine Zeitung.

"That there is anything quite new here that could influence the policies of the country even indirectly is out of the question."

Other comment spoke of a "warning signal" in Hesse.

Party Chairman Fritz Thielen, a 50-year-old Bremen cement dealer, hammered away in his campaign speeches at foreign investment in West Germany. He mentioned a coal crisis in the Ruhr, which he said resulted from the dumping of foreign oil in Germany, and Germany's failure to achieve reunification 20 years after the Second World War.

He said American and British demands for offset purchases to cover the cost of their troops in Germany only showed the country enjoyed little respect from its present allies.

"Better they should take their troops out of Germany," he cried in one speech, while some 700 cheered.

DENIES IT'S NEO-NAZI

The NPD, while claiming to be nationalistic, denies it is neo-Nazi.

"We are not anti-Semitic, we do not subscribe to the 'fuehrer' principle," a spokesman said. "Anyone who calls us Nazi just doesn't understand what Nazism was."

The law seems to agree with this view. Nazi and neo-Nazi parties are outlawed but there has been no move to outlaw the NPD. In one action, a court ruled it is illegal to call the NPD new-Nazi but there is nothing wrong with calling it a rallying point for old Nazis.

The party's program, expounded in conventions and publications, includes the putting of the German army under German command alone. (West German troops are now under NATO command.)

'Disillusioned During Service Under Hitler'

BONN (AP)—The man who the Christian Democratic party wants to succeed Ludwig Erhard as chancellor of West Germany is a highly successful provincial politician with a knowledge of foreign affairs that goes back to service under Joachim von Ribbentrop, Adolf Hitler's foreign minister.

Kurt Georg Kiesinger, 62, has for the last eight years run the populous and important state of Baden-Wuerttemberg, in southwestern Germany, as its premier. The job is equivalent to that of a provincial premier in Canada.

Baden-Wuerttemberg is in the extreme southwest corner of Germany, between Bavaria and the Rhine River, and has a long border with France. Friends say that as a boy Kiesinger used to look across the Rhine to the Vosges Mountains and wonder why there had to be a frontier between the two countries. Now he is known as an advocate of closer relations between West Germany and President Charles de Gaulle's France.

Tall and silver-haired, Kiesinger enjoys a reputation as an effective orator. He has come under some criticism—much more abroad that at home—because of his service as a foreign ministry official under the Nazis.

Kiesinger was born in Egingen, Wuerttemberg, son of an employee of a business firm. He studied philosophy, history and law and was active in the Roman Catholic student movement at university.

JOINED NAZIS IN 1933

He joined the Nazi Party as a young lawyer in 1933, the year Hitler came to power, but says he grew disillusioned when the dictator had many of his closest followers murdered. He did not quit the party.

In 1940, he says, he was drafted into service at Ribbentrop's foreign ministry. He worked until the end of the war in the radio propaganda department and, by his own account, did "low-level liaison work" with other ministries. In a statement issued Wednesday, he denied he was a contact man between Ribbentrop and Propaganda Minister Josef Goebbels, or that he was in contact with Hitler and other high Nazis.

After the war, Kiesinger went into politics and rose to be chairman of the foreign affairs committee in the Bundestag, lower house of the West German Parliament. Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's first chancellor, once considered him for the job of foreign minister.

In 1958 he quit Bonn and went back to Baden-Wuerttemberg, taking over the premier's post in Suttgart, the state capital. He has been an outstanding political success there.

He is married to the former Luise Schneider. They have two children.

Top Clergyman Backs Ex-Nazi

BONN (AP) — Kurt Georg Kiesinger, who has been under fire because of his Nazi past since he became a top contender for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's job, today claimed the support of one of Germany's leading anti - Nazi Protestant clergymen.

A spokesman for Kiesinger said the churchman, Provost Heinrich Grueber of Berlin, wired Kiesinger his "heartiest blessings" for "your difficult task" after the dominant Christian Democratic party made Kiesinger its candidate for chancellor.

Kiesinger, 62, joined the Nazi party in 1933 and worked in the radio propaganda section of the Nazi foreign ministry. For the last eight years he has been minister-president of the state of Baden-Wurttemberg, a job roughly equivalent to provincial premier in Canada. He is a Roman Catholic.

Grueber, 75, was arrested by the Nazis in 1940 and sent to Dachau and Sachsenhausen concentration camps. Since the Second World War he has been sharply critical of former Nazis in government and was the only German witness at the war crimes trial of Adolf Eichmann in Israel in 1961.

The spokesman for Kiesinger also confirmed a report that Kiesinger had been interned for 16 months by the Allies after the end of the war. He said the internment was part of the Allies' denazification program and was routine.

Kiesinger's principal rival for the chancellorship is West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, who also is leader of the opposition Socialist party. Neither the Christian Democrats nor the Socialists have a majority in the Bundestag by themselves.

ANTI-WAR PROTEST BLOCKED

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of 23 young demonstrators, protesting the war in Viet Nam, were turned back forcibly by the RCMP when they attempted to march on Parliament Hill today after the Remembrance Day ceremony at the National War Memorial.

Two demonstrators had a brief scuffle with Mounties when they found their way blocked. No arrests were made, however, and the marchers eventually walked away.

The demonstrators first attended the war memorial ceremony carrying placards. City police ordered them to put their signs down so people behind could watch the ceremony. The demonstrators complied.

Some of those attending the ceremony had words with the demonstrators, telling them that this was no place or occasion to carry on such a demonstration.

Immediately after the ceremoney, the demonstrators marched to the nearby United States Embassy, across the road from Parliament Hill where war veterans and soldiers were marching past a reviewing stand.

Run-off Election Seen for Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Three federal judges said Friday they will not allow election of a governor by the Georgia legislature to decide the deadlocked race between Republican Howard H. (Bo) Callaway and Democrat Lester G. Maddox.

This raised the prospect of a run-off election within the next month — either by state action or court order.

The court delayed its formal order until next Tuesday. But the judges made plain their intention of voiding the state constitution's provision for a legislative decision.

Neither Callaway nor Maddox received a majority in the general election Tuesday because of a strong write-in vote for former governor Ellis Arnall, a Democrat. Maddox, a racial segregationist, had defeated Arnall, a moderate, earlier for the Democratic nomination.

With all of the state's 1,893 precincts reporting, but with an undetermined number of absentee ballots still to be counted, Maddox had 447,462 votes, Callaway 445,832 and Arnall 57,699.

His 42-year-old wife, Viola and their nine-year-old child were taken to hospital here, 35 miles west of Lethbridge. Mrs. Bohle was in fair condition and the child in good condition.

Back to Square 1

THE OPPOSITION TACTIC OF holding up parliament's approval of temporary appropriations to pay the government's immediate departmental bills was an obvious application of political embarrassment in one field in an effort to achieve an objective in another. The weapon could well prove to be a boomerang now that the government, in some unexplained manner, has found sufficient funds to pay the civil service salaries. Mr. Diefenbaker was out-manoeuvred.

By delaying passage of the money bills, the opposition, led by that master of devious parliamentary manoeuvre, Mr. Diefenbaker, hoped to bring pressure on the government to send Mr. Hellyer's armed services unification bill immediately to committee. Usually a bill is given second reading, indicating approval in principle, before it is turned over to committee for minute examination of all its features. It is then returned to the House for final passage.

The controversial nature of the defence department's measure, however, and the objections that have been raised by many senior officers of the armed forces, have moved the opposition parties to call for an earlier study than is normally given, so that the committee discussions will be made without the ostenstible advantage of previous approval in principle.

The government, with perhaps more than usual insistence on normal procedure, invites some suspicion that it will need all the favorable background it can gather in order to get the measure through the committee stage in recognizable condition.

These are the internal shiftings that appear important to the members of parliament. The people at large are apt to take a much less tolerant view of this quite unnecessary blockage of the country's business. Mr. Diefenbaker was clearly trying to embarrass the government by rousing public protests against delay in paying its November payroll.

The fact is that whether the defence legislation goes to committee before or after approval in principle, the end result will be the same: that is, there will be full opportunity for debate and the testimony of expert witnesses, and the final necessity for parliament's support.

We are back again, then, to the old game of make-the-other-fellow-look-bad. The aging Tory chief, faced with an insurrection in his own ranks, where there is increasing dissatisfaction with his leadership, resorted to the tired old tactic of delay and obfuscation which is the only one he knows. He used it in the flag debate and a dozen other issues within recent memory. This is shameful misuse of the nation's time and money. There was no great principle of parliamentary government involved—merely a politician's effort to create a phony crisis. This country has too many politicians and not enough statesmen.

A Highly Suitable Book Week

THIS YEAR'S THEME FOR Young Canada's Book Week, opening next Tuesday, seems particularly appropriate for the community.

The theme is "Exploring with Books," and the patron, Mr. John F. Hayes, a popular writer of Canadian historical stories and resident of Victoria briefly in his boyhood, lends it special emphasis with his formal message—a reference to the insatiable and healthy appetite for reading which can be cultivated among children.

The special suitability of the theme locally is based on the importance placed by Drs. Downey and Hartrick on the expansion of school libraries in Greater Victoria and the decision of the trustees, acting on the experts' advice, to increase the vote for additional books for the schools in the 1967 budget now being prepared.

The need is recognized officially by the authorities and generally by anyone concerned with the educational growth of our children. And the promise of development is underscored by the experience of school librarians who have found that despite television and other distractions, the young people, even in Grade 8 and lower, are showing a disposition to extend their knowledge and their skills through their reading. From books they learn on their own initiative and frequently with greater enjoyment than when force-fed facts by alternative forms of instruction.

Young Canada's Book Week does not, however, leave the issue solely to the schools and to the pupils. Mr. Hayes takes note of the involvement which must extend to parents: "If Young Canada's Book Week, 1966, is to mean anything of import," he says, "it must stir every father and mother to the realization that their part in it is its chief purpose: that it is no more than to highlight the duty and obligation of every adult to every child . . ." to make books available to the young reader.

To encourage that purpose the Victoria Public Library will conduct its customary promotion during the week ending November 22, with displays and other events.

The Dark Shadow

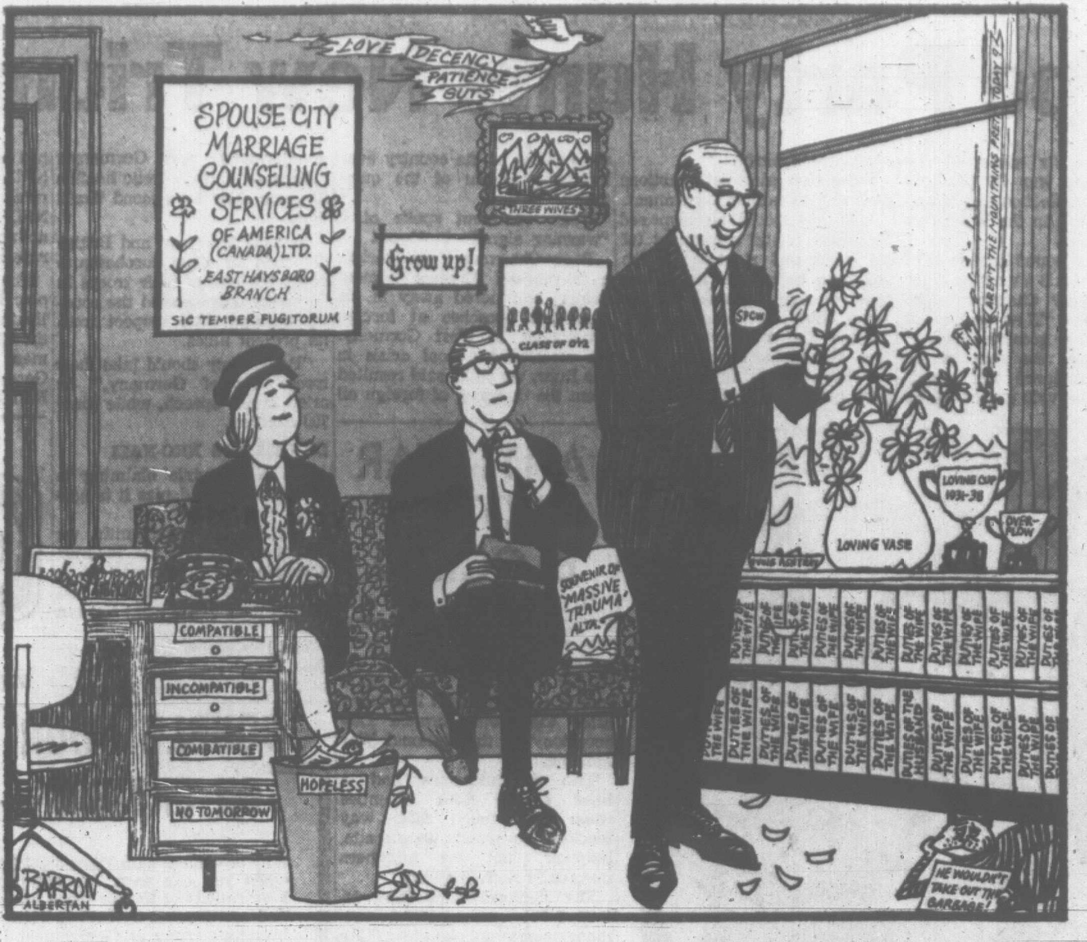
MR. KURT-GEORG KIESINGER may have been the best compromise choice the Christian Democratic Party could come up with to succeed Mr. Ludwig Erhard as West German chancellor but his selection is bound to have repercussions both inside and outside the country.

Mr. Kiesinger, the minister-president of Baden-Wurtemberg, has so far been rather coy about his activities during the Hitler era. He said in a statement that he joined the Nazi party in 1933 but became disillusioned with it the next year. The record shows, however, that he was not so disillusioned that he gave up his party membership. In fact he remained a Nazi until May 8, 1945.

During his 12 years of membership in the party, Mr. Kiesinger held the post of liaison officer between the German Foreign Office and Reichminister Joseph Goebbels' Propaganda Ministry. Later he was appointed an officer in the SA and acted as a "political commissar" within the Wehrmacht. This is all a matter of public record and it is rather naive for Mr. Kiesinger to attempt to cover it up.

Considering the ruthless ways of the Nazis with their opponents, it is not surprising that candidates for high office who have no Hitlerian background are not easily found among the older generation of Germans. It is perfectly possible, too, that Mr. Kiesinger has repented his service to the Nazis and genuinely embraces a democratic credo. But the unexpectedly strong emergence of neo-Nazism as revealed in last Sunday's elections in the state of Hesse is bound to disturb a lot of persons, no less in Germany than outside. The situation is made to order, unfortunately, for the propagandists of East Germany. The propaganda will be cynical, of course, for the East German regime never hesitated to use ex-Nazis when they suited its purpose.

There still remains some doubt as to whether Mr. Kiesinger can muster support outside his own party in his bid for the chancellorship. The Social Democrats have already made it clear that they will reject him and he must, therefore, win over the Free Democrats to obtain a parliamentary majority.



"... they should separate, they should stay together, they should separate, they should stay together, they should . . ."

Past, Future

Sherbrooke La Tribune

L'Union Generale des Etudiants du Quebec (the General Union of Quebec Students) has refused to join with students of other Canadian universities in a program to celebrate the centenary of Confederation through sports, cultural and academic activities.

We can only regret that it gave as a reason the fact that the celebrations would be for a regime which has prevented the French-Canadian nation from developing.

It is only normal for people to feel that the time has come to amend a constitution now more than 100 years old. . . But there is a difference between that and claiming our constitutional system mainly has had the effect of preventing French-Canadians from asserting themselves.

Confederation at least permitted us to survive and it is thanks to it that we are reclaiming today the rights which the Anglo-Saxon element did not steal from us, but which our own compatriots, at the head of the provincial administration, gave up little by little over the last century.

To the young who reflect seriously on our political, social and economic future, may we be permitted to ask this simple question: Without Confederation where would we be today, bearing in mind the North American context? To ask such a question is to throw the door wide open to all sorts of hypotheses. But does not the thought of the future of French descendants in this land of America without Confederation also give birth to a whole world of hypotheses? Let's not forget it.

FROM THE UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

A Hope That the Dove May Alight in Hanoi

UNITED Nations diplomats are looking to the United States for another major peace offensive in Viet Nam this coming Christmas-New Year's holiday.

Frye

They fear, however, that it will be preceded by a step-up in the bombing of North Viet Nam, or at least a broadening of the list of permitted targets to embrace steel and power plants and rail yards previously considered off limits. Such a dual approach — arrows and olive branch being proffered simultaneously by the American eagle — is considered characteristic of the American administration, and of its approach to the war.

Whether it is likely to be good psychology and effective diplomacy in this instance is seriously questioned. Many UN people wish Washington, this time, would try the olive branch alone.

The United States has already gone far in this direction. In recent months, it has offered to halt the bombing if the Communists would pledge some sort — almost any sort — of reciprocal move toward peace.

Together with its allies, Washington has also offered a six-month deadline on a troop withdrawal, the six months to begin when the Communists call off the war.

For its part, the Soviet Union has led Washington to believe it is trying to nudge Hanoi toward peace. The Hungarian Foreign Minister, Janos Peter, has publicly softened what he says are Hanoi's peace terms, and apparently has gone on a personal mission to the North Vietnamese capital.

North Viet Nam's public posture, however, has remained almost as inflexible as before, and Red China has beligerently refused to budge an inch.

The critical differences between Washington and Hanoi are two:

1. The bombing. The Communists insist that it be halted without a threat of renewal. They refuse to pledge any reciprocal action. Washington insists on such a pledge.

2. Troop withdrawal. The Communists want a promise of unconditional American withdrawal. The Manila communique, though ambiguous, not only required a pullout of northern elements in the guerrilla army but appeared to insist that they pull out first, before allied forces began their evacuation.

The common ground on which agreement ultimately must be reached, UN people say, would obviously have to include a total cease-fire, not just a bombing halt, and a simultaneous withdrawal of external forces by both sides.

UN analysts do not believe Hanoi can readily be forced to move in this direction. They doubt, specifically, that a step-up in the bombing would soften the Reds' stand.

For Asian Communists to bow before conspicuous military pressure would be for them to lose both face and influence.

It might perhaps be possible, UN people say, to nudge or lure the Communists toward acceptable common ground if the United States called off the bombing.

Despite sad previous experience with bombing halts, UN people believe there might, this time, be a positive response from Hanoi.

A year ago Hanoi had reason to believe it might win the war, politically if not militarily, they point out; today there is much less such reason.

A year ago, Hanoi may have overestimated the strength of the peace movement in the United States. North Viet Nam may well have thought the bombing could not or would not be resumed, whatever the Communists did.

Today, despite Republican gains in Tuesday's election, there is little or no reason to believe President Johnson's hand will be forced by doves.

A year ago, the hawks in Hanoi, presumably pro-Peking, were dominant. Today, Moscow believes its men are in the saddle, and though they are not doves, their reaction to a bombing pause might not be simply to denounce it as a "swindle."

In any event, a great many UN people would like to try. They note that United States UN delegate Arthur J. Goldberg is setting out for South-east Asia and other areas on a peace mission as soon as his duties permit — that is, presumably, during the Christmas-New Year's holiday.

They hope this mission will be accompanied by a halt in the raids. They hope, in short, that Washington will concede the first of the two issues in dispute with Hanoi and let Goldberg try to negotiate the second.

A full orchestration of other peace appeals — from Pope Paul, from UN Secretary-General U Thant, from Asians, and (in private, if not in public) from Moscow — would be sought, in such an event, in an effort to evoke a favorable response.

Many things, including the state of Soviet-American and Soviet-Chinese relations, suggest that the time might be propitious. If there must be a step-up in the bombing, UN people hope it can wait at least until after such a campaign has been tried and has failed.

Clinging to the Old, Wanting the New

Arthur Laing, Minister of Indian Affairs
(Hansard, October 28)

We seem to be held back by that amazing principle of wardship with which Indians have been associated through the years. A situation has developed in which these citizens want to retain the historical guarantees, while at the same time they realize the need to develop new conditions and standards of education to become truly a part of the Canadian population. In order to co-ordinate these two principles we must solve a difficult problem.

I have before me some figures in respect of educational records of our Indian population in recent years, and I am sure that some of these statistics will astound hon. members. It has been suggested that there is a drop-out rate between grade one and grade two in the Indian population of 18 per cent. It is also stated that only 1 per cent of Indian children who start school reach grade 12. Let me say that we have a tremendous resource in our Indian people aged 20 and younger, and that at this time some older people are coming forward to assume business and cultural leadership. In this regard I think we are witnessing improvements.

A Dilemma of Racialism in Republican Gains

SO much about the election is obvious. The vigorous Republican revival is obvious. Within the Republican party, the powerful resurgence of the moderate faction is obvious. And the increased chance that a Republican may beat President Johnson in 1968 is obvious. What is much less obvious, however, is the acute dilemma for the Republican party that automatically results from the voting last Tuesday.

Alsop

Yet the dilemma was already there, lurking in the shadows of those election-night pictures of Governor George C. Wallace and Governor-elect Lurleen Wallace — those pictures that might have been done by Goya in a grim mood of malice and disgust.

In a tone of nasal menace, Wallace told the television audience that since the truth (meaning racialism) had triumphed in Alabama, he meant to do his best to insure the same sort of triumph, and on a much larger scale, in 1968. He could hardly have gone further, at this juncture, to announce his hope of running on a third party, racialist ticket.

Big Money Talks

To be sure, Wallace is a politician to whom big money talks with a big voice. His loathing for Senator John Sparkman is notorious, and this year he had an ideal chance to drive Sparkman from the Senate. But the big money likes having John Sparkman on the Senate banking and currency committee, where the inflammatory Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin is now the second Democrat. And, somehow, by some strange magic or other, Sparkman's re-election was not effectively opposed in Alabama.

These facts are relevant to Wallace's third party intentions, because much ultra-conservative big money will surely be needed to finance the sort of major effort Wallace clearly has in mind. And the betting is none to one that no ultra-conservative big money will be laid on the line for Wallace, if the Republicans nominate a candidate favored by their right wing, such as the former vice-president Richard M. Nixon, or Governor-elect Ronald Reagan.

Right there is the Republican dilemma. The party can name Reagan or Nixon, with excellent chances of keeping Wallace from launching his third party. In that case, the Republican nominee will be all but certain to pick up the southern electoral votes — between sixty plus and eighty plus— that Wallace can confidently expect to win if he runs.

But in that case, the Republicans will also handicap themselves very heavily with the three-quarters of the electorate outside the old Solid South. There is nothing in this election, except perhaps in California, to suggest that the country is any more ready today than it was in 1964 to accept a Republican nominee representing the party's Goldwater faction.

There is much in this election, on the other hand, to suggest that the country may well be ready to accept a moderate progressive Republican president, in the style of Governor George Romney of Michigan, whose re-election was a much more signal success than Reagan's run in California, or Senator-elect Charles Percy's in Illinois.

But if one of these men is the Republican choice, Wallace will surely run as a third party candidate; and those southern electoral votes will then go to Wallace. For this reason, the nastier sort of Republican politician will be determined to see whether Senator Barry Goldwater's southern strategy may not work better in 1968 than it did in 1964.

Fortunately for the Republicans, and for the country, too, the showing of the moderate-progressive Republicans is one of the election's more impressive features. Tactically, the most important victory was that of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller in New York.

Blow to Nixon

When Richard Nixon heard that news, he must have had trouble controlling himself; for Rockefeller's success has deprived Nixon of what looked like an excellent chance of picking up a nice round number of New York state delegates. But the big moderate-Republican victories in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan are even more broadly indicative than the New York result.

Without this string of victories, the Republican moderates would have very little chance of defeating the party's former Goldwater enthusiasts. At the organizational grassroots, in state after state, the ex-Goldwaterites have been making insidious gains. But the Republican moderates will now control almost all states with large delegations. Hence they can win the day if they are halfway united.

On all of them, whether old hands like Governor Rockefeller or promising new faces like Governor-elect R. P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, their party's dilemma places a heavy burden of duty. It is bad enough to have racialist politics in the American south. But if the Republicans make the wrong choice, we shall have racialist politics on a national scale — and, that way, lie dishonor and disaster.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

FOR those who wish to see the salmon run at Goldstream, the Chums are now moving into the river. This species of salmon is different from the Coho, evident in a distinguishing type of behavior as it moves up the stream.

This fish is called the Chum, Dog or Keta. The color is a metallic blue or may be black, slightly silvery on the sides.

It will range a little over three feet in length and may weigh from eight to eighteen pounds.

The life span of this fish is four years. The young appear in the early spring and go out to sea almost at once.

When in the sea they feed mostly on shrimps or other crustacea. Their travels in the ocean are not well known except that they come back to their spawning ground by way of the Johnstone Strait or through Juan de Fuca Strait.

As a rule they spawn a short distance from the sea, except those from the Yukon, which will go hundreds of miles to their home waters.

Their habits while in the streams are different from their fellow travelers, the Coho. Chums will move up through the riffles during the day and they generally move with a rush from one pool to another.

The female does not make such a definite "bed" or nest as the other fish and often you will see two or three males running with a female.

If you go to the stream do not throw stones or do anything to disturb the fish, for this will prevent them from reaching their spawning beds.

The French Are Not Behaving Like Spoiled Little Children

By JACKY MARGUIN

On this continent, France is pictured as an obdurate rebel; to most North Americans, La Fayette's France has become an unfaithful ally voluntarily sacrificing the interests of the Atlantic Alliance for the sake of her individual prestige.

M. Marguin is a member of the staff of the French Foreign Office, attached to the French Consulate-General in Vancouver. He has recently returned from three months at home where he talked to many officials of the Gaullist party as well as ordinary citizens.

Marguin

They think of her as a child who, making excessive claims to be of age, decides flippantly to evade parental surveillance and to play hookey on her own.

Certainly, in the eyes of the U.S.A., this turbulent, arrogant, unstable and badly raised child who is endangering family tradition by its defiance, is General de Gaulle in person. It is as if the president of the French Republic were still a schoolboy.

The scornful simplicity of this view does not do credit to any adult. We are touching here upon a sensitive point in international relations — mutual disrespect.

I have just completed a three-month stay in France, and I was thus able to study, to observe and to obtain an accurate impression of the current political climate.

The atmosphere there is quite opposite to what is imagined over here. The majority of the French people espouse a totally different attitude from that predominating in the United States or Canada, by firmly supporting the foreign policy of General de Gaulle.

I am convinced that this thinking is not caused by antipathy towards America, as the Anglo-Saxons may presume. The French people believe, rather, that their head of state is acting in the best interests of his own countrymen. The so-called policy of "disengagement" of France from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization strikingly illustrates de Gaulle's political philosophy.

Leaving NATO 'Step Forward'

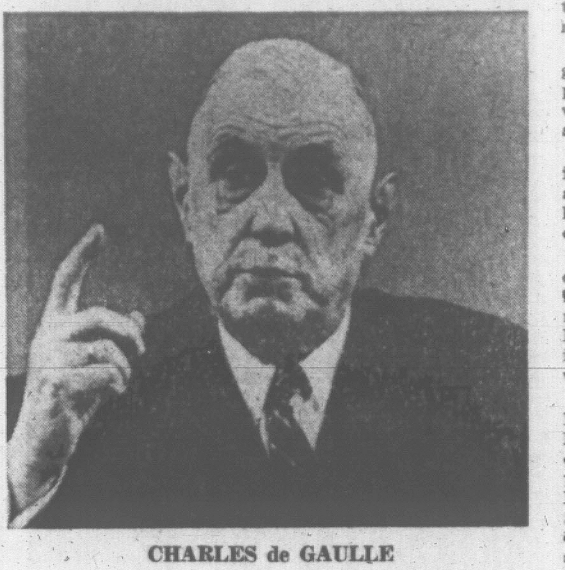
From the contacts that I was able to have with the population, it appears that most French people see France's departure from NATO, paradoxical as it may seem, as a step forward in the evolution of the Treaty which was signed 17 years ago. In other words, they think that France is not divorcing herself, breaking away, but is instigating a physical separation in order to lead the two parties to a new agreement and eventual remarriage.

Americans must look back and re-examine their refusals to modify the structure of the military alliance. This would benefit the whole Organization and consequently would be in the interests of the free world.

Thus, it is, in the opinions of the French and other informed people, that France is sacrificing her present for the future of the free world by retiring from the military organization of NATO. By acting in this way today, she hopes to experience tomorrow a shared responsibility with the other members, and consequently to assure security in Europe.

In spite of the powerful and good intentions of the United States, Europeans have no doubt that Europe belongs to them, and that in time of conflict the defense of the continent will only be possible if it is assured by their own initiative. For this to happen, however, Washington must restore to free European countries the responsibilities which they lost at the end of the Second World War, and stop treating them as underprivileged relatives.

The French are convinced that the indispensable integration of 1949 is a peril for Europe in 1966. In 1949, Europe was the powder magazine of the world; now this is no longer true.



CHARLES de GAULLE

Moreover, the American policy in Viet Nam, which is opposed to French interests, constitutes a growing danger for France who might find herself compromised someday in a military adventure she does not approve of, through allegiance to NATO.

It is worth remembering that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was created in 1949, on the morrow of a situation resulting from the last war, in order to prevent the implantation of a communist regime on the rest of the free world in general, and in occidental Europe in particular. This happened at a time when the countries of Europe, weakened by struggle, had no other choice than to entrust their defense to the Americans, who were opposed to Soviet ambitions.

Seventeen years have elapsed since the signing of this Treaty—during which no major modification in its form has been carried out. The United States of America allows its allies, today, no greater share in the defense of Europe and the free world than it did initially.

Vital Forces Now Recovered

However no one can deny that the situation has progressed in one sense since then, and that the states of occidental Europe have recovered the vital forces of which they were completely devoid after the war.

It is equally important to take into consideration another primary change which has taken place in world affairs since the creation of NATO — the situation in China.

In effect, the appearance of Chinese communism on the international scene, with its powerful force and its antagonism towards Russian communism, puts Moscow in a position of defence rather than of attack.

The present situation demands that the Kremlin chiefs encourage rapprochment in the political as well as the economic spheres of the occidental European countries west of the Iron Curtain, even if it would only be in response to the requirements imposed by world geography.

General de Gaulle's proposal for a Europe "extending from the Atlantic to the Urals" could well be realized one day, judging by the increasingly close relations between France and the states situated in the Soviet hemisphere of central Europe, on one hand, and with Russia, on the other.

It is clear that henceforth the future interests of France and the free countries of Europe, referring only to geographical boundaries without taking into account the always uncertain political regimes, will tend more to East then to West because of the limitations imposed by the Atlantic Ocean.

Must Change With the Times

After seventeen years and many upsets in international affairs, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization must begin to live according to the times and to respond to current demands. Unfortunately, such action is impossible as long as the United States continues to play the role of "watch dog," often having a detrimental effect on the other partners of the Alliance.

The French government made a request to the President of the United States shortly after General de Gaulle's return to power, which is eight years ago now. The purpose was to seek a revision of the clauses of the treaty in question, adopting the structures of the Organization to actual needs, so that the responsibilities of each of the 14 member states would be equally shared.

This request, like the others which followed, remained unfulfilled. After the patient but useless entreating of de Gaulle, it is difficult to reproach him for having given his associates too short notice; it was up to France to denounce the anomalies of the Organization by interpreting the American refusal as unjustified.

It is inopportune today to blame Paris for taking a position which has resulted entirely from the negative attitude of Washington. General de Gaulle has frequently been reproached for looking back more than forward; however, he cannot be accused of not viewing the present objectively.

France means to remain the best ally of the United States; but she has no intention of becoming America's vassal. She wants very much to participate in an integrated force fighting to defend the free world, but she intends at the same time to retain her own integrity at home, just as America does in her country.

What everyone likes to call French nationalism is nothing other than making use of her legitimate right to defend herself against American interference in her own affairs.

I am certain that you would be quite willing to come to the aid of a foreigner and friend if the need demanded. But would you agree to let this same foreigner and friend interfere in your own affairs and give orders under your own roof?

No? What then?

Covering Tory Conference Like War Corresponding

By GERALD WARING

Waring

OTTAWA — Somewhere in the files stored in the basement of defence headquarters there must be an age-yellowed document signed by Col. Ralston and attesting that I am a war correspondent.

That might be useful Monday, along with a tin hat, in getting through the battle lines at the Conservative convention. Assuming, of course, that in the meantime the Tory peacemakers don't arrange an armistice and join voices Monday in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and "Il a Gagne Ses Epaulettes."

Anything is possible in politics — even John Diefenbaker's ouster. But that I'll believe when I see it. Which, of course, is why I intend to be there, notwithstanding a recurrence of my old service disability.

I thought I had completely recovered from this. Indeed, only a few hours earlier I had ridden five or six miles, part of the distance at a flat-out gallop with not even a twinge. After that, it was a little ludicrous to sprain my back pulling the cork out of a bottle of wine. But army records show these service disabilities have a distressing record of recurrence.

Covering the news of the scheduled collision between a certain force named Dalton Camp and an immovable object named John Diefenbaker is like war corresponding in another sense: I'd just as soon not be there, but I wouldn't miss it for anything.

This will be clearer when I explain that I declined a 10-day junket to Australia and New Zealand this week just so I wouldn't miss what may be the biggest story of the year, aside from President Johnson's surgical operations.

The occasion was Canadian Pacific Airlines' inauguration of jet service south from Honolulu to Sydney and Auckland, via Fiji. I was on the first CPA inaugural to the Antipodes, in 1949, a three-day flight in a propeller-driven North Star. This week's junket would have been a journey into nostalgia: trade winds, tropical palms, bougainvillea, Bondi Beach anda ll that — to say nothing of the delights of springtime in the fall.

I just hope that what happens next week will be worth it.

Despite the peace-making efforts of Allister Grosart, the schism in the Tory party is too great to be papered over. It is not simply a breach between the two top men, Diefenbaker and Camp. Rather, it is a division right down to the grass roots between the new and the old, between a fresh approach keyed to modern thinking and needs, and the time-worn claptrap epitomized by a remarkable old man who has outlived his political era.

In the end the new must prevail. The rebels want to change rather sooner than later, and thus would deprive the old man of his last uncertain chance to rehabilitate his political image in the eyes of history. This is equivalent to cutting the living heart out of John Diefenbaker, and naturally he fights this fate with every wile acquired in more than 40 years of political scheming and campaigning.

But Camp maintains that the party's welfare comes first. He wants the party to have the opportunity to decide whether to stick with the old man or retire him for a new leader who would rally the support of voters under 30.

A Repulsive Phrase Could Hurt the Needy

By ART STOTT

The pages of Hansard are sprinkled liberally these days with references to the government's promised minimum income policy. This is a plan designed to see that no older Canadian is forced to subsist solely on a pension which provides less than $105 a month. Those receiving only the $75 OAP would be given a $30 supplement that brought them up to $105. Others with income below the latter figure, but who have money coming from other sources, would be given enough to bring them up to the stipulated minimum.

It is natural that both for humanitarian and political purposes some members of parliament call for much larger sppulements and a higher minimum. It is just as natural that the government, responsible for providing the money, doesn't want to go broke in the process.

One of the notable features of discussion on the question is the challenge from opposition members to the government on the question of a "means test." "Means test" has become a repulsive term. Government spokesmen, on different occasions, have said there will be no "means test." So far they have not spelled out the method by which the amount of an individual's supplement will be determined.

One obvious method would require pensioners below the income tax paying bracket to fill out the forms completed by those who pay income tax. This would establish the amount of money received by the individual each year and allow the government department to calculate how much should be forwarded to those who need more to bring them up to the $105 a month.

This, in the strictest sense, is a "means test." It's the same kind of "means test" to which I am subjected each year. Happily I'm in a position in which I have to perform the unhappy task of giving some of my money to the government — as the government determines following my "means test."

I think that most Canadians will feel as I do that it's little enough to pay a little more to ease the condition of those people who have less than $105 a month coming in.

But it would be tragedy, in my eyes, if anyone used this simple method of determining need to apply to it all the demeaning and soul-corroding connotations that "means test" meant, for instance, in the days of "relief" during the 'thirties.

It would be desolating if, by such action, those who receive the supplement felt that they were subject to snooping, prying into their private lives and suspicious inquiry that lowers a person in his or her own estimation.

During the 'thirties it was part of my job to report the totals of Victorians on relief and the amounts disbursed by the relief department. The job took me to the offices behind green-painted windows on Johnson west of Douglas.

In separate, fairly large rooms, gathered the men and women who came for help, many of them unemployed through no fault of their own. Inevitably there were a few chiselers among them — as there are in almost all groups. The majority were just people down on their luck, victims of a world-wide economic condition, men who had lost jobs through the squeeze of hard times and couldn't find anything but occasional casual labor to replace them.

I kept my eyes away from them, not through squeamishness, but because among the patiently waiting people were men and women with whom I was acquainted. It was not my part to add to their embarrassment by seeing them there. I knew the way hope and self-respect was withering in them. I knew how some, in an easily understood human reaction, fought against what was happening to them by a show of desperate defiance. They bled.

For that reason I'd grieve if, in the heat of politics, a method for determining supplements was degraded by "means test" talk of a nature to wound recipients.

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Reviewed by Peter Murray, Times Wire News Editor

The U.S. voted in its "off-year" elections and there were as many interpretations of the results as there were theories and forecasts beforehand.

Republicans made the only gains but this is the usual pattern for the minority party when the presidency is not at stake.

As for the two dominant issues — the Viet Nam war abroad and civil rights at home — there were no clearly established trends.

In the only direct referendum on President Johnson's handling of the war, a miniscule sampling, voters in Dearborn, Mich., rejected the idea of a ceasefire and withdrawal of U.S. troops.

On the other hand, retiring Republican governor Mark Hatfield of Oregon, who advocated a more conciliatory position by the U.S. in Viet Nam, was elected to the Senate over a Democratic opponent who campaigned in support of Johnson's policies.

There was much talk before the election of "white backlash" — a euphemism for racial prejudice in the north — and its likely effect on the vote after this summer's rioting. There was no clear-cut trend.

It was conceded to be a factor in the landslide victory of Republican actor Ronald Reagan as governor of California, but many of the other Republicans scoring impressive wins were moderates who had taken firm stands in support of civil rights measures.

Most interest centred in the emergence of potential Republican candidates to challenge for the presidency in 1968.

Besides Reagan and Hatfield, they include Charles Percy of Illinois, who defeated veteran senator Paul Douglas, and George Romney, who rolled up a big margin in winning re-election as governor of Michigan.

Still a powerful figure in the party is Nelson Rockefeller, who has renounced any further personal presidential ambitions, but made a strong showing as he was returned to another term as New York governor.

Rockefeller has supported Romney as a presidential candidate, and a struggle has been predicted between their moderate forces and the conservative wing of the party now represented by Reagan.

In the House of Representatives the Democrats maintained their majority by winning 248 of the 435 seats while the Republicans elected 187 for a net gain of 47.

However the balance of liberal members in the House who passed Johnson's "great society" measures such as medicare for the aged during the last Congress has been tipped, and the president will undoubtedly have more difficulty pushing though his domestic programs in the next two years.

One new member of the Senate is former Massachusetts attorney-general Edward Brooke, the first Negro elected to that body.

●

Ludwig Erhard suffered two sharp political blows this week that signalled the end of his three-year career as chancellor of West Germany.

First a majority of the Bundestag (lower house) approved an opposition motion calling on him to resign immediately.

Ehrhard denounced this move and said he would carry on, but when leaders of his own Christian Democratic Union party subsequently announced the Bundestag would choose a new leader and chancellor his days were numbered.

The CDU feared the continuing political crisis would undermine their majority position in a new government coalition.

Ehard, 69, then let it be known he will carry on only as a caretaker leader and will retire as soon as the new man is in a position to take over. Chosen by the party was Kurt-Georg Kiesinger, 62, a one-time Nazi party member who was picked by the CDU as its candidate.

●

Hardest hit were the cities of Venice and Florence, where damage to art treasures alone was estimated at $150 million.

Continued violence in India over government policy on the slaughter of cows led to the resignation from the cabinet of Home Minister Gulzarilal Nanda.

Nanda, whose sympathies were with Hindus demanding a complete ban on slaughter, was attacked for failing to take precautionary measures against the rioting which rocked New Delhi.

Although the government has been retreating from the position of former prime minister Nehru who sought to end the practice of regarding cows as sacred, the Hindus are fearful that Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi intends a compromise solution.

THE GALLUP POLL

Minority Says Agitators Causing Labor Troubles

Those who come from families of labor union membership, and those who do not, think pretty much alike on the subject of whether unions today have too many rabble rousers in them. Forty per cent of union members and 43 per cent of those who are not union members say there are too many agitators in the unions.

Nationally, a quarter of the population (25 per cent) says such a claim, that unions are riddled with trouble makers, is just a tempest whipped up by anti-labor propaganda.

Not unexpectedly, the greatest number to hold this view is found among union members themselves—30 per cent.

The question: "Some people say there are too many trouble makers and agitators among union members—others say this talk is only anti-labor propaganda. What are your views?"

	Total	Union Members	Non-Union Members
Trouble makers	42%	40%	43%
Anti-propaganda	25	30	23

By GLEN ALLEN

When, with their hands on the hilts of their swords, and their cloaks, red as blood, trailing behind them, four knights of England come to kill England's archbishop it is for an instant, the end of the world.

It is like being in on some eerie staging of the whole sad history of man and in no lesser sense of one's own autobiography.

"Murder in the Cathedral" as presented Friday at Christ Church Cathedral is as contemporary as the front page of any newspaper.

That the death of an English cleric 900 years ago could be so immediate and so chilling is first of all a tribute to T. S. Eliot's play.

But to Audrey Johnson's production of Eliot's grand language and ominous meaning we owe perhaps as much: the stagecraft, setting, acting—for the most part—and costumes, make for a thoughful, and in places supremely good interpretation of the drama.

The four players who are, first, the tempters, and later the four knights are so accomplished as to almost over-balance the rest of the cast.

The last third of the play, in which they figure is taut and fully engaging. Their addresses to Becket and then the low-key but equally compelling ratiocinations to the audience are brilliantly done.

Gerald Webb as Thomas has a Gielgudian voice, and is an immensely polished actor. The only cavil one might have is that somehow the feeling of greatness of Becket, his cosmic predicament, his meaning for the world, fails to come through.

It is in a way unfortunate that his antagonists, the tempters and the knights, are as good as they are, for at times they overwhelm him.

Becket has all our sympathies to begin with. He is a hero. His speeches therefore might be a little less "heroic" in their delivery.

The chorus is especially well-handled. These common women of Canterbury are patently the women and men of everywhere.

Because of a little raggedness in their unison chants, they are sometimes hard to hear, a fault for which perhaps there is no easy remedy.

Costumes are brilliantly conceived, and the set, a simple triple arch is the obvious complement to the cathedral itself, already the perfect set.

"You argue by results as the world does," says Becket, under sentence of death.

In this superior conception of Eliot's play there is no confusion as to what he means. That is why we all should see it, and why if no notice of the messages it offers is taken, there is truly "a doom upon the world."

The play repeats tonight and Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

Actress Aged Four Also Directed Play

Many stars were once child actresses, but how many can claim to have produced, directed and acted in a play at the age of four?

Professional actress Ramona McBean filled all these roles in a dramatized version of Babes in the Woods — and she has been in theatre ever since.

Ramona McBean, born Ramona Sinclair, comes of an acting family. Her late brother Moray was well-known on stage, TV and radio, and his daughter Judy has also made a name for herself in professional theatre.

There is adventure in Ramona's background, for her father, Charles Sinclair, was a Hudson's Bay Factor at Norway House for many years, and her mother was Islay Colcleugh, daughter of Selkirk's first mayor and diarist James Colcleugh.

Later, Ramona's father was transferred to Edmonton, where she attended school, and for years went every Saturday afternoon to the old Pantages Theatre.

It was while living in Montreal as a young woman, that she once again became active with the theatre, joining a Montreal musical comedy group.

In Winnipeg, where the family was affectionately nicknamed "The Barrymore's of Winnipeg," she was a member of Lady Tupper's Players Guild, a popular theatre group of the 1930s, and also had a long and happy association with Winnipeg Little Theatre.

With the start of John Hirsch's Theatre 77, now Manitoba Theatre Centre, Ramona won critics' acclaim for numerous and varied roles.

She played the Baroness in Theatre 77's opening production — The Italian Straw Hat, Linda Loman in Death of a Salesman, one of the two sweetly homicidal old ladies in Arsenic and Old Lace, Amanda Wingfield in The Glass Menagerie (a Dominion Drama Festival regional winner), and Capulet in Ring Round the Moon.

BIG MAMA

Since living in Victoria, she returned to Manitoba Theatre Centre for the role of Big Mama in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof.

In addition to the stage, she has been featured in National Film Board productions, on CBC-TV, and in an episode of The Littlest Hobo series, in which she played with Noah Beery and Rosemary de Camp.

Victoria audiences have enjoyed her characterizations in Dark of the Moon, The Wizard of Oz, Pinocchio, and The Box of Smiles.

Those who saw Bastion's opening production in September 1963, The Inspector General, will remember Ramona as the Mayor's wife.

Ancients Play To Open Uvic Season

As a starter for their Centennial season, University of Victoria Campus Players will light up the Phoenix Theatre on Gordon Head Campus, Tuesday, with a lively comedy that was first produced in Rome about 206 B.C.

The Braggart Warrior is a comedy about self-delusion. In it, the author, Plautus, exploited his verbal wit to the utmost advantage.

A farcical comedy situation full of intrigue and a love story worthy of a Broadway musical, the play has been translated by the university's Dr. Peter Smith, who also is a member of the cast.

In the title role is Dougal Fraser who graduated from Uvic last year with a theatre major and will leave in January for London where he will study at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

Edward Shoffner has designed colorful costumes for the production which will play nightly through Nov. 19 and also from Nov. 22 to 26.

Impresario Sol Hurok Studies Model of Tattoo

Big Military Show Adds Two New Items

Appearance of the spectacular military show of the Royal Highland Fusiliers in Victoria Memorial Arena Tuesday, Nov. 15, will mark the start of the second decade that impresario S. Hurok has been bringing bands, pipes, drums and Highland dancers from crack British regiments to North America.

It was while watching the famed Edinburgh Tattoo in 1954 that Mr. Hurok formed the idea of bringing the glamor, pomp and ceremony of British military tradition to American audiences.

He returned to the United States with a contract for the first tour of the Scots Guards in 1955. Other concert managers laughed at the idea and Variety, trade-paper of show business, referred to it as "Hurok's folly."

The tour was an outstanding success as have been all those which have followed. He has presented, in addition to the Scots Guards, the Grenadier Guards, Coldstream Guards, North Irish Brigade, two tours of the Black Watch and a huge Military Tatoo in New York's Madison Square Garden to which he brought 650 troops.

His theory is that each show must be better than the last and critics agree that the Royal Highland Fusiliers have come up with one of the most spectacular to date.

In addition to the Regimental Band, a bugle corps has been added to the Pipes and Drums, the Highland dancers have worked out new routines with a keen eye towards audience reaction and two entirely new items have been added.

U.S. Applauds Pied Piper

Over 4,000 American youngsters saw Bastion's production of Marge Adelberg's musical The Pied Piper in six performances at the 920-seat Capitol Theatre in Olympia, Washington.

The Pied Piper played to school children from all the primary schools in Thurston County and from three schools in Mason County. One bus load from Matlock, Wash., travelled for one and a half hours to see the show.

Now familiar to Victoria audiences at Bastion's children's productions but an innovation to Olympia and one which was received with delight, was the actual participation of some of the youngsters.

At each show, several children were asked to join Lisa (Gini Lefever) as she ran up on stage in the return to Hamelin.

In the cast are Bill Hosie in the title role, and Lawrence Eastick, Gene Galland, John Heath, Gini Lefever, Art Penson, Joy Richards and Helen Simpson-Baikie.

The sponsoring group, Olympia Junior Programs, is already making plans for another Bastion children's threatre presentation next year, and the Olympia Superintendent of Schools has expressed interest in additional touring productions including scenes from Shakespeare for high schools, and an adult show.

Bastion Theatre is presenting The Pied Piper at the McPherson Playhouse in three matinees, Nov. 19, Nov. 26 and Dec. 3, at 2 p.m. each Saturday afternoon.

Players Pick U.S. Comedy

The contemporary American comedy, More Than Meets the Eye, has been chosen for fall production by the Peninsula Players of Sidney and North Saanich, to be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, Nov. 24, 25 and 26, at Kinsmen Hall, Victoria International Airport.

Playwright is Fred Carmichael; plot of the piece deals with the efforts of an author to become known for 'serious' work, after years of success as a writer of children's books.

Cast Addition

Mike Schneider has been added to the cast of Pool's Paradise, the St. Luke's Players production which opens in St. Luke's Parish Hall Nov. 23 and continues nightly through Nov. 26.

Others in the cast are Linda Rodger, Ann Bailey, Betty Jeanpierre, Don Martin, Dave Shearer and Micky Muir. Director is Jo Pepper.

CHARMING COSTUMES have been designed by Vancouver Opera Association designer, Suzanne Mess, for the touring British Columbia Opera Ensemble production of Hansel and Gretel. The Dew Fairy's glistening costume sketched here will be worn by Sheila Marks in this leading role. The enchanting opera, which is filled with such melodic gems as the famous Children's Prayer, takes the stage for one night only, Tuesday at McPherson Playhouse. FOCUS

By BRAD NUGENT

What is possibly the youngest group in Canada played a dance in Victoria a couple of weekends ago.

The Serfs, whose ages range from 11 to 14, hail from Duncan and for their age they've accomplished a lot more on the music scene than some of their older competitors seem to have done.

The group, with Dean Paterson (14) on lead, Tim MacMorland (13) on rhythm, Paul Ereckson (14) on electric bass, and Lee Paterson (11) on drums, recently played some of Vancouver's nightspots where patrons were not only amazed by their age but also by the sound these little guys can create.

Last year they made the press when they were declared not old enough to enter the Mayfair Shopping Centre's annual battle of the bands.

But they ended up with even more publicity than the Mayfair elimination got them when they were hired by a local department store for a week-long promotion.

This plus numerous dances up and down the Island have brought the group to a point where it shouldn't take too long for them to rate one of the top places in the music scene in the Northwest.

SUNDAY

Denny's Place presents Blues By Five — Dancing from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. — 1037 View Street in the Pink Panther.

MONDAY

BITS AND PIECES

Winchester Cathedral, a British tune by Geoff Stephens, is bringing back the sound of the Rudy Vallee era ... Capitol records has again made a contribution to the world's music culture with a new release by Mrs. Elvira Miller, Will Success Spoil Mrs. Miller ... Brian Epstein's Christmas Show this year will headline Georgie Fame, not one of his own stable of performers.

One of West Germany's most popular singing and music duos, Esther and Abi Ofarim, born in Israel, have been banned in their native land because of their success in West Germany.

The Ofarims' discs have not been aired over the state radio stations in Israel for the last six months, according to word there, apparently because it is felt the group is too-successful in Germany.

LOCAL BITS

The New Take Four leave Victoria soon for more Seattle dates ... One of Seattle's up 'n' comers, The Mersey Boys, will be in Victoria for a dance date on Nov. 25 ... The Roy Orbison Show next Monday night at the Arena will be a short show if the only acts are Orbison and the Newbeats as the ads state.

HORN EXPERT ARRIVES FOR CONCERTS

Distinguished guest artist, Joseph Eger, called the greatest French horn player of the generation, arrived in Victoria today for appearances with Otto-Werner Mueller and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra this weekend.

Mr. Eger, who is also associate conductor to Leopold Stokowski and the American Symphony Orchestra and a noted recording artist, will play Mozart's Horn Concerto No. 3 in E-flat major.

The program will also include Nicolai's The Merry Wives of Windsor and Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony No. 3 in A minor.

Concerts at the Royal Theatre begin at 3 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Contralto Teams With Dancers In Second of Concert Series

Possessor of one of this city's most beautiful voices, contralto Eleanor Duff will be the soloist in an afternoon program, Sunday, Nov. 20, at McPherson Playhouse.

This quite unusual event constitutes the second in the 1966-67 concert series sponsored by Victoria Musical Art Society.

Opportunities to hear Miss Duff, a fine musician as well as a gifted singer, occur all too infrequently.

Accompanied by Mary Wood, she will open the program with an early Italian group. Brahms and Schubert lieder and some lovely English songs will also be heard.

Maureen Lawson, Paul Blakey and Madeline Ponich will dance the Swan Lake Pas des Trois.

Other numbers will be Moon River, Le Petit Ballet, Valse, Moments of Jazz, a Dance of Mexican Bridesmaids and an original piece, Tout le Monde, choregoraphed by Paul Blakey to music composed by studio pianist Hasn Van Gijn.

Audition Day Approaching For Annie Musical Show

Preparations for a spring production of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, Annie Get Your Gun, are being made by Victoria Operatic Society.

The first Wednesday in January will be first rehearsal night and show dates will occur in the latter part of May.

But first, auditions are scheduled soon in the Servetus Hall, 106 Superior Street, exact dates to be announced.

The history-making show is based on true happenings in the life of famed girl sharpshooter, Annie Oakley who was born in Ohio in 1860 and died in 1926.

Among many hit tunes in the musical are Doin' What Comes Nat'rally, They Say It's Wonderful, You Can't Get a Man With a Gun and There's No Business Like Show Business.

VETERAN

NORTH BREEZES

The man in the blue suit dropped in for lunch after the Remembrance Day parade and said, "Well that takes care of the last holiday until don't-mention-it."

"Don't-mention-it?" said his companion, the man in the brown suit. "Oh you mean Chri . . ."

"Don't say it," said Blue Suit," or some disc jockey will start playing Joy To the World."

"But this season it might be different," said Brown Suit. "If the postmen go on strike we'll have to deliver all our Christmas cards ourselves. We'll visit all our friends, shake their hands, share their cheer. Why it could put some spirit back into the occasion—except for the postmen of course."

"Change the subject," begged Blue Suit. "I haven't even got my leaves raked yet. Bah. Humbug," he said.

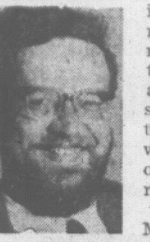
LOOKING AROUND AT ART

By ROBIN SKELTON

Work by Young Artists Excites Imagination



Skelton

The section of the Young B.C. Painters Exhibition devoted to graphics and watercolors is a good deal more interesting than that devoted to paintings, and I strongly recommend you to visit the University of Victoria Gallery within the next few days before the show ends.

In commenting on the paintings section I suggested that many of these young artists reveal a taste for the sensational and the merely fashionable; the graphics are less sensationalist, on the whole, though there are a number of works which seem to me to be only clever exercises in currently acceptable modes.

I feel, for example, that Michael Morris's dexterous confections, while showing strong feeling for rhythm and great decorative ability, lack something essential to true artistic success.

This lack is not easy to identify; it may be that the shapes, colors, movements, and textures lack warmth and are too well contrived to suggest anything save intellectual commitment to the technicalities involved; it may be, more simply, that I am myself out of sympathy with the machine-age coloring and cool poise of these works.

Kennedy's textures are often raw, and he appears to enjoy exploiting the grotesque and harsh, but his work always has human relevance.

He may sometimes perpetrate a fashionable ugliness, but he appears to be really concerned with the human predicament.

Several of these young artists appear to be attempting to comment upon the human creature. Some of the comments are sad, some angry, and some comical.

Phil Harrison's After Tea is a moving and subtle presentation of human pathos; the space in the picture is a projection of the mood of the figure so carefully isolated and so delicately etched in the foreground.

The drawings of Dalton Whitney and Bill Bissett are less interesting; the former seems to me to be merely clumsy and the latter facile and derivative.

Gail Bigsby's little drypoint of a nude, though technically less adept, has a great deal more feeling and is indeed sensitive and strong.

Several of the drypoints are worth attention. Myra Eadie's work in this medium reveals great sensibility, and a strong vein of romanticism; perhaps no single work quite comes off, but all are disturbing and imaginative.

They combine delicacy with inventiveness and suggest that this painter may go far.

Jack Evans is also inventive, and his work has a certain gaiety; I very much enjoyed his Finger Pop I for its vitality and humor, and admired the boldness of much of his other work.

Perhaps the most ambitious work in this exhibition is Leonard Brett's Apotheosis. It is hard to look at it without memories of Mark Tobey getting in the way, but it would be a mistake to call the work derivative. The vocabulary may owe something to Tobey, but the statement, and the rhythmic organization, is Brett's own. This is a painting of real significance.

Lorne MacDonald's untitled work also strikes me as having individual power; its tones and textures are handled with great authority, as are those in R. Wayne Eastcott's color etching, Three and a Half No. 1.

In both these pictures there is a sombre strength, and a brooding drama which I find impressive.

Perhaps the most impressive aspect of this whole show, however, is its variety.

Young B.C. Painters may falter a little when producing large works, but, clearly, they find etchings, aquatints, drypoints, watercolors, and drawings endlessly rewarding.

Go and see this exhibition before it is too late.

They Shot Me in the Hand Oh, Yes, Also in the Head

WINDS OF CHANGE, by Harold Macmillan. (Macmillan Co. of Canada 1966.) 607 pp. plus appendixes and index.

There is a curious sense of detachment throughout this book — the first volume of the autobiography of Harold Macmillan, publisher, politician and former prime minister of Great Britain.

The reader receives a distinct impression of the university debater or Commons member whose style calls for a hand in the pocket, a hint of a bored smile, and casual comment in a manner that puts the speaker a cut above the subject being discussed.

This detachment — and it is apparently not an affected pose — is carried almost to the point of comic exaggeration in, for instance, Mr. Macmillan's recollections of service with the Grenadier Guards in the First World War.

At Loos he received a disabling wound in the hand. It is only in the telling us of this that he mentions having received a painful head wound earlier in the day.

In the battle of the Somme he was knocked out by machine-gun bullets in the pelvis.

Lying unnoticed in a shell hole in No Man's Land while waves of German infantry swept back and forth above him: "I had in my pocket Aeschylus's 'Prometheus' in Greek . . . I read it intermittently."

All honor to a man who could show such stiff upper-liptitude and insouciance under such trying conditions. But there is a sense of once-removedness from reality which seems also to pervade the author's later accounts of larger issues.

Service with the Guards had a lifelong influence on Macmillan. For the first time in his relatively sheltered upper middle-class life he came in direct contact with the little man of England — the slum dweller and humble toiler.

Private Lives

He was impressed with the quiet heroism of his men, the genuine nature and often touching nobility of their private lives.

This was an experience to be repeated and intensified in later years, when as a parliamentary candidate he rang doorbells and gave curbside speeches while stumping the depressed, working-class riding of Stockton.

Macmillan refers a number of times to the contrast between the two worlds of the upper-class country homes and the factory slums. He felt a prickling responsibility that was later to show in his support for progressive welfare measures.

But even in this, "unflappability" remains dominant. Macmillan seems never quite to get mussed, or disturbed above a conversational tone, by anything.

First Election

The big events of his life: his marriage to a daughter of the Duke of Devonshire (he proposed to her in Jasper National Park), his entry into his father's publishing business, his first election to Parliament, his maiden speech as an MP — these sometimes excite description; but often a mere passing mention, and never a gloves-off treatment to reveal the real — and rather admirable — man underneath.

It is a personal characteristic which was to have its effects on Britain's domestic and foreign problems when the years brought Macmillan to prominence.

This volume carries us up to the outbreak of the Second World War. A fair amount of detail on the parliamentary history of the twenties and thirties is offered, but even the occasional personal anecdote does not provide a sense of new divulgement.

There are some sharp comments on the 1914-1918 generals who ran the war from their chateaux. (Why should the men mind weeks of rain in the open — "they've got their mackintosh sheets, haven't they?")

Dragon's Seeds

There is criticism of the United States' post-Versailles policy: "It was Washington that rejected the League of Nations. It was Washington that rejected the Treaty and by so doing, sowed the dragon's seeds of the Second World War."

But Macmillan never lost sight of the need for the United States in world affairs and particularly the necessity for a strong Anglo-American friendship — a belief given personal emphasis since his mother, like Churchill's, was an American.

There is an echo of Mackenzie King's strong maternal attachment in Macmillan's admission that "at every important stage of my life I have felt her presence, both while she was alive and after her death."

Chamberlain

Chamberlain's inept handling of the pre-war situation, culminating in the disaster of Munich, of course gets the detailed treatment it must have.

And there are recollections of the odd way in which Chamberlain virtually forced the resignation of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden by circumventing and humiliating him through personal intervention in his department — particularly in dangerous dealings with Mussolini.

The book is well enough written and will reward the reader with its account of great events by a man who was there. Macmillan is a man on whom the winds of change blew strongly.

His life embraces three greatly differing worlds — of pre-1914, of the between-wars period, and of the incredibly altering scene of today.

His Nostalgia

A noticeable number of times the chronicler makes mention of the "clop and jingle" of the horse-drawn traffic of his boyhood, the night-time ring of horses' hooves on the cobbles." One feels Macmillan's continuing nostalgia for those gentler, more comfortable times, even with the occasional shadow of the plight of the poor in the pre-welfare state to disturb this man of conscience.

But all this is preliminary. The meat — the story of his years of responsible office — is yet to come.—B.A.T.

Future Still Touch and Go For Whoopers

THE WHOOPING CRANE, by Faith McNulty (Dutton, $4.95).

Man is coming slowly to the realization that his progress in making the world his oyster may not be so progressive after all.

One of the encouraging signs is the almost national concern over the fate of the whooping crane. Twenty-five years ago this beautiful bird was on the verge of extinction after having survived since the Pleistocene Age only to fall before the encroachments of civilization.

Through the strenuous efforts of conservation groups the whooping crane population has slowly but shakily increased. Last year there were 44.

It's still touch and go whether he will survive or go the way of the passenger pigeon and the dodo bird.

Enjoy Only By Eye, Nose

DAFFODILS ARE DANGEROUS: The Poisonous Plants in Your Garden, by Hubert Creekmore (Walker $4.95).

A chatty and non-technical discussion of the common garden flowers and plants whose beauty and scent should be enjoyed only by the eye and nose — they should not be eaten.

Not many adults are likely to munch on a handful of boxwood leaves, or flowers of the star-of-Bethlehem, but children and animals might.

Horror-Laden Events

THE PLAYBOY BOOK OF SCIENCE FICTION AND FANTASY (Trident $5.95): Selections from Playboy of imaginative tales of vanguard science and strange and sometimes horror-laden events. Some of the authors are Bradbury, Sturgeon, Sheckley, Clarke, Pohl, Finney, Tenn.

Wanted: Fair Look At All the Facts

RUSH TO JUDGMENT by Mark Lane. Toronto, Queenswood House Ltd. 478 pages. $9.50.

Reviewed by W. G. Shelton

The Warren Commission Report, which found Lee Harvey Oswald to be the sole assassin of President Kennedy, was greeted with a sigh of relief by the American public when it appeared in September, 1964.

The unsettling rumors of conspiracy were false and the case was closed. Or so it seemed.

NEW CRITICISM

However, the Commission also published two months later, the 26 volumes of the hearings themselves. Enough time has now elapsed for a thorough study of the testimony and exhibits upon which the commission based its case and the result has been a fresh wave of criticism.

One of the new books, Rush to Judgment, is written by Mark Lane, the New York attorney retained by Marguerite Oswald in a vain attempt to have her son represented before the commission.

In it, the author does not attempt to prove that Oswald was innocent, or advance an alternative theory. He merely points out the amount of evidence there is in the commission's own files which conflicts with the official version.

For example, 22 out of the 25 witnesses who gave affidavits within 48 hours of the assassination said that the shots came from a knoll near the railroad overpass. Seven witnesses actually saw smoke there. One policeman even noticed the smell of powder. Yet the Warren commission concluded there was "no credible evidence" that the shots came from anywhere but the Book Depository.

That the commission's standard of "credibility" is uniquely its own can be illustrated by the different way it treated two other witnesses.

ADMITTED LIAR

The only person to identify Oswald as having fired the shots was an admitted liar, with poor eyesight. The testimony of another witness, with better than 20-20 vision, that the window from which Oswald is supposed to have fired was empty at the time, was rejected.

Why? Because he had a tendency to exaggerate about his school marks.

In example after example, Lane documents the fragility of the commission's reconstruction of events surrounding the assassination.

What emerges clearly is that the Warren Commission Report cannot be taken on trust. Until the authorities demonstrate a willingness to deal fairly and equally with all the facts, the Kennedy murder case cannot be considered closed.

Meanwhile, for those interested in a mystery which puts fictional thrillers to shame, Lane's fascinating book is required reading.

PORT FIRE INSURANCE RATES TO DROP $1

PORT ALBERNI—Fire insurance rates on private houses in the area will drop $1 per thousand with establishment of a full-time fire department.

The announcement was made as the first truckloads of earth were still being moved from the site of the new firehall on 10th and Bute.

While no announcement has been made regarding insurance rates on commercial property, store owners and industrial chiefs are hoping this will come shortly.

The new building will be more centrally located.

Although the new rates do not at present apply to Alberni, it is assumed they will as soon as Port Alberni and Alberni amalgamate to form the City of Port Alberni on Jan. 1.

'Flying' Trio All in Hospital

LADYSMITH — Three men were sent cartwheeling several feet through the air Friday afternoon when struck by a car.

Edmund Switzer, of Ladysmith, is in Nanaimo hospital with a fractured hip and multiple injuries.

William Wagar, of Ladysmith, is in hospital with a badly damaged knee and multiple cuts. He was also in a state of shock.

The third man, John Lawson, also of Ladysmith, suffered a broken kneecap and rib injuries.

They emptied the trailer load into the truck and delivered it.

The accident happened when the three of them went back to fix the broken wheel.

They were standing on the shoulder of the road when a southbound car driven by Arthur Mitchell, Ladysmith, struck all three of them.

The accident happened about 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Wagar said today all three men had wood-burning furnaces in their homes and had gone out with the intention of getting several loads of wood.

Victoria Daily Times
VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, NOV. 12, 1966—PAGE 11

Arthur Mayse

The Remembrance Day silence is meant for all the dead soldiers, but the human mind requires a focal point, and it is my father's face that emerges as the seconds of the two-minute silence trudge past.

He soldiered through two wars and survived to conduct memorial services at various cenotaphs. But his wounds and the terrible trench winters shortened his life, and I think of him now as one of those others who died for a peace that still eludes us.

We were close, we fished and hunted together when I was a boy in his house, and in later years when time and fortune let us do so. I hoped to be with him at the end, but he went out with the dawn while the plane was still an hour from Vancouver.

So there was nothing to do but carry out such last wishes as an undemanding man lays upon those who love him. The simplest of funerals — cremation — and because he had been a soldier in South Africa and in France, Last Post for his requiem.

That seemed an easy enough request to fill, and I set about it with my mind on other matters.

He had gone out to South Africa from England as a boy; and even though that war cost him a shattered jaw and grim months in a Boer prison camp, he remembered it as a great adventure.

He spoke often of the hard riding and the big, sun-smitten country, the sky and the baboons on their kophes, the tough, slouch-hatted Boers, and young English soldiers happy because they had a river to bathe in and watermelons to share.

In those years before we acquired the long perspective, he saw himself not at all as an Imperialist invader. He nursed no guilt complex.

The other war, the big one that came when he was a settled family man in Canada, he rarely spoke of.

Once, though, as we were tramping a stump-studded logging burn that climbed to a skyline of fire-scarred snags, he began to tell me how it was at Vimy. It was there, in the hellish battle from which no man came alive except by a miracle, that he lost his best friend to the shrapnel that dropped them both.

He did not believe his friend's life was thrown away in a dubious cause, or that his own grievous wounds were for nothing. Perhaps today, he might have entertained such thoughts; but life was simpler then, and we had not learned to be skeptical.

He was a soldier in what he believed to be a good cause; he would not fight in a bad one. Later, he scornfully rejected a Black and Tan commission, and came home with his stripes and mustache to tread the ways of peace.

For all that, he wanted Last Post for his send-off, and I meant him to have it.

The army was courteous, but I gathered there were rules and regulations about the disposal of buglers, especially where civilian funerals were concerned.

The militia would have been glad to oblige, but had no bugler available.

At this point, I hunted up a newspaper chum of other years, who went red in the face, swore, and reached for his telephone.

It took him quite a few calls, but he came up with a bugler.

"It'll cost you five dollars," he said, "because the kid has to take time off from work. I don't know how good he is, either."

A few South African veterans turned up at the little church in Hastings East. They were grey-haired and solemn, and they wore their medals.

The young bugler did very well with the Last Post. He was a cadet, and he came smartly uniformed and he let the call die slowly, slowly, as the soldier's farewell should.

It is right we should honor the war dead, and that those men should be in our thoughts when the time comes for silence. But the man we best remember is the one whose life touched ours, and when Last Post sounded yesterday, the call I heard was for one who was also a soldier.

'Vast Morass of Mediocrity'

By DESMOND BILL
Education Reporter

University of Victoria students are going to speak their minds about the sort of education they are getting.

The Education Action Committee of students' council has formed a speaker's pool to spread the word among community and professional groups.

Stephen Bigsby, students' council president, said many students look on the educational system as "a vast morass of mediocrity" and want it changed.

He said one symptom of the times is a student-edited "Academic Yearbook" which this year will evaluate both professors and courses at the university.

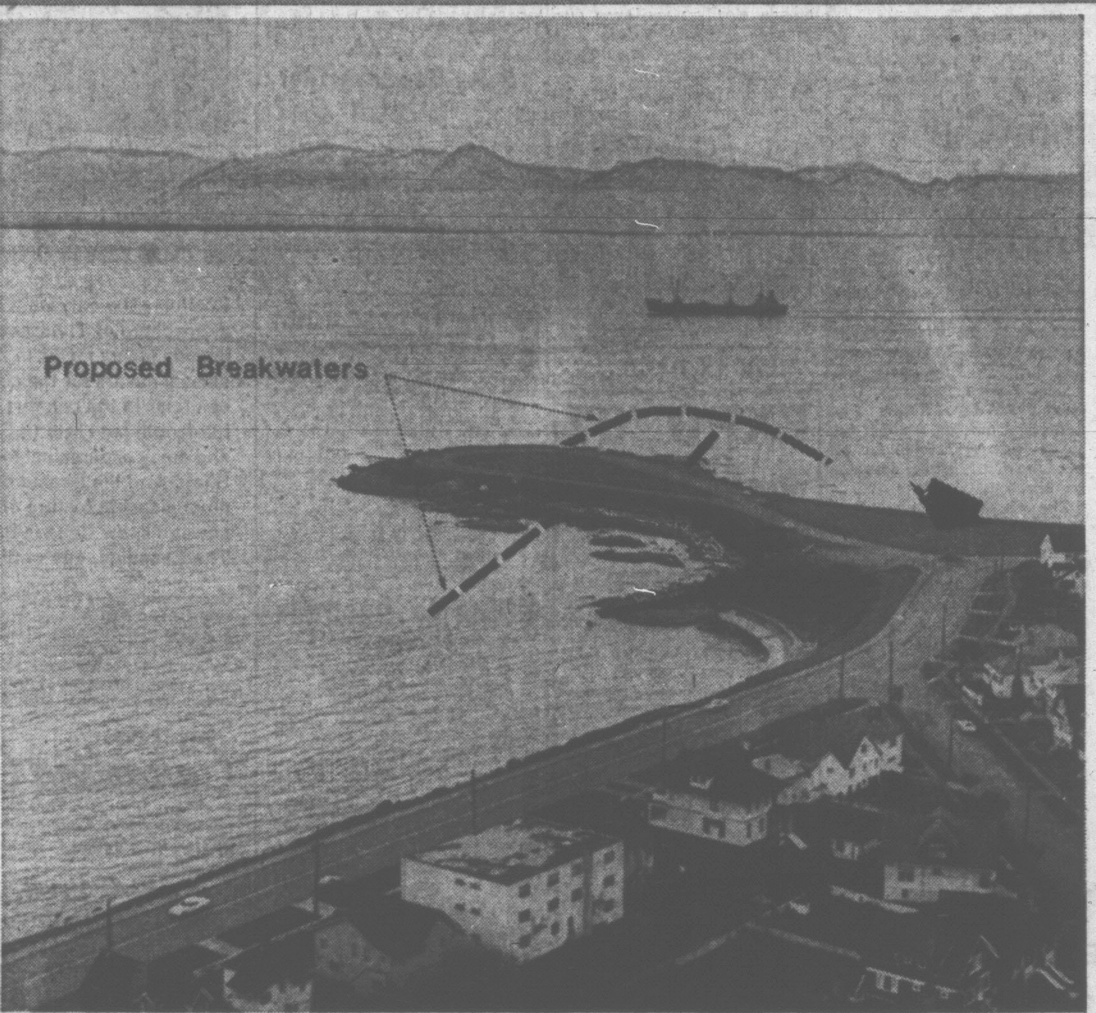
Mr. Bigsby said that "if a professor's dedication to his students is negligible, he will receive an appropriate rating, regardless of the number of articles he has published in scholarly journals."

Equally, he added, teachers who are "inspirational" and behave as "worthwhile human beings" will be given recognition that will encourage students to attend their classes.

Students are experts on education in a certain sense, said Mr. Bigsby, they experience it directly as no one else does.

And they want to let the public know what they have found out. The speaker's pool will send representatives to any group interested in hearing about education "its defects and the possibilities for improvement."

Any group interested in hearing a student speaker can contact Susan Humphries of the Education Action Committee at the Students' Union Building on the Gordon Head campus.



IF OTTAWA AGREES to share the cost Clover Point may get two breakwaters and two small boat launching ramps in 1967. Mayor A. W. Toone will present the proposal designed to make Clover Point a small boat centre later this month when he visits Ottawa. The two boat launching ramps, each with a small float for tying up, are marked by a solid black line just inside the breakwaters. Other changes in the area include the development of a parking area in the zone marked by arrow. (Bill Halkett photo).

VOTE ON DEC. 10

Esquimalt Supports Panhandle Merger

Esquimalt will support amalgamation with the View Royal panhandle but "without actively campaigning," Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant said today.

Panhandle residents "as responsible people should decide for themselves" in the Dec. 10 referendum, he said.

Reeve Bryant said it is wrong for people living outside the panhandle who will not vote on the question to be actively involved.

The vote, the second this year, was announced Thursday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Reeve Bryant said this morning he is "pleased that the minister, on his own, decided to call a second vote."

Campaigns for or against amalgamation apparently are not planned by other panhandle residents previously involved in the dispute.

VOTED MARCH 26

The last vote saw 98 in favor of amalgamation and 86 against when ballots were cast last March 26. The favorable majority of 53.2 per cent fell short of the 60 per cent required.

A 60 per cent majority is still needed for amalgamation, despite earlier suggestions that it be changed to 51 per cent, a municipal affairs department spokesman said.

Mr. Campbell said he decided on a second ballot in view of the favorable majority and recent difficulties that have arisen between Esquimalt municipality and the school board regarding provision of sewers to a school site in the panhandle.

"For these two reasons, I think it would be wise to have a review of the question by the voters again," said Mr. Campbell.

He said a returning officer will be appointed later.

Reeve Bryant said if the amalgamation vote passes "certain problems (of panhandle residents) could be very quickly resolved."

A "primary obligation" of Esquimalt if the two areas united would be to find a solution to the Christie Point school problem, he said.

Of the View Royal panhandle's present unorganized status "we like it the way it is," said C. P. Brynjolfson, manager of Christie Point Apartments, who previously opposed amalgamation.

Mrs. W. P. Rankin, 1440 Craigflower, who two years ago circulated a petition in support of amalgamation, said she plans no similar action before this vote.

But amalgamation "is inevitable. It has to come," she said.

The panhandle area is defined as lying between the Gorge, Esquimalt Harbor and the Songhees and Esquimalt Indian Reserves, Esquimalt municipal limits and the section line dividing Sections Two and Three in Esquimalt land district.

TOP JURISTS MEETING HERE

The chief justices of Canada's 10 provinces will be in Victoria for a conference next week.

The conference, to be held at the Law Courts, will be on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It is believed to be the first time that Canada's chief justices have got together for such a meeting to discuss matters of mutual interest.

Councillor to Push Recreation, Sewers

One of four priority items for Saanich next year is a training and promotion scheme for the fire department, a candidate for election said today.

Coun. Alan Newberry said it is in the interests of morale, incentive and efficiency that there be such a scheme "based on the premise that men from within the department may be prepared to assume positions of responsibility."

Coun. Newberry, who is chairman of the Saanich fire committee, is one of five persons who will contest council vacancies in the annual elections next month.

Coun. Newberry, the first to release his platform policy, said recreational facilities and sewers also are priority items for Saanich.

In addition, he said he will "oppose any rezoning applications for industry that will lead to an increase in air, land or water pollution."

Coun. Newberry, 29, an elementary school principal, was elected one year ago when council was expanded by two seats. All four terms being contested next month are for two years.

Heavy Damage To Police Car; Woman Injured

Mrs. Dorothy White, 61, of 737 Courtney, suffered head injuries, a broken wrist and bruises and abrasions to her arms and legs in the accident on Quadra at North Park shortly after 2 a.m.

A traffic report said the cruiser, driven by Constable Fred Beard, was southbound on Quadra and had stopped to make a left turn when struck by the White auto.

Constable Beard and Constable Allan Archibald were released after a checkup at hospital. Both autos were heavily damaged.

FOUR TREATED

Four people were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital after a two-car collision at Douglas and the Trans-Canada Highway, Thursday evening.

Police said a car driven by Ian Gallipo, 16, of 2833 Adelaide was westbound across Douglas when it was in collision with a southbound auto driven by Barbara Partridge, 17, of Anderson Road, Sooke.

The drivers, Marilyn Partridge and Mrs. J. Gallipo all received minor injuries. Damage to the cars was estimated at $700.

Three persons are in satisfactory condition in hospital after two cars collided at Douglas and Topaz Friday afternoon.

INTERNAL INJURIES

Police said the Lewis car was southbound on Douglas and making a left turn onto Topaz when it was in collision with a car driven by Robert Walton, 4060 Quadra, heading north on Douglas. A passenger, Richard Hall, 18, of 4220 Quadra was admitted to hospital with head cuts.

District Comes Up Smiling In Near-Hurricane Wind

The wind howled and rain pelted down but the weekending capital district took it on the chin and came up smiling.

Well, almost smiling. Special crews of B.C. Hydro and B.C. Telephone linemen were turned out to repair a flurry of service interruptions. Highway crews had a few fallen trees to contend with.

For most people the gale was just a noise in the night.

The Victoria weather office on Gonzales Hill reported the gale peaked at 3 a.m. The 71-m.p.h. gusts would have been damaging if prolonged. (Hurrican force is a continuous 72-m.p.h. blow.)

But the average wind force between midnight and 6 a.m. was just a vigorous 40. Soon after daylight this had dropped to 35 with gusts up to 50. Overnight rainfall was .21 inches, easily handled by storm drains in most cases.

Hydro reported some lights out in Sannich, Central Saanich and along Kangaroo Road, Esquimalt Lagoon area and Gordon Head. But the troubles were in hand and the damage less than a good snowfall would create, officials said.

B.C. Telephone reported some trouble in the Belmont-Sooke area but "everything just about normal," elsewhere. A few lines were down on the Gulf Islands.

Ferries, marinas, police and firemen had little to report.

Four poles were reported down in urban areas.

The remainder of the weekend was expected to be cloudy with sunny periods—well suited to raking the leaves brought down Friday and today.

'TWO-TIME LOSER' JAILED

A man twice caught driving while his licence was under suspension was sentenced to 10 days in jail when he appeared today in central court.

Lloyd Sagmoen, address unavailable, was stopped by police Oct. 8 near Courtenay and again in Victoria Nov. 10.

He pleaded guilty to both charges, and to a speeding charge for which he was fined $25.

YEAR SUSPENSION

A man was barred from driving for a year and fined $350 when he pleaded guilty to driving while impaired Friday.

Court was told Kenneth Haun, 1022 Collinson, drove his car into another on Vancouver shortly before midnight causing $1,250 damage.

James Bardwell, HMCS Yukon, was fined $250 and had his licence suspended for six months when he pleaded guilty to driving while impaired Friday.

He was arrested following an accident on Gorge Road.

John Dyson, 930 Jasmine, was fined a total of $175 on two related charges.

He pleaded guilty to careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident in which he was involved Nov. 5.

Court was told Dyson's car struck two cars on Quadra causing a total damage of $1,700.

His licence was also suspended for six months.

Charged with careless driving Friday after police followed him at high speeds through Saanich streets was Keith Poulson, address unavailable.

He was fined $75 and had his licence suspended for 60 days.

Chess Club To Host Nanaimo Players

The Silver Threads Chess Club will host the Nanaimo chess club at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Senior Citizens' Activity centre, No. 4 Centennial Square.

A bus will leave from the Centre at 8 a.m. Tuesday to take Silver Threads members on a Vancouver outing.

Hooligans Attack Schools

Hooligans rampaged across Saanich in the early hours of Remembrance Day, leaving $1,300 worth of windows broken behind them at three schools.

A fourth school was broken into and a radio and $12 in cash stolen.

Only clue to the midnight marauders was the sound of a roaring car engine, reported by nearby residents at two of the schools.

Hardest hit was Claremont Senior Secondary School where 29 windows worth $600 were smashed. The vandals used stones and timbers, sometimes heaving the two-by-fours through the last windows broken after using them to break others first.

Seventeen windows which will cost $400 to replace were broken on the west side of Cordova Bay School. Another dozen panes valued at $300 were shattered on the east side of Lochside School.

GLASS SMASHED

Glass in a door at Cedar Hill School was smashed to gain entry in the burglary.

Saanich detectives have been investigating the vandalism since it was reported Friday morning. They are asking that anyone who heard or saw anything suspicious in the vicinity of the schools call the police office at 388-4321.

Residents near Cordova Bay and Lochside schools reported hearing a car roar from the scene about 1 a.m. Friday after the sound of breaking glass was heard.

Ask The Times

Q. I am told Victoria once had a Negro alderman. Who was he and what became of him? B. G.

A. His name was Mifflin Gibbs and he came to Victoria from San Francisco in 1858. He was elected to city council not long after his arrival, later building a store that was to become the first in the Spencer chain. He returned to the U.S. after the civil war, studied law and became a judge in Little Rock, Arkansas. In 1897 he was appointed U.S. Consul to Madagascar. He died in 1915.

Q. Are there albino birds? H.L.M.

A. Yes, says Taverner's Birds of Western Canada.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Dr. Hitschmanova will meet speak on the group's work at a coffee party Friday from 2 to 4 p.m. at St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora. All interested people are invited.

Retired City Businessman Dies at 67

William Samuel McIlwaine, for many years a partner in McIlwaine Van and Storage Ltd., died Friday at his home, 3037 Carroll.

Mr. McIlwaine, 67, retired from business 11 years ago.

For many years he and his brother Clifford operated the family business founded by their father in the city's horse-and-buggy days. They sold out in 1955.

Mr. McIlwaine is survived by the widow, Elsie; his daughters, Miss Pearl McIlwaine, Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. J. W. Rose, all of Victoria; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Sands Memorial Chapel of Chimes, followed by cremation.

Lifeboat Rescues Two Fishermen Clinging to Rock

Two men were brought to safety at Bamfield early today four hours after their small fishing boat sank in heavy seas.

Rob Boker, owner and operator of the 30-foot "Red" and Dana Harrif were in good condition.

Caught With Ferries Down; Extra Sailings Clear Decks

Get there by B.C. Ferries — sometime.

The slogan was coined Thursday by hundreds of weekenders who waited up to five hours to make the Island-mainland crossing.

Officials were caught with their ferries down as unexpected crowds decided to spend the long weekend away from home.

From 1 p.m. on, an ever-increasing lineup of cars gathered on both sides of the Gulf of Georgia — at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen.

It wasn't cleared until 1 a.m. Friday after two extra sailings.

The same situation existed at Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay where holidaying loggers from Gold River added to the buildup of traffic.

"If the weather's bad, traffic is light. If it's good, as it was on Thursday, it's heavy."

"When the holiday falls on a weekday it's not so easy to take care of.

"Staff have to be paid overtime and then there are ferries in refit.

"We did the best we could by having extra sailings at 11 p.m. and 1 a.m. from all the terminals. No one was left behind."

A spokesman at Nanaimo said the traffic built up suddenly during the afternoon following a relatively quiet morning.

From 1 p.m. on, every ferry was packed tight, meaning a total of more than 700 cars made the trip to the mainland.

Pottery From "Factories" Along River
... Awaits Delivery to Market in Bangkok

People Live, Love, Die In Thai 'River Homes'

'VARGA' GUARD
... at palace in capital

By CONRAD FINK

BANGKOK (AP) — Tucked away in a few corners of troubled Asia there still is a bit of that peaceful and exotic east which has made more than one poet sing.

So it is on the Chao Phraya River in Thailand where people live, love and die in boats.

At first glance, the Chao Phraya looks like any other Southeast Asian river: It's a muddy, moving conveyor belt for all sorts of trash discarded far inland and destined for the Gulf of Siam.

But just a few miles northwest of Thailand's booming capital, Bangkok, the Chao Phraya and its interlinking long canals also are the giver and taker of life.

Thousands of wiry, smiling Thais, a gentle and polite people, fish from the waters, bathe in them, conduct business in them and travel, seemingly without halt, up, down and across them.

There are floating markets — and floating, noisily haggling shoppers. There are floating restaurants and boats full of hungry customers who pull alongside for a quick sip of coconut milk or snack of fried noodles.

EVERYTHING FOR SALE

Having lived on and from the water for generations, the people of the Chao Phraya are expert small-boat sailors

School tots who wouldn't be trusted on a busy highway push off for daily classes in small skiffs. Pre-school kids watch the day begin from swaying hammocks rigged in boat cabins or plunge barebottomed into the river for a quick dip.

Their fathers, if they don't work on the river, at least use it as transportation to the job. Mothers do the morning laundry in the river or shop on it.

All this explodes in a symphony of clanging, banging and chattering — as only Asians can orchestrate it — long before the tropical sun has risen above the walls of lush greenery lining the rivers and canals.

When that cruel sun masters Southeast Asia's heavens, all life must slow down on the steamy Chao Phraya. The best thing to do it catch a snooze on a gently rocking boat or crawl under the rusting corrugated steel roof of a riverside shed.

In the late afternoon, when temperatures have droped a bit, the river people hit their full, noisy stride again.

Airlines Agree On Drink Code

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven major airlines have agreed on a code limiting domestic passengers to no more than 4.2 ounces of distilled liquor while in flight.

The agreement, expected to set the pattern for in-flight drinking throughout the United States, was scheduled to be filed today with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

It was signed Wednesday by American, Braniff International, Central, Continental, Delta, Northeast and Southern Airways.

Although the airlines' code sets a limit of 4.2 ounces in practice it will be 3.2 ounces. That is because the miniatures now come in bottles of 1.6 ounces and a third bottle would put a consumer over the limit.

Poles Concerned

OTTAWA (CP) — The executive of the Canadian Polish Congress met with Prime Minister Pearson Wednesday to express their concern over the federal government's white paper on immigration and the attitude of security forces checking prospective immigrants from Communist countries. T. A. Glista of Toronto, said his organization is concerned about the "super conservative outlook of the RCMP checking applicants from Iron Curtain countries."

SOUTHERN CRUISE LINERS

Floating 'Cities' Beckon

NASSAU, Bahamas — It looks like another winter of smooth sailing for the luxury ocean liners which ply the calm cruise lanes from New York and Florida to Nassau.

And it's no wonder, with floating palaces such as the Oceanic, the Nili, the Ariadne, Miami and Leonardo da Vinci tempting fall and winter visitors to sail to the sunny island paradise in the grand manner of comfort.

These floating hotels, or "cities" as they are often called, last year brought almost a quarter-million vacationers to the Bahamas, where their passengers combined the joy of fine sand beaches and foreign island atmosphere with the elegance of living aboard ship while in Nassau Harbour.

This lazy but elegant way of life is in direct contrast to the new age of jet travel which has opened up faraway places to a whole new spectrum of vacationers in a hurry. And the cruise passenger wouldn't have it any other way.

Why should he, with cruise menus that would do justice to a chic French restaurant, and duty-free shops, plush cocktail lounges, top-flight entertainment, and first-run movies all the way? They even have swimming pools, beauty parlors, libraries, and game rooms. From stem to stern, from keel to sun deck, these luxury liners offer the ultimate in pampered, carefree living.

With five luxurious cruise ships making regular trips to Nassau throughout the year, the volume of cruise visitors maintains a steady pace, even during the summer season. In August, for instance, 24,469 came to Nassau by sea.

It is not necessary to visit Nassau and return on the same cruise. Passengers may book one-way tickets or stay over in the islands, as many do, and return home on a sailing weeks later. This is a very popular way of grabbing more than a couple of days in the warm island sunshine.

No matter how they do it, no matter how long they remain in the pleasant Bahamas, the cruise visitors are always sure to sigh, "Home was never like this!"

Fare Cut Sought By Airlines

Northwest Airlines has filed with the United States Civil Aeronautics Board fare changes in the Pacific to be effective Jan. 1, 1967, which will cut $57 off the round trip economy fare from all U.S. cities to Tokyo during five additional months, making the lower fares applicable for all but the four peak summer months.

The off-season economy fare from the West Coast to Tokyo of $370 — one way — which has been in effect for the months of December, January and February only, will become effective on a year around basis except July, August, September and October, from the U.S. to Japan.

In addition to establishing the new reductions in economy fares, Northwest has also reduced the round trip economy fares for individuals traveling beyond Tokyo with inclusive tour arrangements purchased in advance. The new individual inclusive tour air fares will produce savings of as much as $143 off the regular fare.

Embargo Lifted

PARIS (AP)—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has lifted its embargo on sale of large-diameter pipe to Communist countries. The embargo on pipe over 19 inches in diameter was decided upon in 1962 "in the military interests of the alliance."

Favorite Haunt Of Honoluluans

KAUNAKAKAI, Molokai — In early December tiny Molokai Island—the only tourism "hold-out" in the Hawaiian chain—will launch a major bid for a place on the discriminating travellers' map.

On Dec. 2 the Hotel Molokai plans to open its richly authentic Polynesian portals for business as the island's first resort-hotel development.

Long known as the "Friendly Isle" for the warmth of its natives, Molokai is already a favorite haunt of Honoluluans and many visitors who prefer the byways to the highways of travel. They swear by its acknowledged hunting, fishing, and scenic resources.

Life on Molokai tends to remain rustic, simple, easy going and unspoiled. The people are considered to be unusually friendly, hence the name, "Friendly Isle".

When you see Hawaiians weaving their own fishing nets or tending their taro patches, just as their ancestors did in years gone by, this is their preferred way of life, not a tableau staged for the benefit of the occasional tourist.

Fifth in size of the Hawaiian group, Molokai is 37 miles long by some 10 miles wide. It lies but 25 miles east of Waikiki Beach and is seven miles from Maui. The population is less than 7,000 with Kaunakakai, its chief town, offering the only harbor of inter-island vessels to discharge cargo and load on pineapple and cattle for transport to Oahu.

Good Cure For Nippy Feelings

PORTLAND — There's a nippy feeling in the autumn air, and it's as good an excuse as any for the person who likes to travel to start looking at travel folders and maps that show where the sun spends the winter.

Last year, more than 1.4 million people headed for the south — south of the border, that is. And most of these went there during the late fall and winter months, because that's when Mexico's temperate climate is at its best.

Whether you head for Acapulco or Puerto Vallarta or Mazatlan on the west coast, or the Yucatan or Quintana Roo on the east coast, you'll be greeted by the finest of weather conditions at this time of year.

One of the most exciting tours to the land of the Aztecs and the conquistadores is Trailways' "Holiday in Mexico" — a 28-day escorted "Green Carpet" motor coach offer that leaves nothing undone to make it a "complete" delight.

This tour has several departing dates out of Portland — Feb. 4, 11, 18 and 25. All are so arranged as to provide the finest opportunity to really see Mexico in leisurely manner with all travel on luxury, air-conditioned buses that have comfortable reclining seats and restroom facilities.

N.Y. Wants To Lure Newlyweds

NEW YORK — already a city of glamor — is bidding for a reputation as a city of romance as well. The city is out to lure many more honeymooners in 1967 with a "Honeymoon in New York" contest co-sponsored by the New York Convention and Visitors' Bureau and Modern Bride magazine.

All couples planning to be married between now and next May are eligible. All they have to do is write in 50 words or less why they would like to spend a honeymoon in New York.

The winners get a week-long, red-carpet honeymoon in the big city including transportation via American Airlines and New York Airways helicopter, a suite at the Waldorf-Astoria, seats at a Broadway show, evenings at New York's famous nightclubs and restaurants and plenty of sightseeing.

Streetcars Best Bet

By JOHN BOWEN

The traveller with an independent bent can savor a travel smorgasbord in Sweden, even in this era of specialized tourism. The streetcar and the bus still are respectable as means of everyday transportation—which is fortunate for the tourist who has the foresight to take advantage of it.

Also the Swedish railway system has built-in advantages which those in the know can exploit. All in all, these forms of public transportation may be the best friend of the independent-minded traveller.

First of all, the trains and buses in the cities of Sweden are the cheapest form of transportation available. For a few ore—about 15 cents American per ride, or about the same as he would pay at home—the tourist can wander around Stockholm to a degree impossible in any other manner.

Better still, special tourist tickets which enable the visitor to roam at will along most streetcar lines can be had from May through September, at a cost of less than a dollar for one day and about two dollars for three days. For those who like a little planning done for them, there is something during the summer called circular tours on the same mode of transportation which cover a prescribed territory, also at low cost.

Almost every visitor to Stockholm sooner or later will find himself at one of the city's squares—Centralplan, Nybroplan, Stureplan, etc. From these, he can strike out in several directions to explore sections of Stockholm which most tourists miss, as well as the more familiar places.

From Nybroplan it is only a short distance to the popular Skansen and the Vasa Wharf or the Old City; on the other hand, exploration in a northerly direction offers other attractive possibilities.

ELECTIONS 'A FARCE'

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — About 100 students shouting anti-government and anti-United States slogans burned an American flag Wednesday night during a brief demonstration against Brazil's congressional elections next week. They called the elections a farce.

The students oppose the policies of President Humberto Castello Branco, whom they describe as a U.S. puppet.

Southern California

10 colorful winter sights

Ranches. Two once owned by movie greats, Will Rogers and William S. Hart, are near Los Angeles. See their homes, paddocks and mementos.

Beaches. Collect some seashells, catch a starfish and skipper a skiff. Count passing ships, walk out on a pier, feed a pelican. Or—just sunbathe!

The Races. Thoroughbreds run in winter at a track famous for lavish flower displays. But we also have turtle and ostrich and camel races!

Volcano. Drive to one on the desert and admire its imposing purplish cone. Walk around on lava beds, too. (All our volcanos are retired.)

Superflowers. Geraniums bloom all winter long, and some are taller than you are. Poinsettias soar even higher—like 12 feet.

Man-made river. Bone-dry desert became a checkerboard of rich farms when a great new river was created. See why they now call this area America's Winter Vegetable Garden!

EUROPE

See two-thirds of the world on your way to Europe next March—for as little as $19 a day. Pick out your cabin on P&O's 42,000-ton super-liner Oriana, the biggest ship ever built in England. Then set sail from Vancouver March 20, bound for high adventure as you take the new way to Europe.

Ahead of you lie ports of call in California, Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Ceylon, Aden, Egypt and the Suez Canal, Italy, France, Gibraltar and England.

For six long weeks you soak up sunshine and abandon yourself to the pleasures of P&O's thoughtful British service. (There is one crewman for every two passengers.) You'll meet fascinating shipmates from the four corners of the world.

P&O's Oriana is one of the "biggest bloomin' ships sailing the seven seas." She's your air-conditioned hotel all the way to Europe. You can swim in one of Oriana's three swimming pools, each with its own outdoor café. Play cricket on deck. Dance.

Or just lie back in a deck chair (free, by the way) and relax.

What does it cost? As little as $811 tourist class, $1197 first class. (Note: If you'd like to go round the world with everything taken care of for you, at budget prices, there's a special Ambassador Tour that includes tours of Japan, Paris and London; a transatlantic voyage on the Queen Mary and your flight home all for as little as $1486 for 57 days.)

$20 Million School Debentures Sold

British Columbia's $20 million in school debentures has all been bought, perhaps largely by the provincial government, Premier Bennett revealed Wednesday.

The premier refused to identify the buyers of the debentures, earlier reported to be moving slowly.

He declined to comment on the possibility that the provincial government bought up the unsold debentures with provincial funds, such as pension funds, but added:

"If you didn't invest in something like that what better investment would there be?"

Named Director

OTTAWT (CP) — Montreal businessman Ralph Rubin Levine, 55, has been appointed a director of the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corp., it has been announced.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Western Oils Score Gains

TORONTO (CP) — Western oils scored one of their sharpest gains this year on the Toronto Stock Exchange Friday as the market advanced for its fourth consecutive session.

The oil index, an indicator of how key oil stocks move, jumped 3.11 to 117.95 after climbing 2.53 on Thursday.

Analysts attribute the jump to anticipation of drilling results expected within the next few months from the Rainbow and Zama Lake regions of northwestern Alberta.

Banff climbed 1 to 14¾, Hudson's Bay ⅝ to 22¾, Great Plains ⅝ to 11⅝ and Canadian Superior ½ to 27¼.

Industrials were led higher by Interprovincial Pipe Line which gained 2¼ to 80. Inco was up 1 to 87, Distillers ⅞ to 33⅞ and Falconbridge ⅝ to 86.

On index, industrials were up .52 to 145.34 and the TSE .53 to 139.30. Base metals were down .35 to 89.34 and golds .59 to 137.98. Volume was 2,431,000 shares against 2,830,000 Thursday.

Trading was the lightest since Monday because many financial institutions were closed for Remembrance Day.

Prices were slighly higher at the opening, dropped back about the middle of the session and then recouped.

Bethlehem Steel, which declared a special year-end dividend of 30 cents a common share, advanced more than a point. Republic Steel, which raised prices for stainless steel sheet and strip, also was up more than a point.

Massey-Ferguson appeared likely to be the most active stock. Farm implement issues have been active this week following an increase in prices.

AT MONTREAL prices were marginally higher Friday.

Industrial volume was 263,000 and mines and oils 622,800.

AT VANCOUVER prices were generally a little higher Friday in an abbreviated trading session.

Most of the activity was in mines, Madrona leading trading at 53,800 shares to close at $1.70, up .02. Brenda was up .25 at $8.35 and Dynasty climbed .30 to $7.25. Highmont was a heavy trader at 26,350 shares and closed at $1.97, off .06.

Biggest loser was Lornex, off .45 at $5.40, on 5,560 shares. Silver Arrow was off .03 at .45 on 48,200 shares.

In the oils, Share traded 31,500 and closed at .53, off .02. Futurity, at .73, was up .04 in 8,500 shares. Royal American climbed .05 on 13,200 shares and closed at $1.65.

Buyers Saved $1 Million Probe Told

OTTAWA (CP) — General Foods Ltd. claimed Thursday that the effect of its price changes in the last 18 months has been to save its customers $1,000,000 a year.

It said prices of 36 of its products were unchanged during that period, prices of eight increased and prices of nine were reduced.

In sum, only 2.5 per cent of its product volume costs more as it leaves General Foods plants than it did on March 1, 1965, the company told the Senate-Commons committee on living costs.

The main lines of the company are coffee and packaged desserts, but it also turns out cereals, beverages, frozen foods, dog foods and baking ingredients.

Executives of the American-owned company were questioned about the net profit of 3.6 per cent they showed for their Post cereals. Earlier in the day Kellogg Co. of Canada Ltd., exclusively a cereal manufacturer with half the Canadian market, showed a net profit of 11.31 per cent.

General Foods president James W. Andrews said he guesses Kellogg's "are just smarter than we are."

General Foods sales in 1965-66 totalled $97,600,000 and its profits after taxes were $4,800,000, or 4.9 per cent of sales.

Share Split Approved

VANCOUVER (CP) — A four-for-one split of the shares of Western Pacific Products and Crude Oil Pipelines Ltd., was approved at a shareholder meeting this week.

The split will be effective for shareholders of record Nov. 25 and the sub-divided shares will be called for trading on stock exchanges Nov. 28.

Douglas Owen, company president, said that Wespac, which operates a 525-mile pipeline from Taylor, B.C., to Savona where it flows into the Trans Mountain pipeline, said the company at present has issued 1,625,000 shares.

Close to half of these, he said, are held by Westcoast Transmission Company, which meant that few shares were available for trading.

WE CAN'T OFFER A 100% SAFE INVESTMENT

. . . and nor can anyone else!

"SAFE" infers a guarantee that there is no risk of loss. Well, when you really stop and think about it, there is nothing that secure. On the other hand, carefully chosen investments can reduce the risk to a very low point, and this is what the prudent investor should be interested in . . . for company "guarantees" can only be as good as the company's assets.

The assurance of small risk can be better obtained by getting the facts behind the company with whom you are considering investing, a study of the company's assets should tell you whether or not the directors are handling funds in a manner you readily can recognize as sound. If you have any doubt, DON'T TAKE ON THE INVESTMENT!

Furthermore, size or age of the company does not always insure against loss. An exceptionally large company in the East went under recently—it was formed over 70 years ago! It is reported the shareholders, who had little knowledge of the company's business, were shocked to learn that one of the bad debts, alone over a half-million dollars, was made to an individual on a Promissory Note, WITH NO SECURITY!

Make the facts speak for themselves! There is little cash value in the words "safe," "guaranteed" or "secure," when a company liquidates.

SECOND OF TWO new microwave antennas shaped like sugar scoops and weighing 2,000 pounds each is hoisted into place at 60-foot level of B.C. Telephone Company's new 75-foot concrete tower in southeast Vancouver. The two antennas, placed on the tower atop company's Hemlock exchange building, form part of telephone transmission systems to provide alternate routing and growth capacity for traffic between Vancouver and Victoria and Vancouver and Seattle. Total cost of the new systems, including installations on Salt Spring Island, Victoria and Angeles Point will be about $2 million.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Alberta Drilling Plans Spark Interest in Oils

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western oils set the pace on Canada's stock markets this week with one of their sharpest gains of the year.

Analysts attributed the advance to anticipation of drilling results expected within the next few months from the Rainbow-Zama Lake regions of northwestern Alberta.

Last month the Alberta government received $29,444,000 from the sale of oil and natural gas leases, most of it coming from the region.

At Toronto, the oil index, an indicator of how key oil stocks move, climbed 8.11 to 117.95.

Canadian Superior, Scurry Rainbow and Dome gained 2¼ each to 27¼, 19⅛ and 29¼. Banff was up 1½ to 14¾, Great Plains ⅜ to 11⅜. Provo Gas rose 60 cents to 5.05 in speculative oils.

Industrials started the week on a low note but finished strong following the United States elections.

EXPECT SPENDING CURB

Brokers said the rally was due to investors feeling that Republican congressional gains will curb non-defence spending and so eliminate the necessity of a tax increase.

Among issues that scored well were those also listed on the New York and American exchanges.

They included Distillers up 2⅞ to 33⅞, Inco 1½ to 87 following a recent increase in the company's nickel price, Walkers 1⅜ to 29 and Imperial Oil ½ to 55.

Among other industrials, Interprovincial Pipe Line gained 2½ to 80, Falconbridge 2 to 86 after following Inco's price increase and Moore Corp. 1¼ to 82¾.

Banks were weaker with Nova Scotia down 2¾ to 61, Montreal and Royal 1¼ each to 53¼ and 66¾ and Toronto-Dominion ½ to 57. Imperial-Commerce was unchanged at 58¼.

There has been some speculation of a postponement of the Bank Act revisions by Parliament.

GOLD CONTINUES SLUMP

Gold stocks continued their slump as the gold index dropped 6.47 to 137.98 after touching a low of 137.39. At the end of September the index stood at 171.33.

W. S. Row, president of Kerr Addison Mines Ltd., attributes the drop to a feeling that there now is little chance of an immediae increase in the price of gold, as well as to a labor shortage.

One obstacle in the way of a price increase is that many industrial countries now are considering eliminating gold as a basis for international currency.

Dome Mines tumbled 3⅝ to 35¾, Campbell Red Lake 1 to 18¼, Kerr Addison ⅜ to 11¼ and Giant Yellowknife 15 cents to 8.05.

Base metals were mixed as Noranda gained 1¼ to 48½ while Denison dropped 1 to 61½ and Rio Algom ⅝ to 24¼.

On index, industrials were up 1.32 to 145.34, the TSE 1.36 to 139.30 while base metals eased .30 to 89.34. Volume was 13,248,000 shares compared with 15,316,000 last week.

At Montreal, industrials advanced 1.91 to 145.77, utilities .82 to 26.45 while banks were down 2.27 to 107.65 and papers .45 to 109.38.

WEEK IN U.S. BUSINESS

More Voice in Shaping Economic Policy Hoped

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States business community may have more influence in shaping federal government economic policy in the wake of Tuesday's election.

Big Republican gains in Congress were interpreted by some this week as likely to provide a rein on federal expenditures and ease some of the pressure for a tax increase to curb inflation.

Stock prices rallied briskly on news of the Republican gains. Brokers saw the returns as a hope for a cutback in federal spending and less treasury borrowing, which would relieve upward pressure on interest rates.

The Republicans will consider going along with higher taxes only if President Johnson submits an austerity budget drastically cutting Great Society spending, said Representative John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, the ranking Republican on the ways and means committee.

Even then, Johnson would have to demonstrate that a tax increase was necessary, Byrnes said.

Bankers said the 90th Congress might be less inclined than the 89th to swallow deliberately-incurred budget deficits.

For months businessmen and economists, Republicans and Democrats, have speculated about the possibility of a tax increase after the election, a little something to take some of the steam out of an economy swollen by heavy spending for the war in Viet Nam and Johnson's Great Society programs.

INTEREST RATES SOARED

Interest rates have soared as the federal reserve system applied brakes.

This week Alfred Hayes, the New York Federal Reserve Bank president, said there still was a clear danger of inflation, despite some cooling off in recent weeks. He added he still advocates a tax increase.

Hayes challenged President Johnson's statement that there "had been a very healthy movement toward price stability in recent weeks."

Hayes said the administration's wage-price guidelines had been threatened with extinction.

A spokesman for International Harvester cited wage pressures this week as one reason the company was joining the move to increase farm equipment prices 2 to 9 per cent.

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman criticized the increases, and said they added to inflationary pressures on the economy.

HIKE POTASH PRICE

International Minerals and Chemical Corporation announced it would raise the price of potash, a key fertilizer material, 7 per cent from 5 Jan. 1.

The week's round of price increases also included water-treatment equipment, alum used by the pulp and paper industry and steel used to make drills, tool bits and cutting tools.

Stainless steel went up too, just a week after the price of nickel was increased. Nickel is used in stainless steel. It also is used in nickel-bearing copper alloys, and those prices have gone up, too.

Steel production has declined for four straight weeks. But the output for the year is slightly ahead of a year ago.

Automobile production was cut by storms and a strike at a General Motors plant. Production was 7 per cent less than a year ago.

The commerce department this week blamed a slackening of automobile sales for a decline in corporate profits in the three months ended Sept. 30.

Profits ran at a seasonally adjusted rate of $79,500,000,000, down from a record $80,000,000,000 in the first quarter and $79,900,000,000 in the second.

The commerce department also reported that the gross national product—the total output of goods and services — rose more slowly than originally estimated. The gain from the June quarter was $12,300,000,000, down from the $13,700,000,000 previously estimated, making the seasonally adjusted annual rate $744,600,000,000.

Big Quebec Union Group Severs Ties

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec-based confederation of National Trade Unions has severed all connections with major federal bodies for an indefinite period following recent setbacks at the hands of the Canadian Labour Relations Board.

A CNTU spokesman said 81 delegates representing the union group's 200,000 members voted unanimously Friday to sever federal ties until "injustices" by the CLRB are remedied.

The decision was described as "a momentous turn in the future course of Quebec."

The spokesman said the matter had been brewing for 2½ years but came to a head recently when the CLRB refused to certify CNTU affiliates to represent railway shop workers in Montreal.

The federal bodies affected are the CLRB itself, the Economic Council of Canada, the National Employment Council, the Regional Employment Council, the Canadian Centennial Commission, the Unemployment Insurance Consultative Commission and the national council on technical and vocational training.

SEEK MP'S SUPPORT

The CNTU also decided to call on Quebec's 75 MPs to support its demands for changes in the structure of the labor relations board.

Among other things, the CNTU wants equal representation on the board when inter-union conflicts are involved. It now has one representative.

The CNTU also has objected that all members of the CLRB are not bilingual, and this makes it difficult for some Quebec union representatives to express themselves freely.

The CNTU also wants legislation to permit the organization of bargaining units within nationwide groups of workers, without the need for affiliation with national or international unions.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE
. . . BEHIND THE TIMES

Living in a modern city folks tend to forget the way life was before electric power came humming over the power lines.

Those were the days when the root cellar was one of the most important rooms in a house. Always cool—and often slightly musty—it enabled pioneer families to keep summer and winter food supplies on hand without too much spoilage.

Few indeed are the homes these days without a purring elongated box in the corner of the kitchen.

It's surprising, though, how many families have failed to keep pace with the times in other areas of the home.

They still get along with antiquated furnaces, archaic bathrooms and kitchen facilities ranging back as far as the 1880's.

And they don't have to.

Russia's Aniline led the Laurel International field as the nine entries from seven nations pounded into the stretch. But out of the pack came France's Behistoun to win the major portion of the $150,000 mile-and-a-half classic. Aniline was second, and the favored Assagai from the U.S. was third. George Royal, Canada's hope, finished seventh and pulled up lame.

LAUREL, Md.—George Royal, the turf-loving hero of British Columbia racing fans, will make no more of his heart-hammering, come-from-behind charges down the stretch.

Western Canada's all-time money-winning champion and one of the world's finest turf horses, the five-year-old son of Dark Hawk was retired here Friday after running a limping eighth in the 15th annual Washington, D.C. International.

Co-owners Ernie Hammond and Bob Hall announced he would be retired to stud while the B.C.-bred bay was being cooled out by Texas-born trainer Donnie Richardson at the International Village, an exclusive stable area reserved for invitees to the $150,000 gallop on grass.

There was no doubt that George was hurting. He limped on the right front ankle that has troubled him spasmodically during his racing career and which went bad less than half a mile from home in Friday's mile-and-a-half battle between 10 of the world's best grass runners.

Faltered When He Hit Fifth Spot

Until the ankle went ouchy, everything seemed to be coming up roses for the grandson of Alibhai.

Given a long rest over the summer after scoring his second successive win last spring in the rich San Juan Capistrano at Santa Anita, George Royal was conditioned carefully for a fall campaign. He seemed to be reaching his peak as he won his second straight Canadian championship at Toronto's Woodbine track last month and he seemed to be still improving when he arrived at Laurel, the first tenant at the International Village.

Breaking smoothly from the gate Friday before being taken under a firm hold by jockey Ismael Valenzuela as Russia's Aniline set the pace, George was running easily for the first mile. It appeared he might be heading for another of his famous late-charging finishes when he started picking up horses down the back stretch ahead of the eventual winner—the French colt Behistoun.

When he had moved to fifth the Canadian horse faltered. He seemed to regain his stride briefly but courage wasn't enough and George was nosed out for seventh place by England's David Jack, nine and a quarter lengths behind the flying Behistoun and well ahead of Brazil's Folio and Scopo of Venezuela. "I almost thought he had it won at the back turn." Valenzuela said later. "Then he stopped. I know he was hurting but he tried to go again. He's a great horse." It was the second international bid for George Royal.

'He Would Have Beaten Them All'

He seemed in even better condition this time, which made it understandable why Richardson was suffering as much inside as George feeling the pain of his ankle.

"It's too bad this wasn't a week ago," Donnie said with a hint of anger and a bit of a break in his voice. "He was beautiful then, he would have beaten them all. It just makes you sick. I thought I had the best horse and this had to happen. I guess that's racing."

"This is the first time he has been bothered by his ankle during a race," Hall said. "The trouble usually came in training or after a race."

The trouble was first noticed in George's two-year-old season but it wasn't until he was four that it was pin-pointed as a chipped ankle bone. At that stage of his career it was considered unwise to attempt an operation and this was to be his last season, Hall explained.

"We thought this would probably be his last race," Hammond added, "although we talked of running him in one more race if he came out of this one in good shape. He's always had a problem with that ankle but he's been a wonderful horse for us. He deserves a rest."

Although earlier reports had indicated that George Royal would be retired to stud in the U.S. after being syndicated, both owners insisted they would retain a controlling interest.

"I plan to fly him home this weekend," said the Irish-born Hall, who owns a farm in Aldergrove.

B.C. 'Too Far Off the Main Line'

"We could bring him back to the races with rest but every time he lost he would diminish in value. We'll take our time in selling him, but have no thought of standing him in British Columbia. We're too far off the main line up there to attract the good mares he deserves."

Thus ended the racing career of George Royal, bought by Hammond, a retired Vancouver businessman, as a Dark Hawk-Polly Bashaw yearling in a $3,000 deal that included another yearling, Nyet Nyet.

After Hall, his first trainer, acquired a half interest, the horse won four of eight starts as a two-year-old. At three he won 10 of 12, including the B.C. Derby. First horse from Western Canada to win a $100,000 stakes event, George Royal earned $322,242 during his career. Despite the ankle trouble that forced him to be lightly trained and lightly raced, he became known as one of the world's finest runners on grass.

'DIDN'T KNOW THEY BET ON SORE-LEGGED HORSE'

TORONTO (CP)—Dick Beddoes, sports columnist with The Globe and Mail, says George Royal was so lame after his eight-place finish in the Washington International Stakes Friday night that he could not be walked to cool out.

Beddoes says that the Canadian-owned horse developed a soreness in his right front fetlock as early as Thursday and it got worse Friday.

"The odds showed 5 to 1 on George Royal, third choice in a field of 10, but the bettors didn't know they were investing on a sore-legged horse," says Beddoes.

AT LAUREL

'Marsellaise' Heard—Again

By DOUG PEDEN

LAUREL, Md.—Patrons of the annual Washington, D.C., International at Laurel racecourse here should by now be familiar with the strains of Le Marsellaise.

They heard the French national anthem played for the fifth time in 15 years and the second time in a row at the $150,000 race on grass Friday when Behistoun blazed down the homestretch like the Rome-Paris express and grabbed the winner's purse of $90,000 away from nine of the world's best turf-running thoroughbreds.

Until the three-year-old French colt bolted out of the pack on the final turn, it appeared that nobody had a chance to catch Aniline, the powerful Russian five-year-old.

But in the final furlong, it was all La Belle France again. Behistoun charged past Aniline to win going away by 2¼ lengths in 2:28.4 for the mile and a half.

Aniline, second to the mighty Kelso and Gun Bow in 1964, had run magnificently in front and was easily the best of the rest.

ANILINE SECOND

Under Nikoli Nauiboy, one of Russia's 10 master jockeys, who was riding a record eighth International, Aniline finished more than a length ahead of the laboring favorite, Assagai, the U.S. grass champion.

Aniline earned $25,000 for the Russians, who have now had seven in-the-money finishers in the colorful Laurel gallop. Assagai kept third money of $15,000 in the U.S. but France added another $10,000 for Vasco de Maga's fourth-place effort.

Another French colt, Silver Shark, was fifth, ahead of America's Tom Rolfe. David Jack of England was sixth, a whisker in front of Canada's George Royal, who moved strongly to fifth half a mile from home before being stopped by ailing ankle.

Behistoun, a blood brother to Man o' War and Worden II, who won the International for France in 1953, came from ninth in the last half-mile to become the eighth foreign winner to seven for the U.S.

SECOND FOR DEFORGE

The Tricolor colt with European fame as a come-from-behind horse, was the second straight winner for jockey Jean Deforge, who booted home Diatome in the same kind of finish last year.

Like most of the other French winners, Behistoun went to the post as a longshot and he paid $34, $12.20 and $6.60. Aniline returned $5.60 and $3.80 while Assagai salvaged $2.80 for his legion of disappointed supporters in the crowd of 30,843, below average for an International. However, the fans were in a spending mood and wagered the above-average total of about $450,000 on the race.

It was in the red silks of Paris industrialist Alec Waisweiller, his owner-breeder, that the brown Behistoun bolted to his second victory of the year and raised his 1966 earnings to $239,773.

Waisweiller, confident before the race, said he had given up hope that his colt could catch the power-running Aniline.

'JACK-IN-BOX'

"Then he came like a jack-in-the-box like he always does," said the jubilant owner of Behistoun's torrid last quarter of 23 4-5 seconds.

Deforge said the coming from so far off the pace was the horse's idea, not his own.

"When we came up the backstretch," Deforge said, "I wanted to make a move but everybody was pushing, so I held back until later."

"It was a good race but I could not beat the very good French horse," he said.

Wilcox Steals Andy's Thunder

'Iron Horse' Hebenton in 1,000th Game

(Special to The Times)

OAKLAND—This is the night that is being made as one to be remembered by Victoria's Andy Hebenton, the "Iron Horse" of hockey.

But Friday, in Los Angeles, it was Rollie Wilcox' night.

The swift-skating sophomore from Victoria enjoyed his biggest night in Western Hockey League warring by pumping home three goals to spark the Maple Leafs to a 4-1 victory over Los Angeles Blades.

Coach Frank Mario, still chortling over what he described as a "great team effort," led the Leafs into Oakland today for two weekend engagements with the Seals.

15 AMAZING YEARS

Leafs and Seals tangle tonight, ditto Sunday.

This is the night, of course, that will be inscribed in the record books. It will be the 37-year-old Hebenton's 1,000th consecutive league game. The amazing endurance record covers a 15-year professional career that began back in the spring of 1952.

Even the Seals plan to pay Hebenton homage. They invited Andy's wife, Gael, to Oakland for tonight's game. Mrs. Hebenton was to fly to Oakland this morning.

LOCAL DUES NOV. 30

Victoria fans will pay their dues Nov. 30 at "Andy Hebenton Night" in Memorial Arena.

Wilcox got his licks Friday before a modest turnout of 4,419 fans in Los Angeles. He banged in two goals in the opening period and completed his hat-trick in the second on a power play.

Bob Barlow, a 42-goal sniper last season, finally scored his first of the current campaign to wrap up Victoria scoring.

SMITH SHINES

Smith, 20, was a standout in the Victoria nets.

Mario had high praise for Smith, the line of Neil Clark-Wilcox-Steve Witiuk, and his penalty killers. Blades rarely looked dangerous while Victoria players were serving penalties, thanks to the work of Wilcox, Witiuk, Hebenton and Dick Lamoureux.

It marked the fourth game on the road for the Leafs this season. They have yet to be beaten away from home. For the Blades, who also have a great road record, it was their fifth defeat in six home starts.

In other games Friday, Vancouver Canucks spotted Portland Buckaroos a 2-0 lead then roared back to earn a 2-2 draw. At Seattle, the hometown Totems trotted out their best offensive showing of the season and thumped San Diego Gulls 7-1.

IT'S NANAIMO, TYEES IN ISLAND BOOT FINAL

CHEMAINUS—Still undefeated and bouncing, Victoria High Tyees moved into the Vancouver Island high school soccer final after defeating Chemainus 3-0 Friday.

The Dave Price-coached Tyees will play Nanaimo High for the Island championship and The Daily Times Trophy next Wednesday at Nanaimo. Tyees won the trophy last year.

Held to a scoreless draw by Chemainus earlier in the week, Tyees made no mistake Friday. They actually scored five goals, but two were called back for offsides. The "good" ones went to Brian Robinson, Ollie Moilanen (on a penalty kick) and Barry Moen.

Canadian Pro, 18 Under Par, Four Shots Up

TOKYO (AP)—George Knudson, the dapper Canadian, stretched his lead on Arnold Palmer to four strokes at the end of the third round of the Canada Cup international golf classic today as the United States took a stranglehold on the team championship.

Knudson shot 32-34—66 over the chilly, windy Yomiuri course, giving him an eye-popping 64-68-66—198 for 54 holes, 18 under par.

Palmer shot 34-35—69 for 66-67-69—202 as he saw his one-stroke deficit of Friday widen disastrously. Par for the 6,962-yard hilly course is 72.

Still in individual contention was Hideyo Sugimoto, the big Japanese professional who is playing his home course. He shot 32-36—68 for 66-69-68—203.

And gaining ground was Jack Nicklaus of the United States, Palmer's partner, who had his best round yet, 34-33—67. This gave him 69-68-67—204.

U.S. HAS 406

The combination of Nicklaus' and Palmer's mighty sub-par golf resulted in a team score of 406 for the United States, 26 under par. Next was Australia, 413, and South Africa, 415.

Nationalist China was fourth with 416 and Canada and Japan were tied for fifth with 417. Thirty-six teams from 34 countries plus Hawaii and Puerto Rico are competing in the classic, which ends Sunday.

Knudson's partner, Frank Fowler of Calgary, recovered from Friday's poor round and went only one over par for 39-34—73 to keep Canada at least in team contention. Fowler's card showed 70-76-73—219.

Before the four-day tournament it was predicted freely that the team championship would go at 15 under par.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

For Knudson, a Toronto club pro who cheerfully proclaimed himself "the world's worst golfer six months ago," there were two big holes in his six-under-par round.

On the par-5, 508-yard fourth his approach shot—a four iron—carried 180 yards and landed eight inches from the cup. He tapped it in for an eagle 3.

On the 10th he sank a 60-foot putt for a birdie and from there on he was rolling.

"I guess it is because I am standing up straight now," he said.

Cookie Gets Wheels

Cookie Gilchrist, Miami Dolphins' 260-pound fullback who threatened to quit unless he got a $5,000 car, is getting it.

Cookie, one of the toughest backs in the American Football League for four years, huddled with Miami Dolphins' executive Joe Robbie Thursday and emerged from the scrimmage with a promise of the car.

"Everything's fine," said Gilchrist. "I get to keep the car for a year and then have the option to buy it at the wholesale price."

He had argued that the car deal was in his contract.

Dodger shortstop Maury Wills is home well and confident that his boss will forgive him for abandoning the team in Tokyo.

"I'm sure the Dodgers will be happy next season that I came back to get my leg ready for the 1967 season," he said.

The famed base stealer said his unauthorized vacation in Honolulu was just the ticket. "I feel better now than I have in two years."

The dapper Dodger hurt his right knee in spring training and said he went on the Japanese tour because he was promised just enough duty to please the fans.

But he played eight innings of the first two games and said his knee buckled in the third. "I decided then I could no longer stay on the tour," he said.

Mud Bath Awaits Eastern Finalists

HAMILTON (CP) — Hope springs eternal at Civic Stadium even though they've been using an under-sized tarp that has sprung several leaks.

A 10-man work crew engaged in extensive muck-raking Friday in hopes of having the field in playable shape for Sunday's opening game of the Eastern Football Conference final between Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Heavy rains softened the playing surface this week and three high school football games Tuesday churned the centre of the gridiron into a sea of mud.

But the rain finally stopped Thursday night. Cool, dry weather was forecast for today and it prompted Michael Bozek, head groundskeeper, to predict a good field in time for Sunday's kickoff at 11 a.m. PST.

The ground crew has been working with a tarp that covered about two-thirds of the field and is full of holes. By game time more than eight tons of chemical absorbent will have been spread on the field.

Sunday's game will be the last in Hamilton. The return contest of the two-game, total-points eastern final is scheduled for Monreal next Saturday. The game cannot be played in Ottawa because Lansdowne Park is being renovated.

The winner will represent the east in the Grey Cup final in Vancouver Nov. 26.

Rough Riders will wear black arm bands for all their remaining games in memory of Bill Smyth, the 44-year-old defensive coach who died last Sunday.

General manager Red O'Quinn made the decision earlier this week, but had to wait until he was sure the arm bands would be ready in time for Sunday's game.

BUT CLAY FAVORED . . . . . . AT 5 TO 1

Williams Hits Confident Chord

HOUSTON (AP)—It might be six years and one bullet too late for Cleveland Williams, but the Big Cat from Houston still feels confident he can lift the heavyweight crown from Cassius Clay's cocky head Monday night.

"I can hit Clay and I can take him out with either hand," said the 33-year-old challenger, who wrapped up his training with a light workout Friday.

"Clay's fast, but I can move with him," added Williams. "I can jab and also hook off the jab. I can hit with either hand."

Williams will match the champion in height and weight and probably desire. He won't be able to match him in speed and there's doubt whether he has his old-time power.

His insides were ripped by a pistol inflicted wound during a scuffle with a highway patrolman Nov. 30, 1964 and how he even recovered is amazing.

The .38-calibre slug still is somewhere in Williams' body but the strapping challenger says it doesn't bother him and that he's as fit as ever.

He returned to the ring Feb. 8 and in four fights of his comeback has beaten four nobodies.

Williams' record now includes 51 knockouts. He has been stopped by Bob Satterfield and twice by Sonny Liston.

The odds favor Clay 5 to 1.

PRAIRIE FREEZE . . . . . . MAY AFFECT FINALISTS

Bud Doesn't Sound Chilled

REGINA (CP) — The prospect of playing the opening game of the Western Football Conference final Sunday in numbing conditions doesn't bother coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Game time is 1 p.m. PST, with television coverage on the CBC national network (Channels 2 and 6 in the Victoria area).

Grant expressed no worries over the condition of the field, which was covered Thursday by snow. The field was cleared today but remained rock-hard.

The condition probably will force both clubs to rely more extensively on their running attack, he said.

Both clubs have solid running games.

"Anyhow," muttered Grant, "you win more games by running than by passing."

Saskatchewan coach Eagle Keys, looking for an aerial threat from quarterback Ron Lancaster, didn't sound quite as optimistic as Grant.

Veteran Alex Blossoms Out As Goal-Getter

By The Canadian Press

He counted twice Thursday night as his Detroit Red Wings blanked Chicago Black-Hawks 3-0 in a National Hockey League game.

That's pretty good for an NHL player who went 15 seasons before he broke the 30-goal barrier in 1965-66 with 31 goals and who had scored only one goal in nine earlier games this fall.

In Thursday's other contest, rookie netminder Gerry Cheevers stopped 31 shots for his first NHL shutout as Boston Bruins upset Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0. Murray Oliver, John Bucyk, Pit Martin and Wayne Connelly were the Boston scorers.

While the 190-pound Delvecchio was putting the puck in the Chicago nets, Detroit netminder Roger Crozier stopped everything the punchless Black Hawks had to offer for his second consecutive shutout of the season. He blanked Montreal Canadiens 6-0 last Sunday.

SNAP LEAF STREAK

Cheevers, who was brought up from the minors only four days ago, turned in a dazzling performance as the Bruins snapped Toronto's seven-game unbeaten streak of three wins and four ties.

The 25-year-old netminder, drafted by Boston from Toronto in 1965, was brought up from Oklahoma City of the Central Professional Hockey League to replace Ed Johnston, who has been sidelined with an eye injury.

The Maple Leafs peppered him with 11 shots in the first period, 13 shots in the second and seven in the third.

New York visits Montreal and Toronto—moving out of Maple Leaf Gardens on a Saturday night for the first time in modern history—plays at Detroit in tonight's games. The game at Montreal will be televised on the CBC national network, starting at 5:30 (PST).

O'Keefes Blank District Stars

Victoria O'Keefe's retained the Tony Hope Trophy for a third straight year, but in return they had to give up sole possession of second place in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

While O'Keefes blanked the District League All-Stars 4-0 Friday in their annual exhibition meeting, UBC Thunderbirds went to work in Vancouver, nipped Burnaby Villa 3-2 and grabbed a share of second in the PCSL standing.

O'Keefes played without four regulars, including goaltender Barry Sadler, but still proved too much for the All-Stars. Assistant manager Len Anderson came off the bench to play goal, but was rarely tested as O'Keefes carried the play to the All-Stars.

Ike MacKay, with two; Peter Brett and Marty Taylor scored for O'Keefes, who resume PCSL activity next Saturday at Macdonald Park against Vancouver Firefighters.

At Vancouver, UBC trailed 2-1 at the half but pulled out its victory with second-half goals from inside Harvey Thom and winger John Newbold. Centre-forward Keith Brookes scored UBC's first goal.

Wingers Gord Glen and Harold Hansen scored for Burnaby.

James Bay, Meralomas Share Spoils

Some 300 fans turned out Friday to see some excellent rugby played by 14 teams from Vancouver and the Island.

JBAA's Nick Eckhart was the hero for the local side, kicking a difficult conversion to earn the Bays' half share of the spoils.

Meralomas played four games in advancing to the final, and it took an overtime 6-3 victory over the host Oak Bay Wanderers to get them there.

However, James Bay played extremely well and equally as hard and were deserving of their tie.

Jims Dandy Efforts Give Farmers B.C. Grid Crown

Renfrew 9, Oak Bay 17

By ERNIE FEDORUK

You'd have to say it was sort of a "Jim Dandy" effort that carried Oak Bay's Farmer Construction to the B.C. juvenile football championship Friday.

The well-groomed Farmers climaxed an undefeated season by rolling to a 17-9 victory over Renfrew Trojans at Macdonald Park on Friday afternoon.

It was the "Jims" that dandied up Oak Bay's effort.

Specifically, Jim Forward and Jim Edwards, Nos. 37 and 36, respectively, on the program.

Forward carried the offensive mail and Edwards was the big belter on defence. They made the big difference in a pleasing, interesting game between two well-matched squads.

RUSHING STANDOUT

Forward scored two touchdowns, one on a sparkling 65-yard run, to provide all the points Oak Bay required on this particular day. Guard Bob Lemon successfully converted both and tacked on three other points with second-quarter field goal.

Roy Hurtig's Trojans, ahead 8-3 at one stage, got a touchdown from fullback Don Evans, a convert from quarterback Chris McMurdo and two singles by Jeff Hodgson.

Forward turned out to be the rushing standout. He carried 11 times for a net gain of 142 yards. If that 13-yards-per-carry average doesn't impress, then consider the fact that Oak Bay's team rushing total was only 180.

EDWARDS HIT 'EM

As impressive as he was, Forward had to share the spotlight with Edwards. The latter was brilliant from his defensive end spot.

Edwards set the tempo early. Renfrew's first six rushing plays resulted in a net loss of 18 yards. Of those six early thrusts, Trojans were dropped for three losses and one "no gain."

Edwards was the key man on the "no gainer" and on two plays that resulted in lost yardage.

Quarterback Bob Panton also sparkled in a winning cause. He handled the Oak Bay attack in expert fashion. Panton's pinpoint passing contributed greatly to Oak Bay's overall gain of 373 yards.

PANTON POISED

Panton hit on 10 of 18 passes for 169 yards. A halfback pass added another 24 yards to Oak Bay's sharp air attack.

Forward took in three of the tosses while Doug Daniels, Garry Johnstone and Cam Crofton caught two, showing another example of Oak Bay's diversified attack.

Two other winners also stepped to the fore Friday. Farmers' halfback Terry Ryan was named the Island league's most valuable player and R. J. Dryden, Transit Road, came away as the football booster who will enjoy a holiday in Hawaii.

JUNIOR FINAL

Rams Pound Notre Dame To Grab Title

SASKATOON (CP) — Regina Rams won the Canadian Junior Football championship Friday with a 29-14 win over Montreal Notre Dame de Grace Maple Leafs in a game billed as the Little Grey Cup

Frank Belvedere of the Maple Leafs took the opening kickoff on his own five-yard line and went 105 yards for a touchdown. But the Rams steadied and controlled the game for much of the time from then on.

Head coach Gordon Currie said after the game that tough competition throughout the season paid off for the Rams, who play in the Manitoba-Saskatchewan Junior Football League.

COMPETITION TOO LIGHT

"If we could have played against competition like this all season, we would have won today," agreed Montreal coach Phil Chiarella.

Tom Dyce, an outstanding young fullback, and Pierre St. Amour, a halfback and place kicker, were both carried off on stretchers during the fourth quarter. Dyce had a shoulder separation and St. Amour was shaken up. Harvey Briggs, a split end, also suffered a shoulder separation.

BOWLERS OF THE WEEK

Tops in tenpin category of The Daily Times' "Bowler-of-the-Week" competition are Maureen King (left) and Harry Adams. "Mo" topped all ladies in fifth week of event with 205-185-201—591 series in Friday Niters League at Mayfair Lanes. Adams bowed in with 175-248-214—637 triple in Men's Commercial League play at Mayfair. Both thus qualify for year-end rolloffs to be held in May.

Moilanen, DeCosta On Scoring Sprees

Ollie Moilanen is being touted as the big man in Victoria High Totems' basketball attacks this Inter-High season.

He tossed some proof into the pudding Thursday, scoring 27 points to spark Totems to a cliff-hanging 47-45 victory over Claremont.

In other games, Oak Bay stung Mount View Hornets 58-32 while St. Louis College clipped Esquimalt Dockers 44-39.

Totems, trailing 21-19 at the half but ahead 32-31 at three-quarter time, got their big charge out of Moilanen in the last period. That's when he accounted 12 of his 27 points.

This revolutionary car has
16 PLUS VALUE FEATURES
1—"Impactoscopic" collapsible steering column telescopes upon impact. And it adjusts 2 ways for maximum driving comfort.
2—Super-strong monocoque body construction of pre-stressed steel actually absorbs impact. (It's the same principle which is used in aircraft design.)
3—Recessed door handles and fold-away window winders. No sharp projections to catch clothing (or injure passengers in an accident!)
4—Childproof safety locks. When locks are set, rear doors can be opened only from the outside.
6—Front disc brkaes stop on a dime. They're self-adjusting, fade-free and unaffected by weather.

VIKINGS WIN AGAIN

Nothing Slows Maxwell Down

The way he moves on Esquimalt District Hockey League ice sheets, it is difficult to believe that Ken Maxwell once was expected never to play the game again.

The slick-skating Navy centre suffered a serious neck injury during a playoff game at Powell River two years ago. At the time, he was informed he may never play hockey again.

He's playing. And Maxwell hasn't lost any of his old effectiveness, as witnessed by his two-goal, two-assist performance at the Sports Centre Friday night.

Maxwell's four points sparked the Armed Forces Combos to a 6-3 victory over Tudor Monarchs. At the same time, the undefeated University Vikings marched off their fourth straight victory, 5-2, over the Stockers.

As a result of Friday's action, Tudors, Combos and Stockers all share second place with two points, six behind the leading Vikings.

Nationals Clout Drumheller Club

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's National team coasted to an easy 7-2 victory over defending Allan Cup champions Drumheller Miners Thursday night in an exhibition hockey game before 2,300 fans.

It was the second meeting of the two clubs, Nationals took a 4-3 decision from Miners Saturday in Rosetown, Sask.

Waller, Wayne Tops at Uplands

They all played 18 holes, but it took nine-hole scores to decide the major winners in the annual Remembrance Day tournament at Uplands Golf Club Friday.

Waller, 86-20—66, tied with Glen Meadows' M. Robertson, 92-26—66, but won out on the strength of a better back-nine score.

Next in line came T. Murray, 84-16—68; Bill Bigcanoe, 79-11—68; Laurie Greenwood, 84-15—69; Jim Reside, 77-8—69 and Ross Curtis, 86-17—69.

McDonald counted on a sizzling front-nine score of 35, even par, to beat out professional Bill Wakeham for low gross honors. Both came in with 73s, three over par. Wakeham had a 39 on the front side.

Uplands' Keith Swetnam was next with 75 and clubmate Roger Bishop followed with a 76.

Huggett Scores Second Straight

Keep your eyes on Dave Huggett.

The Victoria High runner romped to his second straight cross-country victory Thursday, defeating teammate Peter Rodseth by 15 seconds in a three-school meet.

Despite their 1-2 finish, Vic High had to settle for second place in the team event. Oak Bay won and Mount Douglas finished third.

ENGLAND'S OLDEST INNS have been around long enough to learn that Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance for mixed drinks. You can count on it to give you a fresh, clean tasting drink. Just like the Gimlet that they mix in the Cat and Fiddle at Hinton Admiral, a village on the edge of the New Forest.

Cat and Fiddle—Gimlet

The Cat and Fiddle is justly famous for its Gimlet, a refreshing drink made from Gilbey's London Dry and fresh lime juice. Close by in Wiltshire, at the Sign of the Angel, we discovered how to give a Gilbey's and orange juice a "frosty" edge. Wet a glass, then put it upside down in the freezer compartment. After half an hour it will have a sparkling "frosty" edge.

Eagle—Gilbey's Weasel

At the Eagle in London they mix a superb Gilbey's Weasel (made from Gilbey's and Bitter Lemon). They say the drink was named after a saddler's weasel (used for making holes in leather). A saddler who had premises at the rear of the Eagle enjoyed the drink so much that he would 'pop' or pledge his weasel when he was short of money.

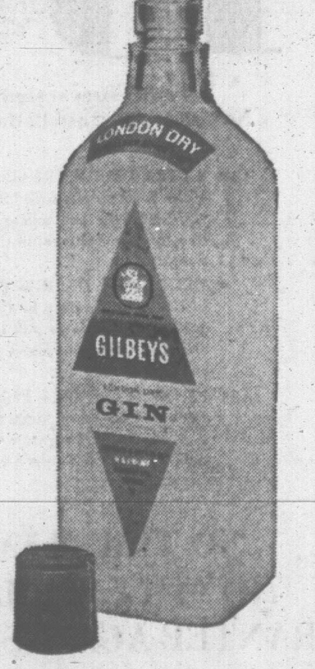
That's the way the money goes
Pop goes the Weasel



You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean tasting drink. This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

YOUR CHILD'S EDUCATION IS AT STAKE!

The Teachers' Campaign for smaller classes is important to all parents.

Pupils get less individual attention in large classes. When pupils fall behind the incident of drop-outs rises.

The 1960 Chant Royal Commission recommended classes of 30 to 35 pupils for B.C. schools. In Victoria 205 out of 490 elementary classes have 36 or more pupils.

Last term 57.4% of Victoria School Classes were over the danger point.

The successful solution of this problem and others is vital to your child's education and the overall school system.

NBC News Special Takes 1956 Viewers Back to Budapest

Hungary a decade after the 1956 revolution against Communism will be the subject of an NBC News one-hour color special, "Back to Budapest," to be seen Sunday at 6:30 p.m. on Channel 5.

NBC news correspondent Frank Bourgholtzer who reported the 1956 Hungarian Revolution, has returned 10 years later, with NBC cameraman Josef Oexle—who also covered the uprising—to see what life in Hungary is like today.

The special program was produced and directed by Gerald Green.

"The big difference in modern Hungary as compared to Hungary of 1956," says Green, "would appear to be this: In 1956 people went into the streets and fought and died largely for political freedom. Today, the great desires of these talented, unique people centre on economic needs. They want cars, apartments, better clothes, vacations. One hears very little about political matters. There are no voiced demands for more political parties, for free elections. In any event, such protests are difficult in a Communist state, to say the least. But Hungarians are outspoken in demanding more material benefits and a better future for their children.

"All over Eastern Europe, the wobbly, antiquated economics of Marxism are on the way out. Even many Communists admit that their economic practices have failed. The cry in Hungary today is for 'reform' or 'revision'. They are slowly moving from a planned economy to an approximate market economy. Local initiative is replacing central direction."

Crisis in Hungary

Avoiding long interviews with government officials, producer Green selected one factory in the Budapest area (the Goldberger textile factory) and zeroed his camera in on several families whose lives would best represent the overall crisis in Hungary. Two of the families:

The Raynaks—Istvan Raynak is a section chief, Communist boss of his section, married and has two daughters. They live in two cramped rooms; no hot water and no sanitary facilities. Raynak goes to the Marx University.

The Kators—Janos Kator and his wife are ex-farmers; they came to Budapest 15 years ago. They are non-party people, Catholics, typical of ordinary, non-indoctrinated Hungarians. They live with their daughter in a one-room modern apartment.

Several other families are visited, all of them tied together by the factory, their work, and the new economic policies which party secretary Janos Kadar, still Hungary's strongman, is attempting to evolve.

"The factory area," Green says, "is in one of the fascinating old sections of Budapest called Obuda. One of the highlights of the program will be the visit to a special school where singing is taught in a unique way developed by Hungary's greatest living composer, Zoltan Kodaly, who is 85. We filmed Kodaly conducting the children in choral singing. It was a delight to see him, an honor to film him."

The Communist Party—or Hungarian Socialist Workers Party—still controls the life of the country. This will be illustrated in visits to the factory offices, and to a party reception in Parliament where the high brass appeared.

"Assuredly, Hungary is not in its pre-1956 state," says Green, "with secret police knocking at doors in the middle of the night. The old, Stalinist terror no longer exists, but Hungary is hardly a Western democracy. Kadar hopes that economic betterment will stifle any new political dissent. He doesn't want anyone to rock the boat."

Meet the Press

Michigan's Governor George Romney will be the guest on "Meet the Press" Sunday, at 1 p.m., on Channel 5.

The program was taped in Washington Governor Romney's bid for a third term in the Nov. 8 election has attracted nationwide attention. He is considered a leading prospect for the 1968 Republican Presidential nomination.

Newsmen interviewing Governor Romney will be Martin Hayden, of the Detroit News; David Broder, of the Washington Post; Lawrence E. Spivak, permanent panel member and producer of "Meet the Press." An additional panel member to be announced. NBC News correspondent Edwin Newman will be the moderator.

Wild Kingdom

Marlin Perkins embarks upon an exciting and risky expedition when he goes unarmed deep into the jungles of India to film the adventures of a full-grown bengal tigress and her two young cubs, in "The Tigers of Sariska" on "Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom" color series on Sunday at 5 p.m. on Channel 5. Perkins and Jim Fowler are co-hosts of the series.

Highlights include the mother on a hunt for food for her young ones and her fight with an Indian bear to protect them. The cubs get into scrapes and danger as they encounter other jungle dwellers. A high point is their first meeting with a baby leopard.

Andy Williams

Count Basie and his orchestra, Tony Bennett, Lesley Gore and Herb Shriner share the guest spotlight on "The Andy Williams Show" colorcast Sunday, at 10 p.m., on Channel 5.

Andy and Tony chat about recent Las Vegas openings before Tony solos "Time for Love." Andy joins him in a medley of "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams," "Get Happy," "Pennies from Heaven" and "The Trolley Song."

Andy sings "Summer Wind" as he welcomes Herb Shriners return to the informal spot. The Hoosier humorist narrates his hometown movies, interspersed with old film clips.

Count Basie and orchestra swing out with "Everything's Coming Up Roses." Andy joins the band for "Time After Time," and Tony sings "Keep Smiling." Andy and Tony then harmonize in "Moment of Truth," backed by Basie and his music men.

Ed Sullivan

The McGuire Sisters, Noel Harrison, Topo Gigio, the New Vaudeville Band, and special guest Joan Sutherland will perform on "The Ed Sullivan Show" Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channels 2, 6, 7 and 12.

Other guests are the Marquis Chimps, comic Stu Gilliam and magician Johnny Hart.

Noel Harrison, familiar to television viewers as an actor, will demonstrate his singing talents.

The New Vaudeville Band in their American television debut will present their version of "Winchester Cathedral," one of the fastest rising records on the best-seller charts in years. The tune, as rendered by the English musical group, is credited with reviving the popularity of the pre-electronic sound of the Rudy Vallee era of the late 1920s.

Smothers Brothers

Tom and Dick Don't Kick At Series End

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can two talented, fresh-faced young men find success in television: The Smothers Brothers didn't the first time around, but in keeping with the tradition of fair play, they'll get another chance.

It could have happened next January. Tom and Dick were sought for an hour-long variety show first by ABC and then by NBC, which wanted them to substitute for the ailing Garry Moore Show.

That would have placed them opposite the seemingly unconquerable Bonanza. But Bonanza held no terror for the brothers Smothers.

"We would have liked the spot opposite Bonanza," said Dick, the serious brother. "A show that has been on the air for eight years is due for a fall."

But the Smothers turned down the offers to replace Garry Moore or Jericho.

TOM'S BEAT

"I'm just too beat," says Tom, the screwball brother. "I've been having a divorce and an ulcer, and I still haven't recovered from the last series. I don't want to go into another series tired. Everything has to be right, because we wouldn't get a third chance."

The Smothers Brothers Show, which faded from CBS last season, was a traumatic experience for both. They claim they were caught between masterminds who limited them to a rigid, unoriginal formula. The boys prevailed over the production advisers in installing an impromptu dialogue at the beginning of the show; it provided the wacky flavor for which the Smothers became famous.

"We're not ashamed of the show," said Dick. "It was only beaten three times in its time slot, and the rating at the end was excellent."

But next time, both vowed, they'll retain more control. They are looking forward to the variety show, which will probably start next September.

Meanwhile the brothers can be seen on Jack Benny's special Dec. 1.

"The Golden Ring", a 90-minute television program of Wagnerian proportions chronicling the making of a monumental recording—Wagner's music-drama "Gotterdamerung"—by some of the world's greatest operatic singers, will be telecast Wednesday at 9:30 p.m. on Channels 2 and 6's Festival Series.

Birgit Nilsson of the Metropolitan, the world's greatest living Wagnerian soprano, sings the role of Brunnhilde, baritone Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau sings Gunther, and tenor Wolfgang Windgassen is the Siegfried. Other world-famous singers in principal roles are Gottlob Frick and Claire Watson.

The Vienna Philharmonic is conducted on this occasion by Georg Solti, musical director of London's Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, who terms the Vienna orchestra "the finest Wagner orchestra in the world."

Produced in co-operation with the Austrian Television Service, The Golden Ring was taped by a mobile unit which moved into the Sofiensaal (a Viennese ballroom converted into a recording sudio) for the final eight days of the recording session. Some 16 hours of rehearsals, recording sessions and playbacks, and filmed interviews with the principals, were ultimately edited down to form the 90-minute television program.

The Gotterdamerung recording is the latest phase of a gigantic project ot record the entire Ring Cucle of Wagner — 17 massive stereophonic hours of music.

Historical Feat

Critic Alec Robertson, writing in "Gramophone," has said of the new Gotterdamerung recording: "The greatest achievement in gramophone history."

The technical operation behind a major recording of this nature is pointed up in the BBC-TV documentary; and it is seen as complex as the launching of a satellite. The music is, of course, tremendous; the people involved come through as interesting human beings.

Associate producers of The Golden Ring are Joh Drummond and Walter Klapper. The program is narrated and produced by Humphrey Burton.

Following the BBC telecast, Variety (in England) commented: "..... the program was immensely exciting . . . In sum, it was an enthralling revelation of the exact detail required to present Wagner's intentions . . ."

Said critic Mary Crozier in The Guardian: "The technical brilliance . . . was unsurpassable."

A review in the Daily Mail declared ". . . the best thing to happen to television in five years, not only as a musical program but as a technical development . . . a magnificent demonstration of what mobile recording units and editing facilities can produce when allied to brains and conscience."

The musical portion of The Golden Ring includes "takes" of some of the opera's greatest scenes — the Immolation Scene, Siegfried's Funeral March, and the Vengeance Trio that ends Act II of Gotterdamerung.

CBS Reports

CBS REPORTS: "The State of the Unions," a far-ranging look at American labor unions — their past accomplishments, present image amid charges of racial discrimination, parochialism and excessive power, and potential for improving conditions among the dispossessed of the land — will be presented in color on the CBS News hour Tuesday at 10 p.m. on Channel 7.

CBS News Correspondent Charles Kuralt is the reporter.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz compares American unionism's performance with that of European unions in regard to crippling strikes and discusses the dangers of government involvement in compulsory arbitration.

"The State of the Unions," produced by Joseph Wershba, considers, among other things, whether union power is more apparent than real. It points out that of a total work force of 77,000,000 Americans only 17,000,000 are union members and that union organization has virtually stood still for the past 15 years.

Evaluated on the broadcast are criticisms that unions have too much economic and political power.

Lost Movement

Also that they have not lived up to expectations in leadership on social issues; that unions have grown less militant and ready to help more unfortunate segments of the population; that the movement has lost the sympathy of the people.

Participants discussing these charges include Dr. Sylvester Petro, professor of law at New York University; Reed Larson, executive vice-president of the National Right to Work Committee in Washington, D.C.; Paul Jacobs, labor consultant for the Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara, Calif., and Dr. Jules Backman, research professor in economics at New York University.

How unions in the past have dealt with such charges as corruption and communism and labor's record in fighting racial discrimination in the craft unions are explored on the broadcast. Herbert Hill, labor secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is interviewed by Kuralt on the subject of racial discrimination.

DEATH DISPENSER — April Dancer (Stefanie Powers) and Vic Ryan (Denny Miller) keep a wary eye on Monsieur Le Gallows (Claude Woolman), an eccentric Thrush agent who dispenses death with a dueling sword, in "The Atlantis Affair" on "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E", Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m., on Channel 5.

Comedy Special

Bob Hope teams with Bing Crosby in a movie take-off titled "Fantastic Stomach" and gilds his guest lineup with a songstress from Viet Nam plus 10 beauties from Hollywood when "Chrysler Presents a Bob Hope Comedy Special" in color Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. on Channels 2 and 6.

The singer from Saigon is the raven-haired, 92-pound Bach Yen, who performs in seven languages. She will use three of them on the show when she sings a Vietnamese folk song, "Dem Dong," in her native tongue and follows with "What Now My Love?" in French and English.

Hope and Crosby, in their spoof of the hit motion picture "Fantastic Voyage," find themselves scientifically reduced to minute proportions for an adventurous voyage through the inner channels of Jackie Gleason's stomach.

In another sketch, this veteran duo — they started performing together in 1934 — play a pair of wealthy sportsmen with rival horses entered in England's Grand National steeplechase. Crosby plays the Englishman, Hope the Texan.

Crosby, in addition, sings a medley of his all-time hits, including "Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening" and "Pennies from Heaven."

Wojeck

Described by script writer Phillip Hersch as "the only comedy in the series," the Wojeck episode titled Another Dawn, Another Sunrise, Another Day guest stars Hugh Webster as Joseph Clara, a seemingly-inocuous little man suspected of murdering his wife by drowning her in the bathtub.

For telecast on Tuesday at 9 p.m. on Channels 2 and 6, Another Dawn, Another Sunrise, Another Day finds Coroner Steve Wojeck (John Vernon) investigating the sudden death of Clara's wife, Jean, in their rooming house flat.

Wojeck is pretty sure that Clara did the deed, but he soon discovers it's another thing to prove it. Meanwhile, the suspected murderer is becoming very chummy with his widowed landlady, the genteel and attractive Mary Kimberley (Moya Fenwick), and Wojeck believes she may be Clara's next intended victim.

HOME GARDEN

Clean, Dry Path Invites Tours

By JACK BEASTALL

Jack

In turn, ease and comfort depends on good paths, a missing feature of many gardens.

The purpose of a path is to provide a direct route from one important point to another, a strictly utilitarian purpose.

The point of commencement will be a house door opening to the garden, and the point of termination will be the compost pile or the garden shed. Between these two points it will skirt the rockery, the winter plantings, the vegetable garden, the incinerator and the sitting-out place where coffee and sandwiches can be enjoyed on mild, sunny winter days.

COMPOST PILE

Many a compost pile remains unattended during the winter, many a vegetable garden is left untouched, many a choice winter flowering plant is unnoticed, solely because there is no provision made to reach these points.

A clean dry path is an invitation to enjoy the garden in all weathers when it provides free and uninterrupted progress between the important areas.

The day has gone when paths were designed for ornament. Today they must be direct and utilitarian.

We have learned in the front garden that the mailman, the newspaper boy, and the house to house canvasser, will walk through a flower bed or border if it is part of the shortest route from sidewalk to house, or from house to house when fences are not present.

In the back garden we shall find the same thing happening if the paths do not take the shortest, most direct route.

SAWDUST TRAIL

There are several materials that can be used for building paths, and the choice will depend on whether the paths are to be permanent, or of a temporary nature for the wet half of the year.

Possibly the cleanest, cheapest, and most easily handled material for a temporary path is sawdust laid directly on the soil.

At spring clean-up time such paths can be sprinkled with a little ammonia fertilizer and then incorporated into the soil to add humus.

A more permanent, but movable path, can be made of wood slats in six-foot sections, the sections being laid or lifted to suit the gardener's whims.

Permanent paths, of which there should be at least one the length of every garden, can utilize either concrete or gravel.

Concrete is permanent, weed free, easy to clean, and pleasant to walk on regardless of the condition of grass or soil.

Its drawbacks are the amount of work entailed in mixing, the forms needed to contain the mixture until it sets, and the material needed beneath the concrete to form a solid, well-drained bed.

Some "gardeners" would rather work with concrete than with soil and plants, so the degrees of difficulty in producing a concrete path is determined by the ability, or the pocketbook, of the gardener.

GRAVEL PATH

Gravel is no more difficult to use than sawdust, excepting that one involves bulk, the other weight.

For a gravel path, the topsoil is removed to a depth of about four to six inches, in fact, this should be done for all permanent paths regardless of the material used. No garden has too much soil, and the surplus removed from the pathway is usually a welcome bonus.

With the topsoil removed, the resulting trench is filled with gravel and the path is completed for the present.

During the winter the surface will develop bumps and hollows which should be levelled by raking the surface at least once a week.

Once the bed has settled, a capping of gravel is spread to give a slight rise, or crown, to the centre of the path, and the surface set with a roller, if one is available, although rolling is not essential.

Sawdust may also be used for permanent paths, removing the top soil the same as for gravel, and filling in with the sawdust.

Shavings do not pack as solid as sawdust, therefore are not so satisfactory. Further, shavings do not drain so freely and the path tends to remain wet and springy after heavy rains. Agricultural, or "fertilizer" sawdust, is readily obtainable and perfect for paths.

We have just reached the point in the fall when we can see the need for clean walking surfaces around the compost heap and among the winter vegetables. Now is the time to provide for pleasant and enjoyable walking conditions for the months ahead.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. Would Laurustinus be suitable to use in an exposed position within 100 feet of the sea? — H. C. H., Beach Drive.

A. It is unlikely that the evergreen leaves of Laurustinus could withstand the effects of salt spray being deposited on them so close to the sea. Austrian-pine, Escallonias in variety, Tamarix, Forsythia, the Spiraeas, Yucca and Kerria are recommended, and most flowering shrubs which lose their leaves over winter when salt spray is prevalent.

Q. Should the poinsettia be brought into the warm living room now to get it to bloom for Christmas? — N. M., Oak Bay.

A. The poinsettia should have been outdoors all summer, growing into a bushy plant in the warmest spot available. Since mid-September it should have been in a sunny window indoors, and in continuous darkness from dusk to dawn.

If your plant is growing well, there is a chance of having it produce flowers and colored bracts late in January if you give it warmth now.

Mobile Homes

BUCYRUS, Ohio (UPI) — A new type of water hose that features odorless inner tube that imparts no taste to water has been developed for mobile homes and other uses. The hose connects mobile homes, travel trailers and campers to a central water supply and can also be used within a vehicle that carries its own water supply.

The hose, according to the manufacturer (Swan Rubber Division of Amerace Corporation), is specially treated to resist extremes of weathering, abrasion, cracking, kinking and deteriorating effects of ozone.

Shelves Beautify That Older Home

By PAULINE GRAVES

Here is an older home where space is limited. Built in the era of separate dining rooms and no den, the house had few architectural features to commend it. To rectify this lack and to make the dining room function as a study also, shelves designed by the architect-owner John Corey were installed along one wall.

Made of two different sizes of lumber, the shelves have a handsome design quality. Vertical pieces are of 1"x12"s, with 1"x10"s used for the horizontal shelves.

Having the verticals project two inches beyond the shelves gives a depth to the unit. They also extend four inches above the top to meet the molding, and this, too, adds interest.

Most unusual feature is the small desk, a box, actually, with a drop-down front that becomes a writing surface. The walnut makes a nice contrast with the white of the shelves, and the walnut is repeated in a band above that conceals a light tube.

Each side of the unit is 32" wide, for a total width of a little over five feet. Shelves are irregularly spaced, the lower one extra tall for tall books, and space two feet from the floor to match up with the knee space below the desk on the other side. Two upper shelves are for the average books and a wide space in the centre was left for display.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

If any clay pots, either containing plants or empty, are still outdoors, take them under cover where frost will not split them.

Plant leaf-losing shrubs: spiraeas, weigelas, buddleias, lilacs, tamarix and philadelphus.

Tie in all wanted growths of climbers so that damage from wind is avoided.

Gather leaves twice weekly if necessary, and layer them on compost heap with a little soil or other garden material over them to anchor them. None should be burned, for they help to form the humus we need in coastal gardens.

If manure is purchased at this season, stack it in alternate layers with any kind of plant waste from the garden — leaves, discarded annuals, cut-down perennials and discarded vegetable plants.

Zoning Need

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — More than 20 per cent of today's homes need zoned heating-cooling systems, according to an executive of a home comfort controls company.

Engineers have developed zone systems that can supply "modulated" or proportioned comfort to the living, working and sleeping areas of the home, says K. L. Wilson, vice-president of Honeywell, Inc.

A thermostat in each room senses the need for heat or cooling and sends signals to a central control panel to open or close dampers

FIRM GRIP ESSENTIAL

Hurricane Tests Nails

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A simple nail may hold the key to whether your investment in a home is worthwhile or not.

Why? Because nearly all U.S. homes are supported and held together by wood frameworks, regardless of the composition of surfacing materials.

So, says the Southern Pine Association, the strength and cohesiveness of the home must rely on the nail-holding power of the framing lumber.

The association, which has studied the effects of every major hurricane to strike the U.S. mainland in the last 40 years, says it came up with one fundamental finding:

The adequacy of nailing and the nail-holding power of structural materials were the major factors in resistance to hurricane force winds.

NORMAL CONDITIONS

But if hurricanes test the safety of a home, there still is the question of steadfastness under normal conditions. Thus, overall snugness, essential to the durability of surfacing materials and low cost cooling and heating, are assured if framing lumber maintains a firm grip of nails and other fastenings.

The time to think about these things, says the association, is in the planning stages of the home.

"First," says the association, "make sure that your home will be framed by lumber with good natural nail-holding ability. Some species of wood are better endowed by nature in this respect than others. Such differentials should be carefully considered when preparing lumber specifications."

Specify lumber that's properly seasoned and pre-shrunk before being surfaced to final size, the association advises.

"All freshly cut lumber is literally saturated with water inherited from the parent tree," it says. "As this moisture evaporates, wood cells contract and the lumber shrinks. Such loss of size is inevitable—regardless of species. It's important that it occurs at the mill—not after lumber has been placed in the framework of your home."

The Southern Pine industry, says the association, has standardized a process of drying (seasoning) and pre-shrinking framing materials to prevent loosening of nails.

Tricky Colors

NEW YORK)UPI(— Matching items for color is not the easiest task in the world, says the Tile Council of America. Because the human eye can see 10 million color shades, the trade association of domestic ceramic tile manufacturers says people shopping for a product or material should go with a sample of the desired color in hand.

Flower Care

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — In hot, dry weather blossoms mature daily on many flowers. Removing the dead blossoms helps to continue bloom and may often prevent disease from starting, reminds Craig S. Oliver, extension ornamental horticulturist at the Pennsylvania State University.

It's Not a Popular Job

L. E. S. de Villiers is probably one of the most unenvied people in the Ottawa diplomatic corps.

His job as information officer to the South African Embassy is to explain his country's apartheid policy to Canadians.

But not, he says, to "sell" Canadians on it.

"It's not necessary for Canadians to support a policy they have no need of," he said Thursday, before speaking at the University of Victoria.

All he wants is for them to get "some kind of understanding" of the reasons for separation of black and white in South Africa.

"Your situation does not require policies like ours," he said.

"And never in our wildest dreams," do South Africans expect completely full agreement with their apartheid policy from Canadians.

But they do expect, and have succeeded, in "stimulating discussion on a more reasonable basis than before," Mr. de Villiers said.

Apartheid Distorted In News

Criticism of South Africa's "apartheid" policy is nothing more than "inverse racism based on distorted news reports," a South African government spokesman said here Thursday.

Ex-journalist L. E. S. de Villiers, press officer with the South African embassy, argued before an audience of over 100 University of Cictoria students that many press correspondents "Seem to regard communication lines as a licence to malign and abuse."

He noted that following the assassination of South African premier Verwoerd, "this dastardy deed by a white madman unleashed a smear and hate campaign in some circles abroad—directed not against the assassin but against the victim and all that he stood for.

"Strange though it may seem, the men who led this campaign are men who constantly profess to be above all forms of racial hatred.

"Theirs is a sort of inverse racial hatred aimed against white men and women on the African continent," he added.

"They find no fault with African delegates at the United Nations celebrating Dr. Verwoerd's murder at a lavish champagne party."

He also had a few choice words for "so-called African experts" who gain their expertise in "a package tour of the continent with a few overnight stops in a few capitals which teaches them all the right answers to all the right questions."

He defended "apartheid"a s the policy of separate development. "The ultimate goal is to provide for the peaceful coexistence in present-day South Africa of seven black nations and a white nation.

"Politically independent, economically interdependent," he added.

Bow, Smile For Hiss

A low hiss ran down the line of pickets at the University of Victoria Thursday as South African press officer L. E. S. de Villiers ventured onto the campus to defend and explain country's racial policies.

The tanned young diplomat bowed and smiled, then walked on into the building where he was to make his address, leaving 30 confused picketers behind him.

The leader, bearing a crudely lettered sign, "What you lack in intelligence you more than make up in bigotry," did not wish to have his name, or even the caption on his sign reported in the press.

Opening lead—♥ Q

In a match point duplicate game the chances are that every South player of today's hand will get to three notrump and go after the diamond suit by playing the king and then leading toward dummy for a finesse. West would show out and eventually declarer would go down one or two tricks depending on whether or not he would try the club finesse.

The average rubber bridge player would probably go down but an expert duplicate game player would probably make four no-trump.

He would win the first heart in his own hand, lead a diamond to dummy's ace and a second diamond back toward his king-nine. He would plan to rise with the king in the event that East showed out or played the queen or ten. Assuming East did play low expert South would play his nine. Then he would cash his king; return to dummy with the ace of spades and give East his queen of diamonds.

This line of play would guarantee four diamond tricks against anything except a 5-0 diamond break. Four diamonds plus two spades, two hearts and a club adds to nine tricks.

How would expert South make an overtrick? East would probably lead a second heart when he got in with the queen of diamonds. South would have discarded a spade on the fourth diamond. He would discard another spade on the fifth. He then would cash his ace of spades and be left with the nine of hearts and ace-queen-small of clubs. Assuming West had held two clubs, South just might end play then by leading the nine of hearts.

New British Bid To Join Market

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson has announced he will soon make a "new high-level approach" to the European Common Market to find out whether Britain can join the six-nation community.

He also told the House of Commons he will convoke a conference in London in the next few weeks of heads of government of the seven countries in the rival European Free Trade Association to discuss possibilities that they might join the Common Market also.

Britain's EFTA partners are Portugal, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Austria and Switzerland.

The six countries of the European Economic Community, formal name of the Common Market, are Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and The Netherlands.

The purpose of these talks, Wilson said, "would be to establish whether it appeared likely that essential British and Commonwealth interests could be safeguarded if Britain accepted the Rome Treaty and joined the EEC."

The British government will then make up its mind whether to renew its bid to join the market, a bid that was vetoed in January, 1963, by President de Gaulle of France.

5 Musicians Eye Trip To Rose Bowl

Five local youngsters this week qualified for a chance to spend Christmas night and the week after in sunny California with all expenses paid.

They will be part of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses New Year's Day, appear on TV in the Rose Parade, and witness the Rose Bowl game.

The five, are musicians in local school bands who were picked as semi-finalists for the Robin Hood Band, sponsored by the Independent Order of Foresters.

They were chosen from 20 young Island musicians Wednesday night at S. J. Willis junior secondary, by Lt.-Cmdr. Tudor Jones, Senior service band director in Canada.

The five are: Don Mayer, 17, clarinet; Glen Thompson, 17, trumpet; and Ian Fetterley, 15, trombone, all of Mount View; Walt Kellythorne, 17, drums, Oak Bay senior secondary; and Robert Baxter, 17, euphonium, Mount Douglas.

A close score in their Wednesday auditions resulted in five of the students being chosen instead of the expected four.

Tapes of the youngsters' playing will now be sent to officials of the 155-piece band in California for final selection.

Highway Ferry Workers 'Have a Case'

Premier Bennett Wednesday conceded highways department ferry employees seeking equality of treatment with B.C. Ferry Authority employees have a case.

"I'm not in a position to comment," the premier said. "But I do understand they have a case to present to the Civil Service commission.

"The commission will decide their case. That's what it's for.

The 250 highways department ferry employees are objecting to regular shifts of as many as 17½ hours with straight time off instead of overtime pay.

HOME-MADE BOMB FOUND AT MARINA

Police turned the small taped jar with protruding wires over to navy demolition experts. No report has been received yet on the nature of the device, officers said today.

A marina employee said the "bomb" consisted of a face cream jar filled with an unidentified powder. The wires projecting from it were connected to the filament of a light bulb.

"It might have caused quite a bit of grief if put across the ignition of a boat," he suggested.

B.C. Appeals Decision On Juveniles

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada opened hearings this week on a British Columbia appeal case that challenges the right of Parliament to exclude juveniles from the provisions of provincial laws.

The attorneys-general of B.C., Ontario and Quebec are pitted against the federal justice department on the issue, which arose from a simple speeding ticket issued in Prince George, B.C., in July, 1964.

A 17-year-old Prince George boy was charged under the B.C. Motor Vehicles Act with exceeding the limit in a 30-mile-an-hour zone. He was tried in adult court where he pleaded not guilty, but was fined $400 or 90 days. Maximum is $500 or 90 days.

The boy's lawyer, Frank Perry, appealed to the B.C. Supreme Court on grounds that the 1908 federal Juvenile Delinquents Act takes precedence over provincial law. The court quashed the conviction.

A subsequent appeal by the B.C. attorney - general's office was lodged with the B.C. Court of Appeal. This court upheld the decision of the lower court on a 3-2 decision.

B.C. has now taken the issue to the Supreme Court of Canada with support from Ontario and Quebec. All three contend that the British North America Act, which sets the boundaries of federal and provincial jurisdiction, clearly gives the provinces control in highway traffic regulation.

Definitions of a juvenile vary among the provinces. It is under 16 years in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario and Saskatchewan, under 17 in Newfoundland, under 18 in Quebec, Manitoba and British Columbia and a mixture in Alberta—under 16 for boys and under 18 for girls.

The federal government is arguing that its statute falls under the BNA provision that Parliament has jurisdiction over criminal law "in the widest sense." This clearly excluded juveniles from trial or punishment by provincial law.

Youth Held In Custody Awaiting Term

A 19-year-old Mill Bay youth who spent five days at a city motel, then skipped out leaving a bill for $51.35, will be held in jail until he is sentenced Nov. 18.

Christopher Hutchinson admitted in central court Thursday he "just made up" the name of Jim Baxter of Vancouver when he registered at the Tally-Ho Travelodge, 3020 Douglas, on Nov. 2.

He pleaded guilty to obtaining lodging and food by fraud as well as charges dating from last April of being a minor in possession of liquor and consuming liquor in a public place.

Hutchinson told Magistrate Ostler he had no place else to stay while he was awaiting induction into the airforce.

He will be sentenced on all three charges the same day.

Driver Jailed For Impairment

George Haines, 3011 Scott St., was jailed for 21 days Thursday when sentenced in central court for impaired driving.

The accused had a previous convicition for the same offence last year court was told.

Man Convicted Of Assaulting Pensioner, 72

Gerald Meyer, 1139 McClure, was fined $100 Thursday when convicted in central court of assaulting a 72-year-old man.

Magistrate Ostler described Meyer's attack on Edward Galeow, 1015 Princess, on the porch of his apartment home early on the morning of Oct. 23 as "outrageous and indefensible."

Mr. Galeow, his wife and another tenant told the court they thought the noise they heard the accused making was the sound of him beating his girl friend.

It had been a long time since he had heard "two such unreliable and dishonest witnesses," the magistrate said of the defence evidence.

Mock Racing Costs Youth $150 Fine

A youth whose car sheared off a power pole and five small trees in an accident five weeks ago told police he had been pretending he was a racing driver.

Richard Neil, 1421 Beatty Street, was fined $150 when he pleaded guilty in central court Thursday to careless driving. His driving licence was also suspended.

He was fined an additional $35 when he admitted to being a minor in possession of liquor.

The charges arose from an accident on the West Saanich Road near Hartland Road, Oct. 2, when Neil's car travelled 450 yards out of control. One of three passengers suffered severe chest injuries, court was told.

Paper Bares More German Executions

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says an Associated Press dispatch published in a 1945 edition of Stars and Stripes, the United States Army newspaper, reported that 10 Germans in the hands of the Canadian Army in Holland after the war were executed by order of their officers.

The report said the men were caught trying to escape as civilians, and after a summary trial were sentenced to be executed. It said Canadians supplied the rifles and ammunition for the May 15, 1945, executions.

The Telegram published a photostat of the Stars and Stripes story dated May 17, 1945.

The executions appeared to be in addition to the two already under investigation by the Canadian defence department.

Navy Praised for Role As Boy Scout Mentors

And well there should be with 80 navy men from Esquimalt serving as local leaders.

In a letter to Pacific Maritime Commander Rear-Admiral John A. Charles, regional scout commissioner W. H. Gibson commented this week:

I wish to thank you "for the valued service being rendered by members of the services stationed in Victoria."

He pointed out that naval personnel account for 20 per cent of the active adult scout leaders who number 439. At the same time, both army and air force personnel act as leaders.

He added: "The support which our movement has received from your command in training courses, facilities and the loan of equipment is acknowledged with deep appreciation."

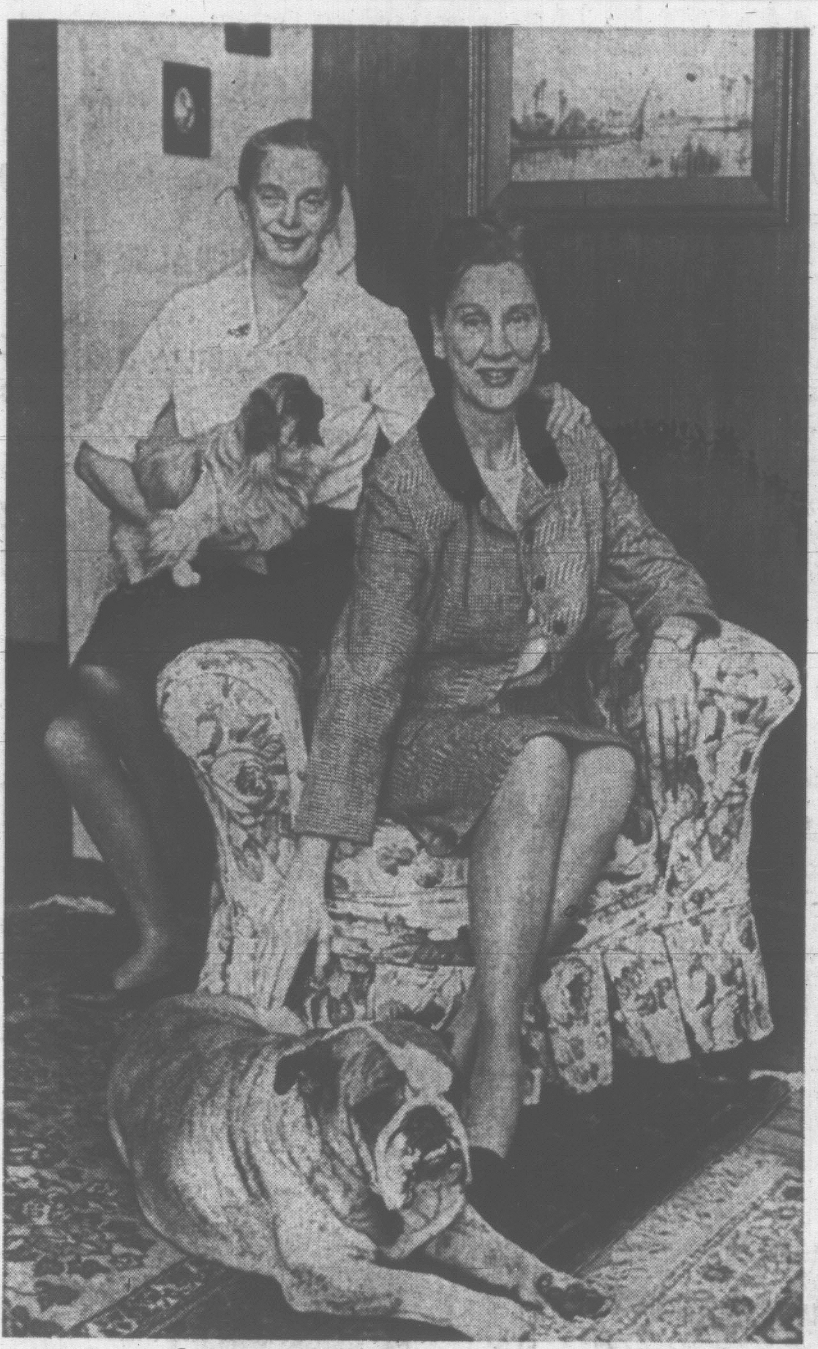
VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, NOV. 12, 1966—PAGE 33



Miss Bettina Byers and Miss Marjorie Haskins "decided to pull up stakes and head west" after a visit to Victoria last summer. They're seen enjoying their new home on Tudor Road with the household pets, Toto and Brookie.

Ballet Teachers Make Home Here

By PAT DUFOUR

Physical education programs in Canadian schools would undergo a radical change if educators and school boards pay heed to the advice of Miss Bettina Byers and Miss Marjorie Haskins. Ballet would be a "must" on every year's itinerary.

Miss Haskins and Miss Byers have been making their home in Victoria since late summer and bring a wealth of knowledge to our city for those who are interested in the colorful art of ballet. For the past 27 years, they have been teaching ballet and hundreds of dancers owe their ability and grace to the training they received at the Academy of Ballet which the two friends ran in Toronto, averaging a yearly student enrolment of 250.

Miss Haskins is convinced that ballet should play a major role in every school's physical education program. "There is no better way to develop good co-ordination and control than through the basic balletic movements."

Her friend adds her convictions: "You only have to look at the Russian gymnasts for good examples of this. Ballet is an important part of their training and some of their gymnasts are better dancers than the most outstanding ones we have!"

Both Miss Haskins and Miss Byers have devoted their professional lives to teaching. Says Miss Haskins, "I never had any desire to be on stage. All my training was geared toward a teaching career."

Miss Haskins admits that her height had something to do with her decision not to be a professional dancer. "I'm 5'9" — much too tall."

Her friend, in contrast, is a perfect height — 5'2" — but she, too, except for a brief period when she demonstrated for Dame Adeline Genee when she made a Canadian tour, promoting the Royal Academy of Dancing of which she was a founder member, has concentrated on teaching others the art form. A local representative for the academy, she met Miss Haskins when the latter "took in" one of Dame Genee's lectures.

This was in 1939 and the two friends have been together since that date.

Miss Byers is an intimate friend of Dame Margot Fonteyn, whom she met in England during her days of study and training. "We both studied under Miss Phyllis Bedells, who was the first great English dancer."

Although their stay here is short, the newcomers have already convinced one school of the merit of ballet as a basic training aid. Miss Haskins teaches at St. Anne's School twice a week. One class is for grades 1 to 7 and the other is for seniors.

What makes the project more exciting is the fact that Miss Haskins' students are doing their ballet exercises in their off-time periods.

On Monday, between 3 and 5 p.m., St. George's Church Hall at Cadboro Bay will become the centre of registrations for the newcomers' new classes to be held in the church hall.

Says Miss Byers, "We'll take everyone, from five years up."

Although her friend admits to liking teaching the feminine students better, says Miss Byers, "I'm waiting for the boys. When they sign up, they're really committed and put everything they have into their classes."

Elegant glitter for after-five . . .

Nothing contributes more to a party-ish mood than a dress or top that glitters under the bright lights . . . twinkles provocatively in the soft glow of candlelight . . . We saw some wonderfully elegant glitter at Wilson's this week . . . cocktail suits and tops from Hong Kong . . . There's a honey of a cocktail blouse in royal blue hand-knit wool completely covered with sequins . . . scoop neck, ¾ sleeves . . . Sleeveless tops in white lace besprinkled with bugle beads, pearls and sequins . . . come in all sizes . . . Ditto a lovely black top, which may be had in size 44 . . . White two-piece suits are knit in a leaf pattern, covered with iridescent sequins . . . or black with sparkly black sequins . . . They fit beautifully, and are soft and lovely to wear . . . A one-of-a-kind 3-piece cocktail suit by Dynasty is a real dream . . . White quilted embossed satin with a dogwood design . . . plain satin shell . . . size 14 . . . And for the lady who wears an 18, there's a beautiful black silk knit suit with an overall design of silk braid . . . scalloped around the jacket . . . ¾ sleeves . . . Another black silk knit . . . also one of a kind, size 12 . . . has the silk braid design on the jacket, plain skirt . . . Any one of these suits . . . including the glittery ones . . . is a model of understated elegance for after-sunset partying . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

There are 260 kinds of cologne and 166 scented lotions for men on the market today . . . twice the variety available a couple of years ago.

Hats . . . the crowning glory . . .

While we're on the subject of what to wear to cocktail parties, we want to say this: regardless of how lovely your dress or suit is, you're simply not properly dressed for the occasion unless you wear a hat . . . A hat is the crowning touch, and the sine qua non to real chic! (just look around you next time you're in San Francisco or New York or any of the great metropolitan cities noted for their smartly-dressed women). What's more, there's no excuse for not wearing a stunning hat when Miss Frith's have such an absolutely breath-taking collection of chapeaux for after-five! . . . Their imported models are delectable . . . like the white satin turban with discreet diamante trim . . . the rose-to-grape shaded velvet toque with satin and velvet flowers . . . the black Chantilly lace over brown satin, trimmed with jet beads, from Christian Dior . . . the sophisticated black satins with feathers . . . the lames and confections of tulle and flowers . . . But we hasten to add that you'll find numerous delightful cocktail hats in the pin-money bracket too . . . like the silver and black lame pillbox with a great pouffe of black tulle on the crown . . . plus many, many more . . . You'll never know how lovely you can look until you try on hats at . . . Miss Frith Millinery & Fashions, 1617 Douglas St. 383-7181.

Braised kangaroo tails, reindeer meatballs, and gourd shavings are just three of the exotic foods available in Washington's International Food Store.

Home's Gallery now on two floors . . .

Something new has been added at Home Furniture . . . the Gallery, where they display all their choice traditional furniture . . . has been extended to the lower floor . . . Just walk down the carpeted stairway and you'll find a lot more furniture attractively displayed . . . We were in this lower Gallery the other day and spotted a handsome new grouping . . . coffee tables, consoles, lamp tables, commodes, bachelor chests and chairside tables . . . all in solid mahogany, hand-carved, and with beautifully grained marble tops . . . Real heavy pieces (in weight, that is, not in appearance) . . . the sort of furniture that gives solidarity and importance to a room's decor . . . Coffee tables in various shapes . . . a big round one particularly lovely, to our mind . . . and its smaller version . . . The lamp tables, commodes, etc., all have one or more drawers whose handles are distinctive, being made of carved wood instead of the usual brass . . . The small chairside tables are just right for holding glass and ashtray when you're ensconsed in any easy chair . . . They're very modestly priced at $29.50 (for real marble and mahogany, mind you!) . . . and if you're not keen on marble, there are some very attractive little chairside tables for a mere $22.50 . . . Couldn't you use one or two of these in your house? . . . Home Furniture Company, 825 Fort St., 382-5138.

No floods in the Continental Room! ...

We were saddened reading about the dreadful flood devastation in beautiful Florence this past week . . . so consoled ourselves browsing in the Continental Room at Sydney Reynolds, where there are so many lovely things from the city of Dante and Michaelangelo, as well as from Venice . . . They're expecting a new shipment of those glorious Florentine trays which hadn't arrived yet . . . but we loved the little gold framed reproductions on satin of famous paintings . . . especially Degas' ballet dancers . . . at $3 and $3.50 each . . . One of these would make a delightful "small" gift for a discerning friend . . . Among other recent arrivals are Bohemian lead crystal salt and pepper shakers, in two sizes . . . you may have been waiting for these to come in . . . Also heavy cut glass bowls and decanters, sugars and creams, vases and water jugs . . . the latter in three different sizes . . . And from England, place and hot-plate mats and coasters in a number of designs . . . flowers, hunting scenes, famous English regiments of the last century, still lifes, reproductions of old etchings of ships and of cities . . . These mats come in sets of 4 and 6 . . . in assorted sizes, backed with cork or felt . . . The Queen's Beasts . . . They're most unusual and attractive for your own table, or for gifting . . . Sydney Reynolds Ltd., 801 Government St., EV 3-3931.

Time to start sewing for Christmas . . .

The imminent proximity of Christmas means many things . . . it means shopping . . . and baking . . . and letter-writing . . . and housecleaning . . . and . . . to those clever and lucky women with a flair for sewing . . . a time to whip up unique and handsome gifts, as well as make new clothes for themselves and their children to add to the joyousness of the holiday season . . . A visit to Saba's fabric department will spark all sorts of interesting ideas for Christmas sewing . . . We certainly wish Santa would bring us a gown made from the flowered sheer nylon quilted fabric which is so soft and cosy and sweetly pretty . . . floral print on pale pink, blue or white background . . . This is guaranteed washable, and is perfect for dressing gowns, housecoats and bed jackets . . . 45" wide, and priced at $4.50 a yard . . . Candies across the seas . . .

Wondering about a nice way to say Merry Christmas to friends and relatives in the Old Country? . . . We suggest you say it with Welch's chocolates . . . We're willing to bet your dear ones abroad will receive them with delight, and bless you for sending them such delectable goodies that they, along with their families, can enjoy . . . Just keep this in mind, though . . . November 24th is the closing date for mailing parcels to Great Britain . . . and if you can do so earlier, so much the better . . . No problem either, when you settle for Welch's . . . Just drop in the shop and make your own selection . . . write your greetings on a gay Christmas card which they'll supply . . . and give them the name and address of the recipients abroad . . . Welch's take over from there . . . They'll pack and mail the candy the very day you order it . . . speed it on its way across the seas . . . As a matter of fact, you don't even need go to the shop if it's not convenient . . . just pick up the phone and tell them what you want and where it's to go . . . A slight extra charge over and above the price of the candies takes care of packing and mailing . . . and you can be sure your toothsome gifts will arrive at their destination in perfect condition . . . Welch's Candy Shop, 755 Fort St., 383-6422.

A new product you will welcome . . .

It's not the sort of thing most of us talk about, of course . . . but all of us homemakers have certain less-than-pleasant jobs to do around the house . . . One that comes to mind is toilet bowl cleaning in the bathroom . . . Even with the various cleaners on the market, it's a miserable chore . . . Well, here's news we think you'll welcome, as we did: there's a new product called DuraSan which has just arrived in Victoria, although it's been enjoying terrific success for some time in Eastern Canada and the U.S. . . . It's a small sealed container filled with a special formula, which you just clip inside the tank . . . where it goes to work automatically and with every flush of the toilet, cleans the bowl to a gleaming brightness . . . as well as disinfecting and deodorizing . . . For around six months . . . which is DuraSan's average life span (about 3,000 flushes, they claim) . . . you can just forget about your most unpleasant bathroom chore . . . Price is $3.98 . . . and well worth it, say we! . . . We hasten to add that the chemicals released are harmless to children and pets . . . completely safe for diapers . . . You should be able to buy one at hardware or department stores . . . but if by chance your favorite store hasn't got DuraSan yet . . . phone Stan-Mac, 305 Montreal Trust Bldg., 386-7612 or 383-0809.

Prior to an Oriental luncheon fashion show at Tee Jay's Rickshaw, Palm Springs, lovely Paula Benson wears a "Waimea" of flamboyant Persian tapa cloth. The Waimea defines the waistline and falls with gentle fullness to the ankle in front. Panels of fullness cascade from the back waistline to the floor and give almost the feeling of a train to this formal Hawaiian gown which is part of the new season collection at Waltah Clarke's.

News from the South

PALM SPRINGS — Fashion shows vary with the season . . . they also vary with the location. The rapt attention of the feminine luncheon guests at the Tee Jay's Oriental Fashion show was easy to understand . . . these were clothes for there and now. The swimsuits, patio clothes and exotic gowns could, with no more than a quick try on and an exchange of currency, appear later on any of the women guests.

Damaske

The clothes from Waltah Clarke's beautiful Palm Canyon Drive shop were perfectly suited to the heat of desert days and the soft cool air of evening. Long elegant gowns such as the Waimea are worn in Palm Springs to hotel dining rooms and golf club parties. The exotic wildly-colored gowns show off to perfection, skin that is warmed to golden Oriental tones by the desert sun.

PATIO PANTALOONS

New and most intriguing were Turkish pantaloons for patio parties. This is a one-piece garment of extraordinary construction. The top is conventionally fitted but from the waist at the back a wide panel falls in a 10-foot length. There is a band with ties at the end of this length and it is brought between the legs to the front and up to the waist and tied around. The finished look is one of wide Turkish pants with complicated draping.

Shown also in the gorgeous Persian tapa cloth was a bare midriff hostess gown joined briefly at the back with the rest of the skirt attached to the bodice by golden link chains. If an evening of dining and dancing is planned at one of the big hotels it is better not to start out in a bare midriff costume as they are not accepted in all places.

Your dress may be slashed to the waistline back and front and five inches above the knees but please NO BARE MIDRIFF . . . funny world!

Costumes of a completely different nature were de rigueur for the official season opening party at the Tennis Club. The Halloween "Ghost Riders Party" called for Western gear. For those of us not equipped with boots and jeans, the atmosphere was captured with light straw ranch hats and toy side-arms. Some of the costumes were real productions. Imagine, if you can, cowboy pants and fringed jacket in silver and white brocade, worn with a sparkling white stetson and white boots. Western chic was evident in a fetching sparkling red lame cowgirl outfit. The short culotte skirt and shirt were trimmed with swinging white silk fringe.

EERIE DECOR

The spotlighted grounds of the Tennis Club had skeletons hanging from trees and witches peering around corners.

It is always a fun party when we open a new hotel or restaurant in Victoria but in Palm Springs at the beginning of the season every hotel and restaurant has an opening and these are all taking place right now.

Pete and Billy Snyder reopened their Metropole this week. A big fun opening with the former show business brothers setting a swinging greeting entertainment pace. The brothers won the celebrity part of the baseball tournament here recently.

REPLACED BY MATCHING 'BRAS'

Blouses Now Become 'Old Hat'

NEW YORK (AP)—If you are a true style sophisticate, you will keep your cool this spring when a female friend slips off her suit jacket and unperturbably sits there in her bra.

Blouses are old-fashioned, as of Wednesday when Pat Sandler of Highlights introduced his spring collection. Bras to match the suit make up the new "total-look concept," believes the designer.

In the beginning of the show, under-coat and jacket costumes consisted of bold colors or striped linings matching the shifts worn under them

Then, the first suit girl strode out, looking too smugly decorous in her brown and white checked costume for watchers to suspect, until she unbuttoned her jacket, then a orange polka-dotted bra saved her from total toplessness.

After that, the shockers came chicly, in black and white, or orange and gold.

These brief toppers were proper, designer Sandler said. Most people have come to accept the bare midriff, he says. "And the bra is both comfortable and modest."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Brighten Every Day With 'Flower Talk'

By Penny Saver

Who put the fly in the flowers? I doubt if my neighbor could answer that question. The incident happened at a morning coffee party—a gathering of the "over-the-fence club" of our block. My neighbor had placed a vase of authentic-looking flowers on the table—so realistic in fact that we were all wondering where she found such lovely summer blooms at this time of year. Adding to the reality was a small fly that wasn't easily discouraged from the blooms.

My neighbor finally confessed that the flowers were artificial. That morning was in my mind yesterday when I surprised a friend, who hasn't been feeling well, with a bouquet of fresh-cut flowers to brighten her day. I must have just missed her, either that or she was in a frantic rush and ran off without locking her door. I couldn't find a vase anywhere so I did my best to arrange these flowers in a tall, empty coffee jar. When my friend returned, she was so surprised she didn't even notice the jar—at least, not until it was brought to her attention.

Why don't you brighten someone's day with a "jar of autumn?" The flowers that I found were in vibrant tones of gold, yellow, bronze, mauve and white. One type has a large bloom with hundreds of petals. These almost resemble a porcupine with their long, dimentional petals extending like forks from the centre of the flower. These come in shades of gold and white, priced at $1.35 for six flowers.

Add beauty to your home with these flowers. Give Penny a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where she shopped.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Sympathetic Ear Provides Therapy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is people who tell me their troubles and ask for advice. Everyone I know has confided some sort of mess to me — money troubles, neighbor troubles, children troubles, husband, sex, household, and every other kind of trouble, until I've had it to the teeth. These people are my friends and relatives, so I can't very well avoid them or they'd be hurt. I am glad if I can help, but it's gotten to the point where my husband comes home, takes one look at me and says, "Well, what happened now — and to whom?"

I have my problems, too, but I don't burden anyone else with them. Well, I guess it's gone full-circle and now I'm telling YOU my troubles. What is your advice?

TIRED OF TROUBLES.

DEAR TIRED: Look at it this way, most people who tell their troubles to others don't want advice — they just want someone to listen to them. A sympathetic ear provides therapy for the troubled one, so consider yourself blessed to be able to perform that useful service.

DEAR ABBY: After 22 years of marriage my husband has announced that he is taking in his mother to live with us. We have a three-bedroom home and four sons — two boys in each bedroom and my husband and I in the third. I asked my husband where his mother would sleep and he said, "With you. And I will sleep on the living room sofa."

Abby, I have always gotten along well with his mother, but I didn't marry my husband to sleep with his mother. Besides, she has other children with more room than we have. My husband says he doesn't know how much longer he will have his mother, and as long as she's living she comes first.

Then he throws the Good Book at me, quoting the commandment about honoring thy mother and father. His mother is 64 and in good health. In fact, she's in better health than I am. What is your advice?

SECOND PLACE.

DEAR SECOND: "Throw the Good Book" back at him: "A man leaveth his father that brought him up, and his own country, and cleaveth unto his wife wherefore a man loveth his wife better than father or mother."

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Grist of Rivers, Man., announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Katherine Tericea, to Mr. Edward Harold Lewis, only son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Lewis, 612 Frances Avenue, Victoria. The wedding will take place on Saturday, December 17 in Immaculate Conception Church, Rivers.

Son of Victoria Couple Wed in Mainland Service

A wedding of wide interest to many in Victoria took place Friday in Hastings United Church, Vancouver, when Donna Ray Taylor became the bride of David A. B. Grieve.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Taylor of Tsawwassen and Mr. and Mrs. A. Grieve, 929 Claremont Avenue, Victoria. Arrangements of yellow and white chrysanthemums decorated the church for the afternoon service at which Rev. John Sorochan officiated. During the ceremony, Miss Allyson Geske sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dainty floor-length gown of white peau d'elegance. The empire-line bodice was fashioned of lace. A small coronet, shimmering with pearls and rhinestones, held the chapel veil which misted softly to her shoulders and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses atop a white Bible.

Miss Patti Taylor was her sister's only attendant in a street-length gown of yellow peau de soie, also styled on empire lines. Her self-fabric bow headpiece was edged with a toning veil and she carried yellow and white chrysanthemums in her colonial bouquet.

Michael Grieve was best man, and Don Robson and Glenn Grieve were ushers.

A. C. Scott proposed the toast to his niece at the reception following in the home of the bride's parents. The yellow and white theme was carried out in the floral arrangements which decorated the home.

The couple will be making their home in Vancouver, following a honeymoon trip touring the provincial interior. For travelling, the new Mrs. Grieve donned a sweater dress of royal blue, topped with a blue and white houndstooth check coat. She complemented the outfit with black accessories.

Castellani To Appeal Conviction

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyer A. A. Mackoff said Friday an immediate appeal will be launched against the capital murder conviction Thursday night of Rene Castellani.

Castellani, 41, former promotion man for a suburban Vancouver radio station, was found guilty by an all-male B.C. Supreme Court jury of the arsenic poisoning of his wife.

He was sentenced by Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan to be hanged Feb.21.

The jury was out for more than four hours before announcing the guilty verdict, and then deliberated another 10 minutes before stating it did not recommend leniency.

Mrs. Esther Castellani died July 11, 1965, in a Vancouver hospital, after complaining for about six months of headaches, dizzy spells and general weakness.

BODY EXHUMED

Several weeks after her death, Mrs. Castellani's body was exhumed on orders of the city coroner. The charge against Castellani was laid some time later.

The crown contended Castellani administered arsenic to his wife over a period of at least five months, while he was having an affair with Mrs. Adelaide (Lollie) Miller, 27.

Defence lawyer Mackoff said the Crown did not prove that Castellani was a poisoner. It had proved only that he was having an affair with Mrs Miller.

Mr. Justice Ruttan, in a 2½-hour charge to the jury, said that to find Castellani guilty it must be found beyond a reasonable doubt that he was the one who gave his wife arsenic and that has act in doing so was planned and deliberate.

'No Proof Heroin Harmful'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A pharmacologist told a meeting of the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association Friday there is no medical proof that narcotics such as heroin and morphine are physically harmful to the user.

Dr. Harvey Sanders, assistant professor of pharmacology at the University of B.C., said many addicts could lead "more normal lives" if present legal restrictions were removed.

He said he saw no reason behind laws banning the use of drugs under medical supervision.

When asked about restrictions imposed on marijuana and LSD Dr. Sanders said there was "certainly no reason for the legal people to take a hand."

Dr. Sanders said a heavy tobacco smoker would probably do more harm to his body through his smoking habits than a person who used marijuana.

Mr. Simons said that if drug addiction was left to the medical profession, drug addiction profiteering by criminals would diminish.

Three Charged In School Check

City police charged three drivers and warned 12 more in a road safety check around Victoria Senior High School this week.

A three-man team checked cars in the area as part of a continuing crackdown on reckless driving in the vicinity of city schools.

Police Recover Stolen Clothes

Thieves made their way into the shop's storeroom by way of the roof of an adjacent cafe. The clothing was found in an old elevator shaft in the Albany Hotel and on a ledge outside a first floor room.

BIRDS AND BEES WAS ONLY START

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC said today the film Human Reproduction, criticized by a school trustee after it was shown to 50 Toronto school children, will not be carried on Sunday night's public affairs television program Sunday pending a review.

A CBC spokesman said that "circumstances surrounding the production, as well as the sequence itself, would be reviewed with the program producers early next week."

Terri Thompson, writer - director of the program Sunday, said the movie the school children saw this week is simply an intelligent and constructive approach to the facts of life.

Replying Friday to charges from a trustee of the Toronto Board of Education that the film was too advanced for many of the children—some as young as 10 years — Miss Thompson said the film began with "the birds and the bees."

"It went on with one line saying that a child is born when a man and woman come together in the act of love—called sexual intercourse."

He said line drawings were used for demonstrations and the only unclothed people in the film were statues.

Ojections to the film being shown to the children came from trustee Barry Coutts, whose daughter was among those who saw it.

Mr. Coutts said Thursday the CBC used a pretext to get the children, from Deer Park, Parkdale and Oakdale secondary schools to see the film.

He said they were taken to the studio to participate in an inerview with Russian personality Olga Koutchina and were shown the film instead.

Miss Thompson said the CBC had expected Miss Koutchina to appear but when she failed to show up they went ahead with an idea they had been considering earlier — showing the film to children and televising their reactions on Sunday.

She said the sequence was scheduled for this Sunday's program.

"My major complaint," Mr. Coutts said, "is that the CBC misrepresented the film when they called the parents before he film was shown at the CBC studio. From what the CBC told me, I thought they were going to show a movie on family relations—like mother and father and children."

City Council Balks At More '67 Money

Victoria city council Thursday joined Saanich and Esquimalt in balking at further grants to aid centennial projects.

The stand was taken when the city's finance committee asked council to approve an expenditure of $325 to host 150 newsmen travelling with the Confederation Train to a Jan. 9 breakfast.

"Whye isn't this event being sponsored by the Centennial Society?" asked Ald. Griffin.

"We have given this society large chunks of money. We have spent thousands already and it looks as though there will be more and more of these requests," he added.

Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the train committee, said it was a great honor for the city to be visited by the special train.

"We as a city are being honored by the visit and possibly share the deepest responsibility," he said.

"Is it not true that they (the centennial group) said they had no funds?" asked Mayor Toone.

Ald. Baird affirmed that society representatives had made that claim.

At a society meeting earlier this week committee members were told that $28,000 was left in the centennial budget for events to be staged in 1967.

But co-ordinator Gerry Gosley said $24,000 of that total was being earmarked for a pageant.

The total budget for the society for 1967 amounts to roughly $57,000 of which $29,000 is required for administrative purposes leaving the $28,000 for the staging of events.

This year the society has spent about $50,000 with a little over $20,000 spent on events and $29,000 on administration.

"I don't think the $325 is so very important," Ald. Griffin said. "But the principle is. This matter should be sent back to the centennial committee with a reminder that we have already spent thousands of dollars on the centennial."

Earlier this year Esquimalt council said it would not contribute any more money to centennial fun and games.

On Monday Reeve Hugh Curtis told Saanich council the last thing the area needs is an "extravagant extravaganza" pageant and declined to support the project.

Victoria was a little more co-operative when it was asked for permission tostage a fireworks display at Clover Point on Sunday, Nov. 20.

Permission was granted.

The fireworks display precedes a mass interdenominational church service in Memorial Arena which will be attended by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes and the Lord Mayor of London.

Admission is free with tickets being issued at the Centennail office, Centennial Square on a first come, first served basis.

Victoria Backs Garbage Scheme

Victoria city council in special committee agreed Thursday that area garbage should be disposed of under regional jurisdiction.

But it wants a more detailed explanation of how disposal would work under regional control before making a formal commitment.

City manager Dennis Young had mild criticism for a report prepared for all municipalities by district municipal engineers and Dr. J. L. M. Whithread, senior medical health officer.

The report listed the various methods of garbage disposal and made suggestions as to how the present system could be improved.

"I am disappointed in the recommendations," said Mr. Young. "They haven't really come to grips with the long-range problem. I feel they should have been able to tell us what we should do and how much it would cost."

Mr. Young added he had understood the original idea behind the engineers' survey was that they would come up with a recommendation as to which was best, landfill or incineration.

Ald. Hugh Stephen said he felt that if the matter was to come under regional control the regional group should decide the method.

But Mr. Young said he couldn't see much point in turning the matter over to the regional board without specific directions.

Mayor Toone agreed.

He felt the "experts should be telling us what to do."

Woman Plans 6th Try For City Council Seat

Five-time loser Mrs. Evelyn MacKenzie will try for a sixth time to become a city alderman on Dec. 10.

That's the day Victorians go to the polls to elect the 1967 city council.

Mrs. MacKenzie's decision to run for office brings the list of candidates seeking seats on council to five and ends speculation that the four seats to be vacated could be filled by acclamation.

Three of the four incumbents in office have already announced their intentions to seek further terms.

Ald. Clyde Savage, Cecil Parrott and Percy Frampton will have their names on the ballot papers.

Ald. Michael Griffin remains silent.

The fifth candidate for aldermanic office is Greater Victoria School Trustee Lloyd Clarkson who announced this week he will resign his school board position to seek office on council.

Thursday city council formally approved Dec. 10 as election day and designated the Victoria Ballroom, 1600 Government, as the polling station.

Polling hours will be between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. with city clerk Morran Waller acting as returning officer and his assistant George Merz as deputy returning officer.

UKRAINIAN TOUR CUT BY FIRE IN TRAILER

HANLEY, Sask. (CP) — The Ukranian State dance ensemble from Kiev faced the possibility of cancelling the rest of their Canadian tour Friday after fire destroyed a trailer carrying electronic equipment and all the group's costumes.

The Russian dance group had finished a performance in Regina and were headed for a two-night stand in Saskatoon when the fire broke out on Highway 11.

The group cancelled two performances in Saskatoon. A spokesman said the fire might force cancellation of other engagements in Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver.

Film 'Shatters' Hollow Humanism

The movie, Mr. Brown Comes Down the Hill, will be shown in the Church of All Saints, Pallisier Avenue, View Royal, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Filmed at St. John's Wood Studios, London, England, Mr. Brown is a modern murder story.

"Its theme is as old as Christendom, its truth as modern as the space age," says Rev. John Vickers of All Saints.

"It shatters the hollow humanism and secularism of many moderns, Christian and non-Christian. It penetrates the web of compromise, prejudice and watered-down conviction which make it harder for men to find solid faith and true humanity in the world today."

The original play was written be Peter Howard who, until his recent death, was in charge of Moral Rearmament throughout the world.

After seeing the film, a bishop wrote:

The story is of three people climbing a mountain in search of God — the black man, the harlot and the bishop. At the top of the hill, the black man finds Mr. Brown.

The film asks: "What will happen when Mr. Brown comes down the hill and steps into the modern world? Will he be given a royal welcome or be crucified? Will he suffer most from his enemies or his friends?

Church of Our Lord is Victoria Landmark

Church of Our Lord To Mark 92nd Year

Sunday marks the 92nd anniversary of the founding of the Church of Our Lord by Sir James Douglas and Bishop Edward Cridge in 1874.

Standing on the corner of Humboldt and Blanshard, it is the oldest church in Victoria still standing on its original site.

Its roots go back to the early history of British Columbia immediately following the union of Vancouver Island and mainland colonies in 1866. There were no telephones, telegraph or railways and Victoria's population stood at about 4,000.

Founding families of the church included Senator W. J. Macdonald, Dr. John Helmcken, Charles Hayward and other pioneers of Victoria. Inside are many memorials to the founding fathers and it is recorded that Emily Carr and her sister worshipped there.

Over the past few years the church has been carefully renovated and preserved and much of its original beauty restored.

ANTIQUE OAK

Through the Centennial Year Restoration Fund, the interior has been entirely redecorated, the panelling redone in rich antique oak, the exterior refinished with special weather resistant paint and the grounds landscaped.

"More remains to be done," says Bishop Denys Rankilor, "but a faithful and enthusiastic congregation has done a magnificent job on the church.

"We hope all friends and descendants of the founders will join us in our Sunday celebration."

Bishop Rankilor will give the anniversary sermon.

ONE REHEARSAL SET FOR MAMMOTH CHOIR

Eight hundred voices are needed for the service of thanksgiving and prayer to be held in the Memorial Arena, Sunday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m.

All choirs in Greater Victoria have been invited to join the ensemble, which will be conducted by Frank Tupman, with Eric Boothroyd at the organ.

"We would also welcome singers who do not belong to choirs," says Mr. Tupman.

There will be one rehearsal in the Arena Sunday, Nov. 20, at 4:30 p.m.

AUSTRALIAN TEST

Ministers Preaching Over Industry's Roar

By VINCENT MATTHEWS

MELBOURNE (CP)—A group of Australian ministers known as "the new breed" which believes Christianity is not just a Sunday affair are donning work coats and hard hats to reach men in industry.

They talk over the roar of an assembly line rather than in the hush of a church. They discuss the performance of a machine with the same familiarity they would quote a passage from the Bible.

They take the wisecracks, the rough talk and sometimes even the suggestive joke, but they have won the respect and confidence of men in industry and the support of management and unions.

They are five full-time and 35 part-time clergy from 10 denominations making weekly visits to 47 factories in the Melbourne area working with an organization called the Inter-Church Trade and Industry Mission.

The mission director, Rev. Lawrie Styles, said:

"We don't try to force religion down the throats of the workers and this has surprised a lot of fellows.

"If they want to talk religion, it's okay with us. If it's politics, football or anything to let off steam, that's all right too. Our aim is to promote honesty, justice and responsibility in all sections of industry and to help with personal problems. These may be domestic, or difficulties at work or even alcoholism. We try to help.

"There was a lot of distrust when we first started going into the factories. But many workers were surprised when they found we were just ordinary blokes. Now we are on Christian-name basis and we like to think we're accepted as part of the mob."

Before a minister can join the group, he must take a course in management and union relations. Then he is briefed by a board of churchmen and union and management representatives.

The ministers have been so successful in Melbourne that their work now is spreading to other parts of Australia.

Praising their efforts, the Anglican Archbishop of Melbourne said: "The failure of the Church of England to come to terms with the industrial revolution 100 years ago now is more disastrously evident than ever. Woe betide us if we fall into the same mistake in Australia."

Guinea Expels Peace Corps

DAKAR, Senegal (CP)—President Sekou Toure of Guinea has ordered all American Peace Corps personnel to leave Guinea within a week.

The president also has decided to revoke the landing rights of Pan-American Airways and to close the Pan-American offices in Conakry, the broadcast said.

Toure was taking these steps presumably as a result of the detention of Guinean diplomats at Ghana while en route to the African summit conference at Addis Ababa.

The Guineans, since released, were passengers on a Pan-American plane which landed at Accra, Ghana, where Ghanaian authorities seized them.

South Africa Claims Record Immigration

PRETORIA (Reuters) — A record number of 36,920 immigrants entered South Africa in the first nine months of this year, a 50-per-cent increase over the same period last year, official statistics disclosed Wednesday. About a quarter came from Britain.

Two U.S. Churches Approve Union

CHICAGO (AP) — Merger of the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren Church, bringing together more than 11,000,000 Protestants, was approved Friday by delegates of the two denominations.

Meeting separately in the same hotel, the Methodists voted 749 to 40 for the union while the smaller evangelical denomination approved the proposal 325 to 88.

The new name for the combined denominations is to be the United Methodist Church.

The union is subject to ratification by regional conferences of the two groups throughout the world, with a two-thirds total cumulative vote necessary for approval.

CUSO Wants 400 More Volunteers

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Canada's version of the Peace Corps hopes to beef up its present contingent of 560 volunteers overseas to 1,000 by next fall, an official of the organization said this week.

Jon S. Church, 26, of Ottawa, associate secretary of the West Africa program for Canadian University Services Overseas, is spreading CUSO's message and recuriting volunteers.

More volunteers are needed to help in teaching, agricultural, and engineering programs in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, he said.

Professions and skills in greatest demand are electrical technicians, carpenters, agriculturalists, mechanics, engineers, doctors, nurses and surveyors.

He Casts Cash Upon Flock —It Returns With Interest

CHARD, Somerset (AP) — The vicar of St. Mary's was an 8-to-1 winner today—all because he put into practice Christ's parable of the talents.

He preached about the parable in his church a month ago.

Then he gave each of his parishioners two shillings and sixpence (25 cents). Total outlay: £45 ($135).

And now the 14th century church is richer by £325 ($975).

"I haven't heard of anybody putting half a crown (two shillings and sixpence) on a horse. Of course, that doesn't mean it didn't happen," the vicar said.

"If someone did and lost his money, he obviously started all over again with his own half crown."

Even children who were given sixpences—£3 ($9) in all—returned with a total of £13 ($39).

The parable was about the rich man who gave his servants talents currency and told them to go out and multiply them.

3,500 ATTEND MEMORIAL SERVICE

A Few Less: To Remember . . . To Ponder Failures

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Every year the old familiar faces.

And every year a few less.

Strange, because we pray for peace while glorifying the sacrifices of war. Sad, because the survivors grow fewer each time we turn out for the annual parade to the Victoria Cenotaph.

Missing this year was Major William Garrard—the spry, straight-backed veteran who marched in the Victoria parade every year from 1919 to 1965.

He died two months ago at the age of 87.

* * *

Others were absent, but it was still a fine turn-out of men and women from the First and Second World Wars and the Korean War, with one of two survivors of the half-forgotten South African conflict.

More than 3,500 participated in the time-honored service at the Cenotaph, held every year under auspices of the Royal Canadian Legion.

* * *

A chill wind stirred the flags above the lawns of the Legislative Building as the great parade of veterans, servicemen and cadets assembled. There were rumors of snow, such as descended on the gathering on Nov. 11, 1955. Happily there was none and a warm sunshine broke through the clouds as the service proceeded.

The two minutes' silence began with the firing of a gun on the last stroke of the 11th hour by the 5th (B.C.) Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery.

Clem Gill, former secretary of the Pro Patria branch, Royal Canadian Legion, then read the lines he has read for more than 30 years:

"They shall grow not old as we that are left grow old; age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun, and in the morning, we will remember them."

Mr. Gill joined up in Victoria in 1914 and served overseas with the 7th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force.

"We realize how little we have accomplished in keeping faith with those who gave their lives to end war," he said. "The extent of our failure is reflected in the Mediterranean, in Asia, in Africa and elsewhere.

"We are still a very long way from the ideal for which they died."

The service followed its time-honored pattern. The lament, Flowers of the Forest, was played by Pipe-Major Frank Knight and the pipe band of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's).

* * *

The hymns, The Silent Tribute and O Valiant Hearts, were sung and prayers were offered by Lt.-Col. R. O. Wilkes, vicar of St. Philip's Anglican Church.

Mrs. Annie Kater of Victoria, who lost her husband and a son in the two World Wars, placed a wreath on behalf of the bereaved mothers of Canada.

Wreaths were also placed by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes; Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, on behalf of the B.C. government; Rear-Admiral J. A. Charles, Pacific Maritime Commander; Mayor Alfred Toone of Victoria, and reeves of the municipalities, representatives of the government, the church, the armed services, the RCMP, the Canadian Red Cross Society, IODE and ladies' auxilaries.

* * *

After the Cenotaph service, Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes took the customary salute at a march-past in front of the Empress Hotel. The Canadian Scottish Regimental Association held its customary noon service in Pioneer Square adjoining Christ Church Cathedral. Very Rev. J. Lewis McLean, DD., officiated.

Remembrance Day services were also held at Esquimalt Memorial Park; Gorge Park, Saanich; Uplands Park, Oak Bay; Langford, Metchosin and Sidney.

AFTER 18-YEAR APPRENTICESHIP

More Important Duties For Britain's Prince

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP) — Prince Charles completes 18 years of apprenticeship for the British throne Monday and takes further steps toward attaining his inheritance in a process of grooming and time-filling that could last into the next century.

At 18, the prince comes of age in terms of some royal functions and perquisites. He becomes regent - designate, qualifies as a counsellor of state and privy councillor, is eligible for investiture as a Royal Knight of The Most Noble Order of the Garter, can appoint his own equerry and private secretary and gets a raise in pay to $90,000 a year from an income of between $35,000 and $50,000 in recent years.

CHARLES
. . . $90,000-a-year

Of more personal importance, however, are decisions he and his parents must make soon on higher education and training after he completes high school courses at Gordonstoun boarding school in Scotland, possibly by early next summer.

One suggestion made by newspapers ever ready with advice for the Royal Family is that Charles should spend a year or two at a Canadian university such as McGill of Montreal.

Faces Long Wait

Whatever the choice for Charles's immediate future, some Britons have said publicly they hope he finds a career more meaningful than the dignified glad-handing or playboy time-killing in which previous heirs have spent the years until they succeeded to the throne.

Edward VII was forced to fritter away almost 60 years waiting to succeed Victoria in 1901. George V was almost 45 when he took over the throne 9½ years later. The Duke of Windsor had nothing much to do between leaving school and the age of 41, when he sat on the throne for 11 months in 1936.

Charles could be well into his 50s or older by the time he reaches the throne, in the 21st century. If forbears are any guide to longevity, the Queen, now 40, will live into her 80s. Her mother is hale at 66, her grandmother Mary lived 84 years and the previous two queens, Alexandra and Victoria, both lived to be 81.

British writers about royalty have been vague about how Charles should go about getting and giving satisfaction during the waiting years. Michael Rogers proposed in The Sunday Express a couple of years ago that Charles should be made a sort of reigning junior partner, helping his mother rule. Richard Sear suggested in The Daily Mirror recently that Charles eventually should become a governor-general.

Nose Broken

In the meantime, the legacies of his 18th birthday are likely to make little change in the prince's day-to-day life at Gordonstoun. He is head boy of his residence, studying with an intellect said to be average for his "A-levels"—advanced-level subjects equivalent to Canadian senior matriculation—and engaging in English schoolboy sports such as rugby, at which he recently suffered a broken nose.

As regent-designate, he replaces his father, Prince Philip, as the person who would assume the monarch's duties if the Queen became incapable of fulfilling them.

As one of the six counsellors of state, he could be one of at least two named by the Queen and the British home office to act in her absence from the country—such as during her trip to Canada next year — signing documents, giving royal assent to legislation or receiving ambassadors. The others are Prince Philip, Princess Margaret, the Duke of Gloucester, 64, and his son William, 24.

As a royal adult, Charles is eligible for formal participation in the privy council, the formal state body that includes present and former British and Commonwealth cabinet ministers, some of whom meet from time to time for the formal proclamation of government orders.

Although the Queen named her son Prince of Wales, Earl of Chester and Knight of the Garter at the close of the 1958 Commonwealth Games in Cardiff, when Charles was nine, he has not been invested in those titles. He now is of age to be invested a Garter knight at the annual ceremony in Windsor.

The Queen has yet to make her personal decision to carry out the traditional investiture as Prince of Wales, a miniature coronation at the ruins of Carnarvon Castle, where the first Prince of Wales was invested as an infant in 1301.

It was as Prince of Wales that Charles recently performed his first royal act on his own initiative—he sent a telegram of sympathy from Gordonstoun to the lord lieutenant of Glamorgan County in Wales on the day a slag heap collapsed at Aberfan and killed 147 persons Oct. 21.

As a pupil, Charles is unlikely to claim his right at 18 to appoint an equerry—a personal aide—or a private secretary, though he could well afford to pay the salaries.

Worth Half Million

Charles has accumulated a personal fortune estimated conservatively to be worth at least $500,000 since becoming Duke of Cornwall automatically on the accession to the throne of his mother when he was three.

Created in 1337 by Edward III for his heir the Black Prince, the Duchy of Cornwall makes Charles landlord of Dartmoor prison in Devon, a prep school in Gloucester, pubs and a fish and chip shop in Lambeth, and The Oval, home of the Surrey Cricket Club in Kennington, London.

In all, the duchy collects rents from 108,000 acres—mainly farmland — in Devon and Cornwall, 4,000 acres on the Scilly Isles and 40 acres of real estate in London across the Thames from Parliament.

In 1952, the annual income of the duchy was placed officially at $270,000 a year and it is estimated now to be about $450,000 a year. Charles was assigned one-ninth of the income until he turned 18, when his share goes up to a flat $90,000 annually. At 21, he gets the whole income.

Schools Picked

Despite his wealth and titles — he also holds the nominal Scottish titles of Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, Baron Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Great Steward— Charles has received schooling that is unconventionally common by royal standards, if several cuts above the conventional in popular terms.

With his father calling the tune, Charles has followed Philip's footsteps as a day pupil at a middle-class school in London, as a boarder at Cheam preparatory school in Hampshire and, since 1962, at Gordonstoun, where the emphasis is on individual initiative as expressed in hiking, sailing, mountaineering and swimming.

The same stress on building personal drive and inventiveness is a feature of Geelong school in Australia, an outdoorsy school where Charles spent a term earlier this year at Philip's behest.

Charles plays the trumpet moderately well, strums a Beatle-style electric guitar, has acted Macbeth in school drama, is a veteran hunter— he first used a shotgun at 11 and shot his first deer at 13— and drives the royal cars with an expertise gained from instruction on the Balmoral estate in Scotland.

Woman's Kidneys Aid Pair

TORONTO (CP)—Two men who received a kidney from the same woman two days ago are given a better-than-even chance the transplants will work for at least a year.

Willem Weber, 32, and John Dorosz, 42, both of Toronto, each received a kidney from Doreen Skilton, 39, whose husband, consented to the transplant as she lay dying of a cerebral hemorrhage.

"We always agreed if anything happened to either of us, this is what we would do," said the husband, Fred Skilton.

The doctor supervising their post-operative care said Friday night that both kidneys are functioning as well as can be expected, but the critical period is the first three weeks.

Mr. Weber, a vending machine operator, has been sick for three years and had been using a kidney machine since last January.

The two men were chosen for the transplant from among eight others also on the kidney machine at Toronto Western Hospital. The chosen men are in the same blood group as the donor. Mr. Dorosz is married and has three children.

Mr. Skilton said his wife became ill Wednesday night and died early the following day. The transplant operations began an hour later.

Easier Divorce By Consent Sought In U.K.

LONDON (WP) — A government-appointed law commission this week favored a new ground for divorce in Britain — mutual consent by husband and wife after a separation of at least two years.

This and other liberalizing proposals set forth by the five-man group are certain to be attacked by churchmen and to pose a touchy issue for the government, since parliament must enact any changes in divorce law.

The commission headed by Mr. Justice Scarman, a divorce court judge, considered two other grounds for divorce as feasible — either straight consent or breakdown of a marriage. But the consent-plus-separation grounds was suggested as a compromise.

LOWER RATE

The recommendations come amid a growing debate over present law, which specifies as grounds a "matrimonial offense" — adultery, cruelty or desertion.

Some 40,000 persons a year obtain divorces in Britain, which the commission noted was a lower rate than in many countries. But the jurists said that the present laws encouraged hypocritical evidence and even perjury.

One estimate is that 75 per cent of all divorce cases are "fixed" by prearranged and faked evidence. Moreover, newspapers can quote intimate details from a judge's summary, with damaging consequences for children of divorced parents.

The Anglican and Roman Catholic churches have long opposed any divorce-by-consent formula. But early this year, a committee reporting to the Archbishop of Canterbury suggested that irrevocable breakdown of a marriage could be used as a comprehensive formula.

The law commission found procedural difficulties in this approach, since it would involve detailed inquests into each marriage.

A good divorce law, it felt, should save marriages that have a chance of survival, and provide for "the decent burial with the minimum of embarrassment, humiliation and bitterness for those that are indubitably dead."

COLOR-BY-NUMBER
FUN LAND

A surprise picture is hidden amongst the jumbled lines above. Young readers can find it by filling segments with crayons or colored pencils according to the key: 1 — Yellow; 2 — Red; 3 — Blue; 4 — Orange; 5 — Green; 6 — Violet; 7 — Black; 8 — Brown; 9 — Pink. For pink use red lightly.

Some idea of what the drawing is about might be conceived by careful scrutiny, but you could be fooled.

Apply colors neatly, of course, for the most attractive effect. If more than one person wants to take part, distribute colors and apply them in turn. Afterwards, you may wish to use the scene as a wall decoration.

ELEPHANT RIDDLE

Why did the elephant sit on the marshmallow?

Answer: To keep from falling into the hot chocolate.

COLORFUL QUESTION

Reds and whites total 125. Whites and blues total 175. Blues and reds total 150.

How many stars in the box?

Answer: Two hundred and twenty-five. If R plus W is 125, W plus B is 175 and B plus R is 150, then 2R plus 2W plus 2B is 450, and 1R plus 1W plus 1B is 225. Hence there are 100 blue, 75 white, 50 red.

CHIP-DOWN CHECKER TEST

It's exciting finishes like this that explain why checkers is a game that's over a thousand years old. White side, moving up the board, to move and win in four moves is the challenge. How's it done?

Solution: White 15-10, Black 6-15, White 11-7, Black 2-11, White 17-13, Black 26 17, White 13-6, Black 1-10, White 21-14-7-17-23.

QUARTERS IN THIRDS

Alonzo and Alphonse have a certain number of coins, specifically quarters. The total value is less than five dollars. They want to combine these into one sum of money and split it three ways, with one share of the sum going to their brother Arthur.

If Alphonse gives one quarter to Alonzo then both will have the same amount, but if Alonzo gives one quarter to Alphonse, then Alphonse will have twice as much as Alonzo. However, if Alphonse then would give half of his quarters to Arthur, each of the three boys would have the same amount.

That being so, how much money would each then have?

Answer: One dollar. At the start Alonzo had five quarters and Alphonse seven quarters.

TRIPLE PLAY

A triple decapitation with a timely beginning:

Untouched I tell of budding growth and life.
Beheaded I lead upward more or less;
Again — with varied fragrance I am rife;
Again — but little value I express.

What four words obtain?

Solution: Nascent, ascent, scent, cent.

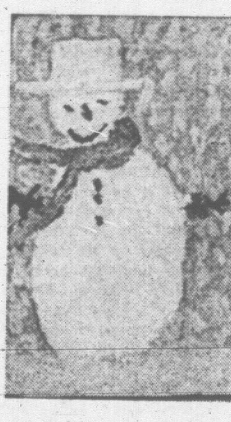
STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

Britain is issuing two Christmas stamps this year. One will feature one of the Kings of the Orient; the other a snowman.

The unusual thing about them is that they are both the work of children, the winning designs being chosen from nearly 5,000 which were submitted by youngsters from all parts of the country.

The two winners — Tasveer Shemza, a Pakistani girl living in Stafford, who sketched the King design, and James Barry, from London, who was responsible for the snowman, are both just six years old. Each of them was awarded £20 for their entries.



Britain once before made use of a sketch submitted by a 14-year-old schoolgirl, and it formed the basis for the short-lived King Edward VIII issue.

But in this case the original drawing was merely employed as a model, the finished stamps being the work of a well-known artist.

In the case of the Christmas stamps, however, the designs are being reproduced exactly as submitted by the children, except for the addition of the Queen's head, stamped in gold. and a table of value.

* * *

As most collectors know, early issues are generally worth a premium when still affixed to the original cover.

An extreme example to prove this point appeared at the Harmer Rooke auction held recently at their New York salesrooms, when a New Brunswick 17c stamp of 1860 on part of a registered envelope sold for $1,450.

Had the same stamp been soaked off cover it wouldn't have fetched more than $5! The reason this cover brought such an extraordinary sum is that only four similar examples are known.

This is really quite a mystery, because the 17c, which prepaid the rate to England, was in use for seven years; and although somewhat scarce in used condition, is not actually rare.

Why, then, did it happen that everyone who originally came across this particular stamp, apparently immediately soaked it off, when far rarer stamps were fairly often left on cover?

RHODESIA HEAD ASKS MAN-TO-MAN TALKS

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith has called for new "man-to-man talks" in a final effort to solve Rhodesia's independence crisis, apparently meaning a face-to-face meeting with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Smith put forward his suggestion in a country-wide radio and television broadcast Friday, the first anniversary of his white-minority government's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain.

Meanwhile, in London, British officials said Friday there are no plans for any meeting between Wilson and Smith.

Well-informed sources there said no formal proposal for any such meeting has been made by either side. They indicated Britain would in all probability turn it down if it were made.

TOPS UN POLL

Canada Voted Council Team

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada was elected a two-year term on the UN Security Council Friday.

Chosen earlier by the WEO (Western Europe and Others) bloc as its candidate for one of the five non-permanent seats in the 1967-68 terms, Canada got 114 out of 119 votes cast in the UN General Assembly.

Other new members are Brazil, which also got 114 votes; Ethiopia, 109; Denmark, 108, and India, 82.

They take up their seats Jan. 1. Ambassador George Ignatieff will be the chief Canadian delegate at council meetings, which may be called at any time.

It will be Canada's third term on the council, which has the primary responsibility under the UN charter for meeting threats to international peace and order.

Besides the five new members, the Security Council has five permanent members, the United States, the Soviet Union, France, Britain and Nationalist China, and five members serving 1966-67 terms, Japan, Nigeria, Mali, Bulgaria and Argentina.

The new members replace New Zealand, The Netherlands, Uganda, Jordan and Uruguay.

Other countries that received assembly votes in the secret ballot Friday for council seats were Syria with 42; Sweden, three, and Italy, Pakistan, Somalia, Kenya, Senegal and Mexico, one each.

LOOKS INTO DISPUTES

The 15-member council may investigate any dispute that, in the opinion of a UN member country or of the secretary-general threatens international peace and security.

It is likely to be battleground in the British-African quarrel over Rhodesia at the time Canada becomes a member.

Britain pledged at the Commonwealth conference in London in September to go to the council for selective, mandatory economic sanctions against Rhodesia if Prime Minister Ian Smith's white-minority government hasn't repudiated its Nov. 11, 1965, declaration of independence before the end of this year.

African countries, pressing for the use of force, have raised the question of Rhodesia time and again during the current UN assembly session. Britain has refused to yield to demands for the use of force and in this, it has had the support of Canada, the United States and most other members of the WEO bloc.

Canada also is serving a three-year term, which expires at the end of 1967, on another of the UN's principal organs, the 27-member economic and social council.

For Servants More Freedom In Politics?

OTTAWA (CP) — The ticklish question of political activity by federal civil servants is about to be resolved, with all indicators pointing to greater political freedom.

After many meetings, the Senate-Commons committee on the public service has whittled its study of the proposed Public Service Employment Act down to the section dealing with political activity.

The present act and the proposed legislation bar all civil servants from practically all forms of political activity—except the right to vote. However, since hearings on the proposed bill began, speakers from all parties, and public service and other unions have indicated they favor greater political freedom.

Revenue Minister Benson, who in his other cabinet role as treasury board president is destined to become the management voice when another proposed bill gives federal employees collective bargaining, introduced the political-activity section this way.

In an interview Friday, he said the government has a "completely open mind in this regard." He personally felt an extension in political freedom was in order.

WILL AFFECT ALL

The present and proposed sections warn that all public employees—some 200,000 will be affected by the proposed legislation—may not engage in partisan politics, including soliciting or making campaign contributions. The penalty is dismissal.

FAVORS INCREASE

Richard A. Bell, Conservative member for Ottawa's Carleton riding and a former citizenship minister, says his party has no official position on the question. He favors increased participation in politics.

His position, he said, is much like that expressed in a memorandum to the committee by the independent Civil Service Commission, which administers the act.

The memorandum outlined a system in which junior civil servants could be given complete freedom to participate in partisan politics, those in medium-echelon jobs be given limited freedom, and senior officials remain under a complete bar.

PRESS FOR FREEDOM

The 115,000-member Public Service Alliance is on record as saying government employees "should be as free as any other citizens to take a normal interest in the political affairs of their country."

However, alliance spokesmen drew the line at civil servants speaking or canvassing openly on behalf of federal or provincial candidates. But there should be no restrictions on participation in municipal politics.

With the government's "open mind" on the question, a committee recommendation granting civil servants greater political freedom may be just around the corner.

Court Vetoes Bennett's Hope For Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Bennett of British Columbia Thursday was denied leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against an order for retrial of a slander suit against him.

The court's decision leaves the way clear for George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the B.C. purchasing commission, to take his case against the premier back to the B.C. Supreme Court Jan. 9.

But the B.C. Appeal Court ordered a retrial, and this will now go ahead following refusal of the Supreme Court of Canada to grant Mr. Bennett permission to argue against the order.

TWO COUNTS

Jones was charged by the B.C. attorney-general Oct. 2, 1964 on two counts of unlawfully accepting a benefit as chairman of the purchasing commission.

When the counts were thrown out in county court, the Bennett government introduced a bill in the B.C. legislature compelling the retirement of Jones from his job.

Slander was alleged by Jones in remarks the premier made March 5, 1965, at a time when the bill was before the legislature and the attorney - general still had an appeal on the criminal charges pending in the courts.

Mr. Bennett's request for leave to appeal was heard Monday by Mr. Justice Ronald Martland, Mr. Justice Roland Ritchie and Mr. Justice Emmett Hall.

TO AID INDIANS

Radical Changes Proposed

The B.C. Indian Advisory Committee met in an Indian community this week for the first time in its 16-year history.

The committee, which includes Indian and non-Indian members, met Nov. 4 and 5 in the Lytton Native Community Hall and heard some suggestions for radical improvements in provincial government contact with Indians.

Spokesmen told the committee that it should study the contentious question of taxing Indian lands leased to others.

They also asked the provincial services be extended to all Indians and particularly criticized the failure of the provincial government to spend money on roads or other services on Indian lands it has leased for industrial development and from which it receives tax revenues.

MEDICAL SERVICES

The committee was told there is an urgent need for more adequate medical services in Indian communities.

In addition, the spokesmen stressed that the provincial Public Schools Act ban against Indians being permitted to run for school trustee posts should be lifted.

It was pointed out that in areas such as Lytton, up to 60 per cent of the school children are Indian yet their parents are forbidden from serving on school boards as full members.

Chairman of the advisory committee, Ross R. Modeste, Koksilah, welcomed new members Clarence Jules of Kamloops and Paddy Leon of Topley Landing. Among the continuing members is Dr. Robert B. Lane of Victoria.

Green Berets Shot By Viet Friendlies

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese Rangers today assaulted a U.S. Special Forces building at Hon Quan, 70 miles north of Saigon, and two Americans were wounded, reliable sources said.

Tempers flared, informants said, after trouble had been building up during the week.

These sources said the Rangers used two armored personnel carriers to knock down part of the wall at the recreation club used by the members of the Green Beret Special Forces team stationed at Hon Quan, then fired into the building with automatic weapons.

There have been reports of friction between some South Vietnamese Rangers and American troops in the region of the last few weeks, and the incident today was believed to be the climax of bitterness on both sides. One account said an American soldier had been killed in a club there recently, and that a South Vietnamese soldier had been beaten up in retaliation.

AFTER DIEF LASHING

Day-Night Sessions Off

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The government has abandoned its plan to have the Commons begin 24-hour sittings Monday, Government House Leader McIlraith said today.

BENSON

"... Unless Dief comes up with something new," the House will proceed with normal sitting hours, he said.

Formal notice of motion that Commons sittings would continue without a break until passage of an interim supply bill was given Thursday — before Revenue Minister Benson announced the necessary funds to meet government bills had been found.

Mr. McIlraith said the original move was "a very good one in the circumstances."

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker had denounced the proposed round-the-clock sittings as a Liberal move to embarrass him at the national Conservative convention, which starts here Monday.

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters that the government is hoping he will be removed as Conservative leader at the convention here.

The government proposed to "operate by exhaustion." The move was an attempt to force the armed forces unification bill — the issue blocking passage of the supply bill — down the throats of parliamentarians.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government had led the public all week to believe civil servants would not be paid unless the supply bill was approved. Then Thursday Revenue Minister Benson, who "must have forgotten his sock until last night," announced that the necessary funds had been found.

"If I were looking for an issue on which the Canadian people would express themselves strongly, I couldn't think of a better one than the government's treatment of Parliament," the Tory leader said.

Having failed to "shove unification down our throats," the government is now trying to undermine Parliament using

Spanish Civil War All Over

MADRID (AP) — The Spanish government today decreed amnesty on all political charges dating from the civil war of 27 years ago.

A decree published in the official gazette over the signatures of Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state, and his justice minister provided the amnesty and ordered a special commission responsible for liquidation of the old political charges to implement it.

Officials would not say exactly how many Spaniards were affected by the decree. Few, if any, were believed still in prison. Most had been convicted of political crimes connected with the civil war, which cost Spain 1,000,000 lives, then given provisional liberty or parole. The war ended in April, 1939.

TAGS attached to space suits of pilots James Lovell, Jr. in front, and Edwin E. Aldrin spell out 'The End' to the Gemini space series as they headed up the ramp to board the Gemini 12 space ship at Cape Kennedy, Fla., Friday. The labels are part of the humor which has become traditional on launch pad.

Hatch Opened For Clear Look

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Edwin E. (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. poked his head outside the Gemini 12 spacecraft for more than two hours and 15 minutes today and snapped pictures of the stars and earth.

At one point, as Aldrin remarked about the "beautiful view," command pilot James A. Lovell Jr. quipped:

The final Gemini excursion, during which the heart and respiration rates of the two pilots remained remarkably normal, was a highlight of a day in which Lovell and Aldrin turned space-age astronomers, photographing celestial bodies.

Their trip will be followed by the Appollo series aimed at putting an American on the moon.

They started by photographing the moon as it moved across the sun in a spectacular solar eclipse, the first time this has been done in space.

Aldrin opened the spacecraft hatch at 11:15 a.m. EST and stayed outside for more than 1½ revolutions of the globe, about 41,000 miles at an altitude of about 175 miles.

SPACE WALK SUNDAY

During two night-time passes he was businesslike with the delicate job of photographing selected star fields.

He had some leisure time during a 55-minute daylight pass and carried on a running, often-humorous, commentary with Lovell and with ground stations.

"Tell everybody to smile down there," Aldrin told Mission Control Centre in Houston, Tex., as he prepared to take a picture of Texas.

Over Florida he said: "There's the Cape (Kennedy). I'd like to go skin-diving down there. . . . Looks like a few clouds over the Cape."

Aldrin reported at the outset that he had a slight tendency to float up when the hatch was first opened, probably because of the escape of residual air and gases in the cabin.

The moon, sun and stars occupied Aldrin and Lovell during their second day in orbit. They were busy shutterbugs as they

Air Walkout Nearer As Talks Break Down

MONTREAL (CP)—Talks to avert a scheduled strike that would close down Air Canada Monday for the first time in 29 years were suspended early today but a mediator said he will meet separately with both sides to submit proposals.

Richard Geddes of Toronto, mediator in the dispute involving about 5,200 machinists, said there was "nothing further to discuss so the talks broke off."

Negotiations between airline representatives and the International Association of Machinists were held Friday night and early today at a downtown hotel but Mr. Geddes said the sessions were unproductive.

"We had been meeting for days and could not reach an agreement."

No details of the proposals to be submitted today were given and airline and union spokesmen declined to comment on the latest moves.

The machinists have been demanding a wage increase of 20 per cent over one year. Their top pay rate now is $3.17 an hour.

The airline has offered 40 cents an hour—about 12 per cent—in wage increases over three years and an additional 3½ per cent in fringe benefits in the first year.

The strike deadline Monday is 4 p.m. local standard times across the country.

All Air Canada freight was embargoed at midnight Friday. Under the arrangement, shipments destined for outside Canada and those coming into the country will not be accepted by the airline.

However, at least six smaller companies had applied to the Air Transport Board for permission to handle additional pas-

Dief Using House to Save Leadership?

By PETER NEWMAN

OTTAWA—The mini-men who sit in the House of Commons and pretend they're running the nation's business, turned this past week from futile bickering to extravagant political farce.

Newman

There was John Diefenbaker, the prairie prophet who had come to power pledging he would restore "the rights of Parliament," trying to manipulate the delaying devices embedded in the parliamentary system, to save his party leadership.

There was Lester Pearson, the supreme fixer, who had come to office promising he would re-establish "the administrative efficiency of government," somehow scraping together $7 million to stave off a crisis that should never have happened.

The debate on Paul Hellyer's armed forces unification bill, which has now gone on for nine days, was marked by bewilderment on both sides of the Commons about how rational decisions can be reached and translated into political action.

Hellyer and his supporters viewed the whole row with disbelief, confident in their conviction that unification is in the interest of efficiency and is therefore unassailable by rational men.

OLD ARROGANCE

The defence minister's stubborness of manner in propounding this view crystalized in the minds of the members of the opposition the feeling that this was the old arrogance of the St. Laurent-Howe days come to life once more.

It's perfectly true, as Mr. Hellyer keeps repeating, that there has been plenty of opportunity for debate on his unification plans.

But it's equally true that a minority government, which by definition does not enjoy the full confidence of the people, must go more than half way to meet demands for full disclosure, so that its actions never appear tyrannical.

The fact that both sides have dug themselves into very nearly inextricable positions, demonstrated again the very different views the two major parties seem to hold of the parliamentary process.

The Conservative leader and his closest cohorts behave as if the House of Commons were an ante-room of power, a place from which the people can be maintained in a state of political excitement until the next election campaign.

The Liberals, particularly the senior members of the cabinet, act as if Parliament were a time-consuming stockholders' meeting, obstructing their administrative dream of running the country without the prying interference of opposition critics.

STUDENT'S CLAP

The week's sanest moment occurred on Tuesday afternoon when Heward Grafftey, the young Quebec Tory, complained "this place is becoming absolutely meaningless," and was applauded by students in the public galleries.

It was one of those rare occasions when the MPs, looking up at the taunting

AT BEAUTY SCHOOL

Youth Slays 5

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — An 18-year-old high school senior forced seven women and girls to lie face down on the floor of a beauty school today and shot them in the heads, killing five.

Police Sgt. Ray Gomez said Robert Smith of Mesa admitted the shooting and told him he first got the idea after reading of mass killings elsewhere.

Killed were Mrs. Joyce Sellers, 27, and her 3½-year-old daughter, Debra; Mary Margaret Olsen and Glenda Carter, all of Mesa, and Carol Farmer, Williams Air Force Base.

Mrs. Sellers' three-month-old daughter, Tammy Lynn, was critically wounded. An employee of the school, Bonita Sue Harris, was wounded less seriously.

★ ★ ★

The gunman forced the women to lie in a circle, as spokes of a wheel, and calmly walked around the outside shooting each in the back of the head.

Smith was arrested at the scene and taken, laughing to the police station.

Gomez said that after being apprised of his constitutional rights, Smith told him this story:

He first thought of returning to his home town, Houston, Mo., for a mass killing, but gave up the idea. Then he thought of invading a school and killing the teachers, but discarded that one, too.

★ ★ ★

He finally decided on the Rose-Mar College of Beauty because there would be many people there.

He bought 200 feet of nylon cord, some large plastic sandwich bags and two hunting knives. He planned to tie up the people and suffocate his victims, but found the bags were too small. ...

He arose at 6:30 a.m. today and walked 1½ miles to the school, but he discovered he was too early.

Arthur Mayse

The Remembrance Day silence is meant for all the dead soldiers, but the human mind requires a focal point, and it is my father's face that emerges as the seconds of the two-minute silence trudge past.

He soldiered through two wars and survived to conduct memorial services at various cenotaphs. But his wounds and the terrible trench winters shortened his life, and I think of him now as one of those others who died for a peace that still eludes us.

We were close, we fished and hunted together when I was a boy in his house, and in later years when time and fortune let us do so. I hoped to be with him at the end, but he went out with the dawn while the plane was still an hour from Vancouver.

So there was nothing to do but carry out such last wishes as an undemanding man lays upon those who love him. The simplest of funerals — cremation — and because he had been a soldier in South Africa and in France, Last Post for his requiem.

That seemed an easy enough request to fill, and I set about it with my mind on other matters.

He had gone out to South Africa from England as a boy; and even though that war cost him a shattered jaw and grim months in a Boer prison camp, he remembered it as a great adventure.

He spoke often of the hard riding and the big, sun-smitten country, the sky and the baboons on their kophes, the tough, slouch-hatted Boers, and young English soldiers happy because they had a river to bathe in and watermelons to share.

In those years before we acquired the long perspective, he saw himself not at all as an Imperialist invader. He nursed no guilt complex.

The other war, the big one that came when he was a settled family man in Canada, he rarely spoke of.

Once, though, as we were tramping a stump-studded logging burn that climbed to a skyline of fire-scarred snags, he began to tell me how it was at Vimy. It was there, in the hellish battle from which no man came alive except by a miracle, that he lost his best friend to the shrapnel that dropped them both.

He did not believe his friend's life was thrown away in a dubious cause, or that his own grievous wounds were for nothing. Perhaps today, he might have entertained such thoughts; but life was simpler then, and we had not learned to be skeptical.

He was a soldier in what he believed to be a good cause; he would not fight in a bad one. Later, he scornfully rejected a Black and Tan commission, and came home with his stripes and mustache to tread the ways of peace.

For all that, he wanted Last Post for his send-off, and I meant him to have it.

The army was courteous, but I gathered there were rules and regulations about the disposal of buglers, especially where civilian funerals were concerned.

The militia would have been glad to oblige, but had no bugler available.

At this point, I hunted up a newspaper chum of other years, who went red in the face, swore, and reached for his telephone.

It took him quite a few calls, but he came up with a bugler.

"It'll cost you five dollars," he said, "because the kid has to take time off from work. I don't know how good he is, either."

A few South African veterans turned up at the little church in Hastings East. They were grey-haired and solemn, and they wore their medals.

The young bugler did very well with the Last Post. He was a cadet, and he came smartly uniformed and he let the call die slowly, slowly, as the soldier's farewell should.

It is right we should honor the war dead, and that those men should be in our thoughts when the time comes for silence. But the man we best remember is the one whose life touched ours, and when Last Post sounded yesterday, the call I heard was for one who was also a soldier.

'Vast Morass of Mediocrity'

By DESMOND BILL
Education Reporter

University of Victoria students are going to speak their minds about the sort of education they are getting.

The Education Action Committee of students' council has formed a speaker's pool to spread the word among community and professional groups.

Stephen Gigsby, students' council president, said many students look on the educational system as "a vast morass of mediocrity" and want it changed.

He said one symptom of the times is a student-edited "Academic Yearbook" which this year will evaluate both professors and courses at the university.

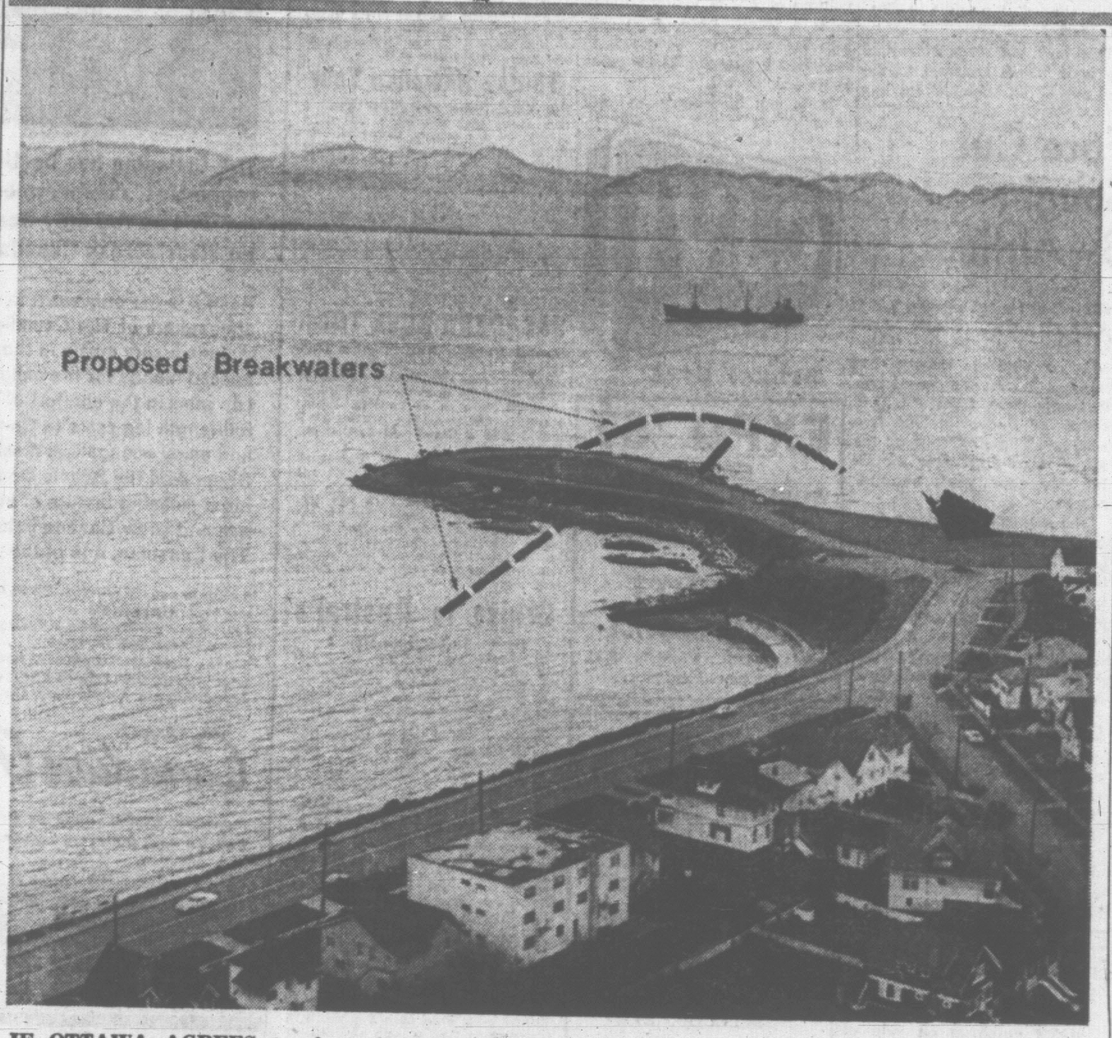
Mr. Bigsby said that "if a professor's dedication to his students is negligible, he will receive an appropriate rating, regardless of the number of articles he has published in scholarly journals."

Equally, he added, teachers who are "inspirational" and behave as "worthwhile human beings" will be given recognition that will encourage students to attend their classes.

Students are experts on education in a certain sense, said Mr. Bigsby, they experience it directly as no one else does.

And they want to let the public know what they have found out. The speaker's pool will send representatives to any group interested in hearing about education "its defects and the possibilities for improvement."

Any group interested in hearing a student speaker can contact Susan Humphries of the Education Action Committee at the Students' Union Building on the Gordon Head campus.



IF OTTAWA AGREES to share the cost Clover Point may get two breakwaters and two small boat launching ramps in 1967. Mayor A. W. Toone will present the proposal designed to make Clover Point a small boat centre later this month when he visits Ottawa. The two boat launching ramps, each with a small float for tying up, are marked by a solid black line just inside the breakwaters. Other changes in the area include the development of a parking area in the zone marked by arrow. (Bill Halkett photo).

VOTE ON DEC. 10

Esquimalt Supports Panhandle Merger

Esquimalt will support amalgamation with the View Royal panhandle but "without actively campaigning," Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant said today.

Panhandle residents "as responsible people should decide for themselves" in the Dec. 10 referendum, he said.

Reeve Bryant said it is wrong for people living outside the panhandle who will not vote on the question to be actively involved.

The vote, the second this year, was announced Thursday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Reeve Bryant said this morning he is "pleased that the minister, on his own, decided to call a second vote."

Campaigns for or against amalgamation apparently are not planned by other panhandle residents previously involved in the dispute.

VOTED MARCH 26

The last vote saw 98 in favor of amalgamation and 86 against when ballots were cast last March 26. The favorable majority of 53.2 per cent fell short of the 60 per cent required.

A 60 per cent majority is still needed for amalgamation, despite earlier suggestions that it be changed to 51 per cent, a municipal affairs department spokesman said.

Mr. Campbell said he decided on a second ballot in view of the favorable majority and recent difficulties that have arisen between Esquimalt municipality and the school board regarding provision of sewers to a school site in the panhandle.

"For these two reasons, I think it would be wise to have a review of the question by the voters again," said Mr. Campbell.

He said a returning officer will be appointed later.

Reeve Bryant said if the amalgamation vote passes "certain problems (of panhandle residents) could be very quickly resolved."

A "primary obligation" of Esquimalt if the two areas united would be to find a solution to the Christie Point school problem, he said.

Of the View Royal panhandle's present unorganized status "we like it the way it is," said C. P. Brynjolfson, manager of Christie Point Apartments, who previously vigorously opposed amalgamation.

Mrs. W. P. Rankin, 1440 Craigflower, who two years ago circulated a petition in support of amalgamation, said she plans no similar action before this vote.

But amalgamation "is inevitable. It has to come," she said.

The panhandle area is defined as lying between the Gorge, Esquimalt Harbor and the Songhees and Esquimalt Indian Reserves, Esquimalt municipal limits and the section line dividing Sections Two and Three in Esquimalt land district.

Councillor to Push Recreation, Sewers

One of four priority items for Saanich next year is a training and promotion scheme for the fire department, a candidate for election said today.

Coun. Alan Newberry said it is in the interests of morale, incentive and efficiency that there be such a scheme "based on the premise that men from within the department may be prepared to assume positions of responsibility."

Coun. Newberry, the first to release his platform policy, said recreational facilities and sewers also are priority items for Saanich.

In addition, he said he will "oppose any rezoning applications for industry that will lead to an increase in air, land or water pollution."

Coun. Newberry, 29, an elementary school principal, was elected one year ago when council was expanded by two seats. All four terms being contested next month are for two years.

Heavy Damage To Police Car; Woman Injured

Mrs. Dorothy White, 61, of 737 Courtney, suffered head injuries, a broken wrist and bruises and abrasions to her arms and legs in the accident on Quadra at North Park shortly after 2 a.m.

A traffic report said the cruiser, driven by Constable Fred Beard, was southbound on Quadra and had stopped to make a left turn when struck by the White auto.

Constable Beard and Constable Allan Archibald were released after a checkup at hospital. Both autos were heavily damaged.

FOUR TREATED

Police said a car driven by Ian Gallipo, 16, of 2833 Adelaide was westbound across Douglas when it was in collision with a southbound auto driven by Barbara Partridge, 17, of Anderson Road, Sooke.

The drivers, Marilyn Partridge and Mrs. J. Gallipo all received minor injuries. Damage to the cars was estimated at $700.

INTERNAL INJURIES

Police said the Lewis car was southbound on Douglas and making a left turn onto Topaz when it was in collision with a car driven by Robert Walton 4060 Quadra, heading north on Douglas. A passenger, Richard Hall, 18, of 4220 Quadra was admitted to hospital with head cuts.

District Comes Up Smiling After Near-Hurricane Wind

The wind howled and rain pelted down but the weekending capital district took it on the chin and came up smiling.

Well, almost smiling. Special crews of B.C. Hydro and B.C. Telephone linemen were turned out to repair a flurry of service interruptions. Highway crews had a few fallen trees to contend with.

The Victoria weather office on Gonzales Hill reported the gale peaked at 3 a.m. The 71-m.p.h. gusts would have been damaging if prolonged. (Hurrican force is a continuous 72-m.p.h. blow.)

But the average wind force between midnight and 6 a.m. was just a vigorous 40. Soon after daylight this had dropped to 35 with gusts up to 50. Overnight rainfall was .21 inches, easily handled by storm drains in most cases.

Hydro reported some lights out in Sannich, Central Saanich and along Kangaroo Road, Esquimalt Lagoon area and Gordon Head. But the troubles were in hand and the damage less than a good snowfall would create, officials said.

B.C. Telephone reported some trouble in the Belmont-Sooke area but "everything just about normal," elsewhere. A few lines were down on the Gulf Islands.

Ferries, marinas, police and firemen had little to report.

Four poles were reported down in urban areas.

The remainder of the weekend was expected to be cloudy with sunny periods—well suited to raking the leaves brought down Friday and today.

'TWO-TIME LOSER' JAILED

A man twice caught driving while his licence was under suspension was sentenced to 10 days in jail when he appeared today in central court.

Lloyd Sagmoen, address unavailable, was stopped by police Oct. 8 near Courtenay and again in Victoria Nov. 10.

He pleaded guilty to both charges, and to a speeding charge for which he was fined $25.

YEAR SUSPENSION

A man was barred from driving for a year and fined $350 when he pleaded guilty to driving while impaired Friday.

Court was told Kenneth Haun, 1022 Collinson, drove his car into another on Vancouver shortly before midnight causing $1,250 damage.

James Bardwell, HMCS Yukon, was fined $250 and had his licence suspended for six months when he pleaded guilty to driving while impaired Friday.

He was arrested following an accident on Gorge Road.

John Dyson, 930 Jasmine, was fined a total of $175 on two related charges.

He pleaded guilty to careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident in which he was involved Nov. 5.

Court was told Dyson's car struck two cars on Quadra causing a total damage of $1,700.

His licence was also suspended for six months.

Chess Club To Host Nanaimo Players

The Silver Threads Chess Club will host the Nanaimo chess club at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Senior Citizens' Activity centre, No. 4 Centennial Square.

Hooligans Attack Schools

A fourth school was broken into and a radio and $12 in cash stolen.

Hardest hit was Claremont Senior Secondary School where 29 windows worth $600 were smashed. The vandals used stones and timbers, sometimes heaving the two-by-fours through the last windows broken after using them to break others first.

Seventeen windows which will cost $400 to replace were broken on the west side of Cordova Bay School. Another dozen panes valued at $300 were shattered on the east side of Lochside School.

GLASS SMASHED

Glass in a door at Cedar Hill School was smashed to gain entry in the burglary.

Saanich detectives have been investigating the vandalism since it was reported Friday morning. They are asking that anyone who heard or saw anything suspicious in the vicinity of the schools call the police office at 388-4321.

Residents near Cordova Bay and Lochside schools reported hearing a car roar from the scene about 1 a.m. Friday after the sound of breaking glass was heard.

Dr. Hitschmanova will meet speak on the group's work at a coffee party Friday from 2 to 4 p.m. at St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora. All interested people are invited.

Retired City Businessman Dies at 67

William Samuel McIlwaine, for many years a partner in McIlwaine Van and Storage Ltd., died Friday at his home, 3037 Carroll.

Mr. McIlwaine, 67, retired from business 11 years ago.

For many years he and his brother Clifford operated the family business founded by their father in the city's horse-and-buggy days. They sold out in 1955.

Mr. McIlwaine is survived by the widow, Elsie; his daughters, Miss Pearl McIlwaine, Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. J. W. Rose, all of Victoria; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Sands Memorial Chapel of Chimes, followed by cremation.

Lifeboat Rescues Two Fishermen Clinging to Rock

Two men were brought to safety at Bamfield early today four hours after their small fishing boat sank in heavy seas.

Caught With Ferries Down; Extra Sailings Clear Decks

Get there by B.C. Ferries — sometime.

The slogan was coined Thursday by hundreds of weekenders who waited up to five hours to make the Island-mainland crossing.

Officials were caught with their ferries down as unexpected crowds decided to spend the long weekend away from home.

From 1 p.m. on, an ever-increasing lineup of cars gathered on both sides of the Gulf of Georgia — at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen.

It wasn't cleared until 1 a.m. Friday after two extra sailings.

The same situation existed at Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay where holidaying loggers from Gold River added to the buildup of traffic.

ALDOUS

"If the weather's bad, traffic is light. If it's good, as it was on Thursday, it's heavy."

"When the holiday falls on a weekday it's not so easy to take care of.

"Staff have to be paid overtime and then there are ferries in refit.

"We did the best we could by having extra sailings at 11 p.m. and 1 a.m. from all the terminals. No one was left behind."

A spokesman at Nanaimo said the traffic built up suddenly during the afternoon following a relatively quiet morning.

From 1 p.m. on, every ferry was packed tight, meaning a total of more than 700 cars made the trip to the mainland.

New British Bid To Join Market

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson has announced he will soon make a "new high-level approach" to the European Common Market to find out whether Britain can join the six-nation community.

He also told the House of Commons he will convoke a conference in London in the next few weeks of heads of government of the seven countries in the rival European Free Trade Association to discuss possibilities that they might join the Common Market also.

The six countries of the European Economic Community, formal name of the Common Market, are Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and The Netherlands.

The purpose of these talks, Wilson said, "would be to establish whether it appeared likely that essential British and Commonwealth interests could be safeguarded if Britain accepted the Rome Treaty and joined the EEC."

The British government will then make up its mind whether to renew its bid to join the market, a bid that was vetoed in January, 1963, by President de Gaulle of France.

HOME-MADE BOMB FOUND AT MARINA

Police turned the small taped jar with protruding wires over to navy demolition experts. No report has been received yet on the nature of the device, officers said today.

A marina employee said the "bomb" consisted of a face cream jar filled with an unidentified powder. The wires projecting from it were connected to the filament of a light bulb.

"It might have caused quite a bit of grief if put across the ignition of a boat," he suggested.

5 Musicians Eye Trip To Rose Bowl

Five local youngsters this week qualified for a chance to spend Christmas night and the week after in sunny California with all expenses paid.

They will be part of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses New Year's Day, appear on TV in the Rose Parade, and witness the Rose Bowl game.

The five, are musicians in local school bands who were picked as semi-finalists for the Robin Hood Band, sponsored by the Independent Order of Foresters.

They were chosen from 20 young Island musicians Wednesday night at S. J. Willis junior secondary, by Lt.-Cmdr. Tudor Jones, Senior service band director in Canada.

The five are: Don Mayer, 17, clarinet; Glen Thompson, 17, trumpet: and Ian Fetterley, 15, trombone, all of Mount View; Walt Kellythorne, 17, drums, Oak Bay senior secondary; and Robert Baxter, 17, euphonium, Mount Douglas.

A close score in their Wednesday auditions resulted in five of the students being chosen instead of the expected four.

Tapes of the youngsters' playing will now be sent to officials of the 155-piece band in California for final selection.

Highway Ferry Workers 'Have a Case'

Premier Bennett Wednesday conceded highways department ferry employees seeking equality of treatment with B.C. Ferry Authority employees have a case.

"I'm not in a position to comment," the premier said. "But I do understand they have a case to present to the Civil Service commission.

"The commission will decide their case. That's what it's for.

The 250 highways department ferry employees are objecting to regular shifts of as many as 17½ hours with straight time off instead of overtime pay.

B.C. Appeals Decision On Juveniles

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada opened hearings this week on a British Columbia appeal case that challenges the right of Parliament to exclude juveniles from the provisions of provincial laws.

The attorneys-general of B.C., Ontario and Quebec are pitted against the federal justice department on the issue, which arose from a simple speeding ticket issued in Prince George, B.C., in July, 1964.

A 17-year-old Prince George boy was charged under the B.C. Motor Vehicles Act with exceeding the limit in a 30-mile-an-hour zone. He was tried in adult court where he pleaded not guilty, but was fined $400 or 90 days. Maximum is $500 or 90 days.

The boy's lawyer, Frank Perry, appealed to the B.C. Supreme Court on grounds that the 1908 federal Juvenile Delinquents Act takes precedence over provincial law. The court quashed the conviction.

A subsequent appeal by the B.C. attorney - general's office was lodged with the B.C. Court of Appeal. This court upheld the decision of the lower court on a 3-2 decision.

B.C. has now taken the issue to the Supreme Court of Canada with support from Ontario and Quebec. All three contend that the British North America Act, which sets the boundaries of federal and provincial jurisdiction, clearly gives the provinces control in highway traffic regulation.

Definitions of a juvenile vary among the provinces. It is under 16 years in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario and Saskatchewan, under 17 in Newfoundland, under 18 in Quebec, Manitoba and British Columbia and a mixture in Alberta—under 16 for boys and under 18 for girls.

The federal government is arguing that its statute falls under the BNA provision that Parliament has jurisdiction over criminal law "in the widest sense." This clearly excluded juveniles from trial or punishment by provincial law.

Man Convicted Of Assaulting Pensioner, 72

Gerald Meyer, 1139 McClure, was fined $100 Thursday when convicted in central court of assaulting a 72-year-old man.

Magistrate Ostler described Meyer's attack on Edward Galeow, 1015 Princess, on the porch of his apartment home early on the morning of Oct. 23 as "outrageous and indefensible."

Mr. Galeow, his wife and another tenant told the court they thought the noise they heard the accused making was the sound of him beating his girl friend.

It had been a long time since he had heard "two such unreliable and dishonest witnesses," the magistrate said of the defence evidence.

Mock Racing Costs Youth $150 Fine

A youth whose car sheared off a power pole and five small trees in an accident five weeks ago told police he had been pretending he was a racing driver.

Richard Neil, 1421 Beatty Street, was fined $150 when he pleaded guilty in central court Thursday to careless driving. His driving licence was also suspended.

He was fined an additional $35 when he admitted to being a minor in possession of liquor.

The charges arose from an accident on the West Saanich Road near Hartland Road, Oct. 2, when Neil's car travelled 450 yards out of control. One of three passengers suffered severe chest injuries, court was told.

Paper Bares More German Executions

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says an Associated Press dispatch published in a 1945 edition of Stars and Stripes, the United States Army newspaper, reported that 10 Germans in the hands of the Canadian Army in Holland after the war were executed by order of their officers.

The report said the men were caught trying to escape as civilians, and after a summary trial were sentenced to be executed. It said Canadians supplied the rifles and ammunition for the May 15, 1945, executions.

The Telegram published a photostat of the Stars and Stripes story dated May 17, 1945.

The executions appeared to be in addition to the two already under investigation by the Canadian defence department.

Navy Praised for Role As Boy Scout Mentors

And well there should be with 80 navy men from Esquimalt serving as local leaders.

In a letter to Pacific Maritime Commander Rear-Admiral John A. Charles, regional scout commissioner W. H. Gibson commented this week:

I wish to thank you "for the valued service being rendered by members of the services stationed in Victoria."

He pointed out that naval personnel account for 20 per cent of the active adult scout leaders who number 439. At the same time, both army and air force personnel act as leaders.

He added: "The support which our movement has received from your command in training courses, facilities and the loan of equipment is acknowledged with deep appreciation."

Pipeline Firms' Net Income Jumps

OTTAWA (CP) — Net income of oil pipeline companies rose 16.5 per cent to $23,300,000 in the first six months of 1966 from $20,000,000 for the same period in 1965, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported today. Net income of gas pipeline companies increased by 13.6 per cent to $13,400,000.

Nuclear Sub Planned

LONDON (Reuters)— Britain plans to order a sixth nuclear-powered submarine costing about £20,000,000 ($60,000,000) early in the new year, bringing the planned total force to 10. The new submarine, built for anti-submarine warfare, will join five others of this type. Britain also has four Polaris-type ballistic missile submarines under construction.

$20 Million School Debentures Sold

British Columbia's $20 million in school debentures has all been bought, perhaps largely by the provincial government, Premier Bennett revealed Wednesday.

The premier refused to identify the buyers of the debentures, earlier reported to be moving slowly.

He declined to comment on the possibility that the provincial government bought up the unsold debentures with provincial funds, such as pension funds, but added:

"If you didn't invest in something like that what better investment would there be?"

MARKET SUMMARIES

Western Oils Score Gains

TORONTO (CP) — Western oils scored one of their sharpest gains this year on the Toronto Stock Exchange Friday as the market advanced for its fourth consecutive session.

The oil index, an indicator of how key oil stocks move, jumped 3.11 to 117.95 after climbing 2.53 on Thursday.

Analysts attribute the jump to anticipation of drilling results expected within the next few months from the Rainbow and Zama Lake regions of northwestern Alberta.

Banff climbed 1 to 14¾, Hudson's Bay ¾ to 22¾, Great Plains ⅝ to 11⅝ and Canadian Superior ½ to 27¼.

Industrials were led higher by Interprovincial Pipe Line which gained 2¼ to 80. Inco was up 1 to 87, Distillers ⅞ to 33⅞ and Falconbridge ⅝ to 86.

On index, industrials were up .52 to 145.34 and the TSE .53 to 139.30. Base metals were down .35 to 89.34 and golds .59 to 137.98. Volume was 2,431,000 shares against 2,830,000 Thursday.

Trading was the lightest since Monday because many financial institutions were closed for Remembrance Day.

Prices were slighly higher at the opening, dropped back about the middle of the session and then recouped.

Bethlehem Steel, which declared a special year-end dividend of 30 cents a common share, advanced more than a point. Republic Steel, which raised prices for stainless steel sheet and strip, also was up more than a point.

Massey-Ferguson appeared likely to be the most active stock. Farm implement issues have been active this week following an increase in prices.

AT MONTREAL prices were marginally higher Friday.

Industrial volume was 263,000 and mines and oils 622,800.

AT VANCOUVER prices were generally a little higher Friday in an abbreviated trading session.

Most of the activity was in mines, Madrona leading trading at 53,800 shares to close at $1.70, up .02. Brenda was up .25 at $8.35 and Dynasty climbed .30 to $7.25. Highmont was a heavy trader at 26,350 shares and closed at $1.97, off .06.

Biggest loser was Lornex, off .45 at $5.40, on 5,560 shares. Silver Arrow was off .03 at .45 on 48,200 shares.

In the oils, Share traded 31,500 and closed at .53, off .02. Futurity, at .73, was up .04 in 8,500 shares. Royal American climbed .05 on 13,200 shares and closed at $1.65.

Buyers Saved $1 Million Probe Told

OTTAWA (CP) — General Foods Ltd. claimed Thursday that the effect of its price changes in the last 18 months has been to save its customers $1,000,000 a year.

It said prices of 36 of its products were unchanged during that period, prices of eight increased and prices of nine were reduced.

In sum, only 2.5 per cent of its product volume costs more as it leaves General Foods plants than it did on March 1, 1965, the company told the Senate-Commons committee on living costs.

The main lines of the company are coffee and packaged desserts, but it also turns out cereals, beverages, frozen foods, dog foods and baking ingredients.

Executives of the American-owned company were questioned about the net profit of 3.6 per cent they showed for their Post cereals. Earlier in the day Kellogg Co. of Canada Ltd., exclusively a cereal manufacturer with half the Canadian market, showed a net profit of 11.31 per cent.

General Foods president James W. Andrews said he guesses Kellogg's "are just smarter than we are."

General Foods sales in 1965-66 totalled $97,600,000 and its profits after taxes were $4,800,000, or 4.9 per cent of sales.

Share Split Approved

VANCOUVER (CP) — A four-for-one split of the shares of Western Pacific Products and Crude Oil Pipelines Ltd. was approved at a shareholder meeting this week.

The split will be effective for shareholders of record Nov. 25 and the sub-divided shares will be called for trading on stock exchanges Nov. 28.

Douglas Owen, company president, said that Wespac, which operates a 525-mile pipeline from Taylor, B.C., to Savona where it flows into the Trans Mountain pipeline, said the company at present has issued 1,625,000 shares.

Close to half of these, he said, are held by Westcoast Transmission Company, which meant that few shares were available for trading.

WE CAN'T OFFER A 100% SAFE INVESTMENT

. . . and nor can anyone else!

"SAFE" infers a guarantee that there is no risk of loss. Well, when you really stop and think about it, there is nothing that secure. On the other hand, carefully chosen investments can reduce the risk to a very low point, and this is what the prudent investor should be interested in . . . for company "guarantees" can only be as good as the company's assets.

The assurance of small risk can be better obtained by getting the facts behind the company with whom you are considering investing, a study of the company's assets should tell you whether or not the directors are handling funds in a manner you readily can recognize as sound. If you have any doubt, DON'T TAKE ON THE INVESTMENT!

Furthermore, size or age of the company does not always insure against loss. An exceptionally large company in the East went under recently—it was formed over 70 years ago! It is reported the shareholders, who had little knowledge of the company's business, were shocked to learn that one of the bad debts, alone over a half-million dollars, was made to an individual on a Promissory Note, WITH NO SECURITY!

Make the facts speak for themselves! There is little cash value in the words "safe," "guaranteed" or "secure," when a company liquidates.

More Freedom For Servants In Politics?

OTTAWA (CP) — The ticklish question of political activity by federal civil servants is about to be resolved, with all indicators pointing to greater political freedom.

After many meetings, the Senate-Commons committee on the public service has whittled its study of the proposed Public Service Employment Act down to the section dealing with political activity.

The present act and the proposed legislation bar all civil servants from practically all forms of political activity—except the right to vote. However, since hearings on the proposed bill began, speakers from all parties, and public service and other unions have indicated they favor greater political freedom.

Revenue Minister Benson, who in his other cabinet role as treasury board president is destined to become the management voice when another proposed bill gives federal employees collective bargaining, introduced the political-activity section this way:

In an interview Friday, he said the government has a "completely open mind in this regard." He personally felt an extension in political freedom was in order.

WILL AFFECT ALL

The present and proposed sections warn that all public employees—some 200,000 will be affected by the proposed legislation—may not engage in partisan politics, including soliciting or making campaign contributions. The penalty is dismissal.

FAVORS INCREASE

Richard A. Bell, Conservative member for Ottawa's Carleton riding and a former citizenship minister, says his party has no official position on the question. He favors increased participation in politics.

His position, he said, is much like that expressed in a memorandum to the committee by the independent Civil Service Commission, which administers the act.

The memorandum outlined a system in which junior civil servants could be given complete freedom to participate in partisan politics, those in medium-echelon jobs be given limited freedom, and senior officials remain under a complete bar.

PRESS FOR FREEDOM

The 115,000-member Public Service Alliance is on record as saying government employees "should be as free as any other citizens to take a normal interest in the political affairs of their country."

However, alliance spokesmen drew the line at civil servants speaking or canvassing openly on behalf of federal or provincial candidates. But there should be no restrictions on participation in municipal politics.

With the government's "open mind" on the question, a committee recommendation granting civil servants greater political freedom may be just around the corner.

Counselling Course Offered

So far, 24 chiefs and petty officers have received the training, which equips them for counselling sailors approaching their re-engagement period.

The men provide current information on service benefits and civilian labor market conditions.

Day-Night Sessions Off

OTTAWA — The government has abandoned its plan to have the Commons begin 24-hour sittings Monday, Government House Leader McIlraith said today.

"... Unless Dief comes up with something new," the House will proceed with normal sitting hours, he said.

Formal notice of motion that Commons sittings would continue without a break until passage of an interim supply bill was given Thursday — before Revenue Minister Benson announced the necessary funds to meet government bills had been found.

Mr. McIlraith said the original move was "a very good one in the circumstances."

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker had denounced the proposed round-the-clock sittings as a Liberal move to embarrass him at the national Conservative convention, which starts here Monday.

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters that the government is hoping he will be removed as Conservative leader at the convention here.

The government proposed to "operate by exhaustion." The move was an attempt to force the armed forces unification bill — the issue blocking passage of the supply bill — down the throats of parliamentarians.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government had led the public all week to believe civil servants would not be paid unless the supply bill was approved. Then Thursday Revenue Minister Benson, who "must have forgotten his sock until last night," announced that the necessary funds had been found.

"If I were looking for an issue on which the Canadian people would express themselves strongly, I couldn't think of a better one than the government's treatment of Parliament," the Tory leader said.

Having failed to "shove unification down our throats," the government is now trying to undermine Parliament using

Spectacular Eclipse of Sun Photographed by Astronauts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Edwin E. (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. poked his head outside the Gemini 12 spacecraft for more than two hours and 15 minutes today and snapped pictures of the stars and earth.

At one point, as Aldrin remarked about the "beautiful view," command pilot James A. Lovell Jr. quipped:

The final Gemini excursion, during which the heart and respiration rates of the two pilots remained remarkably normal, was a highlight of a day in which Lovell and Aldrin turned space-age astronomers, photographing celestial bodies.

Their trip will be followed by the Appollo series aimed at putting an American on the moon.

They started by photographing the moon as it moved across the sun in a spectacular solar eclipse, the first time this has been done in space.

Aldrin opened the spacecraft hatch at 11:15 a.m. EST and stayed outside for more than 1½ revolutions of the globe, about 41,000 miles at an altitude of about 175 miles.

SPACE WALK SUNDAY

During two night-time passes he was businesslike with the delicate job of photographing selected star fields.

He had some leisure time during a 55-minute daylight pass and carried on a running, often-humorous, commentary with Lovell and with ground stations.

"Tell everybody to smile down there," Aldrin told Mission Control Centre in Houston, Tex., as he prepared to take a picture of Texas.

Over Florida he said: "There's the Cape (Kennedy). I'd like to go skin-diving down there. . . . Looks like a few clouds over the Cape."

Aldrin reported at the outset that he had a slight tendency to float up when the hatch was first opened, probably because of the escape of residual air and gases in the cabin.

The moon, sun and stars occupied Aldrin and Lovell during their second day in orbit. They were busy shutterbugs as they

Mass Murders In Beauty Shop

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—A high school student calmly executed five persons, including a mother and three-year-old daughter, today in a bloody climax to a three-month plan of wanton murder, police said.

Each of the victims was shot twice in the back of the head as the killer methodically reloaded his six-shot 22-calibre revolver, investigators said. Two other victims were wounded by the slayer.

The suspect was identified as Robert Banjamin Smith, 18, a senior at Mesa High School in this suburban town 15 miles east of Phoenix.

Arresting officers said Smith showed "no remorse" when he was picked up at the scene of the mass slayings — a beauty school. A witness at a nearby shop said Smith was laughing when police led him from the school.

They quoted him as saying he "wanted to get known . . . just wanted to get himself a name."

Police said they advised Smith of his constitutional rights but that he "waived them" and admitted the shootings.

Smith was to be arraigned immediately on five counts of murder and two counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

According to police, Smith had planned a mass shooting for "at least three months" and had chosen another beauty school as his target.

CHANGED MIND

But he told police he changed his mind Friday night and rejected the first choice because it was too small and he thought that the Rose Mar College of Beauty suited his purposes best.

To carry out the savage plan, investigators said Smith prepared a checklist, acquired rope, plastic bags, a hunting knife, and ammunition for his revolver.

His original plan, according to police, was to tie the plastic bags over the heads of his intended victims and suffocate them and "perhaps to stab them."

Smith arrived at the beauty school shortly after it opened in the morning and when none of the young women in there paid any attention to him he fired a shot into a mirror.

He then herded them into a rear room and ordered them to lie face down on the floor.

He then went around to each victim and shot them in the back of the head, some of them twice, reloading the revolver two and possibly three times.

PROTECTED BY BODY

"I have just shot some people back there," Johnson quoted Smith as saying. "The gun is in the sack."

The dead were identified as Mrs. Joyce Sellers, 27, her three-year-old daughter Debra, Mary Olson, 18; Glenda Carter, 18, and Carol Farmer, 19. All of the

TALKS BREAK OFF

Air Canada Strike Nearer

MONTREAL (CP)—Talks to avert a scheduled strike that would close down Air Canada Monday for the first time in 29 years were suspended early today but a mediator said he will meet separately with both sides to submit proposals.

Richard Geddes of Toronto, mediator in the dispute involving about 5,200 machinists, said there was "nothing further to discuss so the talks broke off."

Negotiations between airline representatives and the International Association of Machinists were held Friday night and early today at a downtown hotel but Mr. Geddes said the sessions were unproductive.

"We had been meeting for days and could not reach an agreement."

No details of the proposals to be submitted today were given and airline and union spokesmen declined to comment on the latest moves.

The machinists have been demanding a wage increase of 20 per cent over one year. Their top pay rate now is $3.17 an hour.

The airline has offered 40 cents an hour—about 12 per cent—in wage increases over three years and an additional 3½ per cent in fringe benefits in the first year.

The strike deadline Monday is 4 p.m. local standard times across the country.

All Air Canada freight was embargoed at midnight Friday. Under the arrangement, shipments destined for outside Canada and those coming into the country will not be accepted by the airline.

However, at least six smaller companies had applied to the Air Transport Board for permission to handle additional passengers during the strike, an Air Canada spokesman said.

In addition, the CNR, CPR, bus companies and Canadian Pacific Airlines said they would be able to handle a larger number of passengers than normally. However, reservations for travel next week on some main inter-city runs were becoming difficult to obtain.

Air Canada will keep its ticket

Dief Using House to Save Leadership?

By PETER NEWMAN

Newman

OTTAWA—The mini-men who sit in the House of Commons and pretend they're running the nation's business, turned this past week from futile bickering to extravagant political farce.

There was John Diefenbaker, the prairie prophet who had come to power pledging he would restore "the rights of Parliament," trying to manipulate the delaying devices embedded in the parliamentary system, to save his party leadership.

There was Lester Pearson, the supreme fixer, who had come to office promising he would re-establish "the administrative efficiency of government," somehow scraping together $7 million to stave off a crisis that should never have happened.

The debate on Paul Hellyer's armed forces unification bill, which has now gone on for nine days, was marked by bewilderment on both sides of the Commons about how rational decisions can be reached and translated into political action.

Hellyer and his supporters viewed the whole row with disbelief, confident in their conviction that unification is in the interest of efficiency and is therefore unassailable by rational men.

OLD ARROGANCE

The defence minister's stubborness of manner in propounding this view crystalized in the minds of the members of the opposition the feeling that this was the old arrogance of the St. Laurent-Howe days come to life once more.

It's perfectly true, as Mr. Hellyer keeps repeating, that there has been plenty of opportunity for debate on his unification plans.

But it's equally true that a minority government, which by definition does not enjoy the full confidence of the people, must go more than half way to meet demands for full disclosure, so that its actions never appear tyrannical.

The fact that both sides have dug themselves into very nearly inextricable positions, demonstrated again the very different views the two major parties seem to hold of the parliamentary process.

The Conservative leader and his closest cohorts behave as if the House of Commons were an ante-room of power, a place from which the people can be maintained in a state of political excitement until the next election campaign.

The Liberals, particularly the senior members of the cabinet, act as if Parliament were a time-consuming stockholders' meeting, obstructing their administrative dream of running the country without the prying interference of opposition critics.

The week's sanest moment occurred on Tuesday afternoon when Heward Grafftey, the young Quebec Tory, complained "this place is becoming absolutely meaningless," and was applauded by students in the public galleries.

It was one of those rare occasions when the MPs, looking up at the taunting

Spanish Civil War All Over

MADRID (AP) — The Spanish government today decreed amnesty on all political charges dating from the civil war of 27 years ago.

A decree published in the official gazette over the signatures of Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state, and his justice minister provided the amnesty and ordered a special commission responsible for liquidation of the old political charges to implement it.

Green Berets Shot By Viet Friendlies

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese Rangers today assaulted a U.S. Special Forces building at Hon Quan, 70 miles north of Saigon, and two Americans were wounded, reliable sources said.

Tempers flared, informants said, after trouble had been building up during the week.

These sources said the Rangers used two armored personnel carriers to knock down part of the wall at the recreation club used by the members of the Green Beret Special Forces team stationed at Hon Quan, then fired into the building with automatic weapons.

There have been reports of friction between some South Vietnamese Rangers and American troops in the region of the last few weeks, and the incident today was believed to be the climax of bitterness on both sides. One account said an American soldier had been killed in a club there recently, and that a South Vietnamese soldier had been beaten up in retaliation.

RUSSIANS WALK OUT OF CHINESE RALLY

PEKING (Reuters)—Diplomats of the Soviet Union and its East European allies today walked out of a mass rally marking the centenary of the birth of Sun Yat-sen, the Chinese revolutionary leader.

Speaking to 10,000 persons in the vast "great hall of the people," Premier Chou En-lai had accused the present Soviet leaders of betraying Lenin and the Russian revolution.

Most of China's top leaders except Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his heir-apparent Lin Piao were at the rally, held to honor the memory of the man who overthrew the Manchu dynasty in 1911.

They must have realized that in the past decade of their discontent, power has mysteriously oozed away from Ottawa, and that even Parliament's best debates have now taken on an air of irrelevance and unreality. Like courtiers involved in ceremonial rituals whose meaning has been lost, the MPs then spent the rest of the week unleashing a torrent of words, in an unrelieved search for some purpose to their fury.

RESENTMENT

The debate could hardly have come at a more opportune time for the Diefenbaker partisans among the Tories. Paul Hellyer's habit of either lecturing to the House, or disdainflly dismissing opposition claims, has roused such resentment that even the most anti-Diefenbaker Conservatives feel strongly that the unification bill should go to a parliamentary committee before its second reading.

They point out that this is one of those unusual occasions when the opposition should not be forced to vote for or against the principles of a bill, until they've had a better chance to study exactly what these principles are.

At the same time, they're afraid of being put in a position of opposing their leader on the issue, because this would allow him to go before the party's annual meeting next week and claim that he had tried to push Hellyer's bill into a committee and the "Camp-followers" had betrayed him.

ONLY LIGHT

The outcome of the Conservative convention now depends on what kind of agenda Dalton Cam's supporters can get approved by the party's national executive, which is meeting in Ottawa on Sunday. Camp can still carry the day, if he can get the election of officers (which is by secret ballot) on the agenda for sometime Tuesday, before John Diefenbaker gets a standing vote of approval of his leadership. Only eight of the 21 members of the resolutions committee, which drafted the Diefenbaker-slanted confidence motions late this week, were known Camp supporters. But on the national executive, Camp is thought to have a slim majority.

This was already evident last year at a national executive meeting when only the abstention of the party's principal officers from voting on Leon Balcer's call for a leadership convention saved Diefenbaker's position.

If Dalton Camp is re-elected president of the PC Association, he'll declare that he has won his mandate for a reassessment of the party's leadership, and call a convention to pick John Diefenbaker's successor for November, 1967, two years from the date of the last general election.

On the eve of the Tory annual meeting, it still looks as though Camp will have his way, but political conventions have an alchemy all their own. And as this week in the House of Commons showed, in contemporary Canadian politics, anything can happen.

victims except Miss Farmer were from Mesa.

Mrs. Sellers' other daughter, three-month-old Tamara, was found shot in the arm and covered by the mother's body, apparently in a desperate effort to protect the infant.

Police said Smith told them he had not planned on children being at the beauty school. The three-year-old girl was shot in the back of the head as the other dead were.

The mass murders were reported to police by proprietor Bert Freestone and another employee, Mrs. Evelyn Cummings. They said the slayer was laughing when they arrived.

methods with political overtones, he said.

As far as dredging up the necessary $7 million to pay salaries and urgent accounts, that was nothing more than blackmail and gross deception, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

He found it difficult to credit that after days of so-called crisis the government had suddenly been able to discover the necessary money to carry on.

The government's economic practices at best must be either stupid or inefficient, said Mr. Diefenbaker.

"The government has made mistakes before but never has it been shown up for its hypocrisy as in the last few days."

The Conservatives have been pressing the government to send the forces unification bill to committee before the measure gets second reading—approval in principle. The government insists the bill get second reading first, then further debate can follow in committee.

Mr. Pearson said his government will stake its life on the bill.

Air Canada President Gordon McGregor told union negotiators Friday that he is not going to premit the company's profit position to change because of union demands. It had a net profit of $3,989,960 in 1965.

He said the company is most unwilling to accept demands which will amount to a $15,000,000 pay increase and put the airline in the red.

"I don't intend to see the company put in that position," Mr. McGregor said.

Air Canada spokesmen said air mail deliveries in Canada normally handled by the company probably would be taken over by other air lines in the event of a strike.

Airmail operations to and from overseas would be taken over by the national airlines of the countries concerned.

Any strike will halt all flights into and out of Victoria once it starts.

There are six flights to Vancouver and two to Seattle on Monday.

Villages Cut Off

ROME (UPI)—Thousands of Italian army troops battled rain and mud today to reach isolated villages in northern Italy cut off by raging floods and killer avalanches. But their efforts were hurt by fresh rainstorms that grounded helicopters and threatened new mudslides.

Union Takes Exception To O'Neal Statements

A Canadian pulp workers' union said today an official of the rival international union "had no alternative" but to say he welcomed and would cooperate with a royal commission.

The statement by the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada followed comments from Pat O'Neal, regional organizer for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Premier Bennett ordered the royal commission after bugging devices were placed in hotel rooms occupied by the Canadian union for its convention in Vancouver.

Mr. O'Neal said he hired a private investigator to get evidence of efforts by the Canadian union to intimidate members of his union. He denied he knew bugging devices were to be used.

The Canadian union said in a statement:

"Our union would like to make it clearly understood that the only reason it is concerned with the bugging of our convention is that it doesn't appreciate the privacy of its meetings being violated.

"It did, however, take exception to the innuendoes that have been printed and heard on radio and television.

"We find it hard to believe that anyone can be so gullible as to believe any of Pat O'Neal's statements when, in fact, he denied any knowledge of any of the aspects of the bugging until such time as the investigator he hired decided to talk.

"He then had no alternative but to say he would co-operate and welcome a royal commission so as to try and better his own position.

"It is actions such as these plus many others that led us to form the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada."

The royal commission, under retired county court Judge R. A. Sargent, is expected to start hearings next week.

The Canadian union was formed in January, 1963, and has five locals with 2,000 members in B.C. The international represents about 6,000 pulp workers in the province.

An almost parallel breakaway occurred in the U.S. in 1964 when the Western Association of Pulp and Paper Workers took over bargaining rights for 21,000 workers from Pulp-Sulphite and the United Papermakers and Paperworkers.

Charges and denials from both sides have involved such alleged issues as union corruption, lack of internal democracy and communism.

The Canadian union tried to get bargaining rights at four B.C. mills this summer but was turned down by the Labour Relations Board because of technical irregularities.

A later application to decertify the international union at the Harmac mill near Nanaimo also was turned down because the board was not satisfied the international had ceased to represent the employees.

The five locals of the Canadian union are at Crofton, Castlegar, Prince Rupert, Woodfibre and Vancouver.

For 10 minutes they aimed three cameras as the new moon slipped steadily across the face of the sun, briefly blotting it out in a rare total eclipse that lasted seven or eight seconds.

First, and before standing up, Aldrin performed calesthenics for about 30 seconds, moving his hands back and forth from his lap to his helmet at the rate of about once a second. Heart, respiration and other readings were to be compared with those obtained from similar exercise on the ground.

A major goal of the Gemini 12 flight—and Aldrin's three excursions outside — is to learn how effectively man can work in space, a problem that has buffaloed scientists.

Aldrin then stood up and evaluated his ability to perform simple tasks while four tethers held him firmly in his cabin while more loosely tethered Sunday.

HOPE TO FIND ANSWERS

Before speeding out over the Atlantic, Lovell and Aldrin pitched the spacecraft nose down in an apparently unsuccessful effort to photograph the giant 52-mile-wide shadow of the moon as it slid across Peru, Bolivia, Brazil and Argentina.

"We hit the eclipse right on the money," Lovell reported. "But we were unsuccessful in picking up the shadow."

Because of the possibility of eye damage, they were cautioned not to look at the sun. To reduce the danger, they pulled a shade over one window and installed a filter on the other.

They mounted three cameras —two for 16-millimetre movies and one still camera that snapped three pictures of the total eclipse at three different exposures ranging up to four seconds.

For 10 minutes, at an altitude of about 170 miles, the movie cameras recorded a partial eclipse as the moon started to obscure the sun. The total eclipse followed.

The pictures were among more than 1,000,000 that were taken of the rare eclipse—first of its kind in 18 months and only the 39th this century. In all, it was to last three hours, starting in the Pacific west of the Galapagos Islands and ending in the Atlantic southeast of Brazil.

SCIENTISTS AT WORK

Scores of scientists from around the world roamed South American skies in more than two dozen planes, aiming cameras and other equipment at the phenomena. Sounding rockets were fired from bases in Brazil and Argentina and scores of balloons and shipboard cameras were brought into play.

This dramatic treat of nature occurs only when a new moon lines itself directly between the sun and the earth when the moon is at its closest distance to earth.

During the total eclipse, when the moon completely blots out the sun, the solar corona appears, revealing the normally invisible outer layer of the solar atmosphere. Study of the corona and its gases from above the atmosphere could disclose much about the composition of the sun and perhaps provide clues to the origin of the universe.

The rendezvous with the eclipse were inserted in the Gemini 12 flight plan after it once had been erased. A faulty fuel pump on the Agena target satellite forced cancellation of a plan to use the Agena to shoot to an altitude of 450 miles and resulted in a juggling of the plan.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.
